UN Assembly Action Asked As Emergency

Secretary Would Be Empowered To Organize Troops

UNITED NATIONS. N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP) — Canada called on the U. N. emergency Assembly tonight to authorize Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to draw plans within 48 hours for an emergency international U. N. force to police the war-torn Middle East.

U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., immediately endorsed the proposal dramatically put before the Assembly by Canada's Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson.

Lodge asked the Assembly to give the Canadian resolution priority over two U.S. proposals he had made for a long-range settlement of both the Israel-Arab and Suez problems.

Pearson proposed that Hammarskjold report his plans within 48 hours after the resolution is adopted. He and Lodge pointed out that while Hammarskjold was at work, the delegates could push forward their efforts to stop the fighting at once.

Just before Pearson spoke, Arthur S. Lall of India proposed a plan sponsored by 19 Asian-African delegates. It directed Hammarskjold to seek to arrange with Britain, France and Israel for the cease-fire recommended Friday by the Assembly. It asked Hammarskjold to report results within 12

English Official Quits In Protest Of Egypt Attack

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 4 (AP)—Anthony Nutting has resigned as Britain's minister of state for foreign affairs in protest against the British French attack on Egypt.

The handsome, 36-year-old diplomat, who two years ago signed the British-Egyptian treaty to end British occupation of the Suez Canal zone, announced his resignation in a letter made public today by Prime Minister Eden.

Nutting has been a steadily rising star in the British diplomatic service. He was tapped for minister of state by Sir Winston Churchill in the reorganization of a Churchill government Oct. 18, 1954.

He has been one of two deputies to Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd. The other is Lord Reading, who speaks for the government in the House of Lords on foreign affairs. Nutting headed British delegations to the U. N. general assemblies of 1954 and 1955.

Nutting told Eden he has been in growing disagreement for some time with certain aspects of British Middle East policies.

Scattered showers were forecast last night for northeast Louisiana today and Monday. Continued mild temperatures were expected.

Arab Saboteurs Blast Oil Pipelines Through Iraq And Saudi Arabia

BEIRUT, Lebanon, Nov. 3 (AP) — Arab saboteurs blasted the Iraq Petroleum Co. pipeline at three points in Syria to stop the flow of oil from Iraq to the Mediterranean coast, company employes in Syria reported today.

The Iraqi government confirmed the oil flow has stopped.

In Damascus, Syrian Premier Sabri Assali charged the army and security forces with protection of the pipeline across the country. He issued a military order saying any attempt against oil installations would be met with severest penalty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Arabian American Oil Co. Aramco said tonight it had reports from the Middle East that its big oil pipeline from Saudi Arabia had been "blown up."

James T. Duce, a vice president of the firm, said he had no further information. He said the company was trying to check the report.

The Trans-Arabian pipeline runs from the Saudi Arabian oil fields near the Persian Gulf through Saudi Arabia, Jordan and Syria to the Mediterranean coast in Lebanon.

The pipeline — actually three separate pipes — was one of the main carriers of Middle East oil for Europe.

It had become even more vital since the Suez Canal was blocked to all ships during hostilities this week.

The reported sabotage apparently was an Arab answer to the British and French assault on Egypt.

In Baghdad, an Iraqi government spokesman confirmed that the flow of Iraqi oil had stopped from Kirkuk fields "for the time being."

Two days ago Cairo radio called on Arabs to cut supplies of oil to the British "even if it means blowing up every pipeline in the Arab world."

Cairo radio since has been silenced by British bombs.

Last Aug. 10 the International Arab Workers Syndicate meeting in Cairo adopted resolutions urging blasting of pipelines and military installations if Britain and France used force against Egypt.

Iraq Petroleum Co. owns not only the pipeline but also the concessions to Iraq's big northern oil

Childs' Employes Robbed Of $20,000 At Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 3 (AP)—A gunman held up two supermarket employes tonight and escaped with an estimated $20,000 or more.

Earl Owens, manager of Childs Food Store, and John Lemoine, an employe, were making a night deposit at a bank when the gunman held them up, took the deposit and ran to a getaway car where a companion awaited.

The gunman was described as being a white man about 21 years old, wearing a white T shirt. There was no description of his companion.

Witnesses said the car was a green and gray sedan believed to be a 1953 or 1954 Cadillac.

Police, who made the estimate of the loot, said an empty money bag was found several blocks away.

Missing Florida Negro Found In Alabama Town

ANDALUSIA, Ala., Nov. 3 (AP)—A Negro farm worker who was hauled from a Florida jail almost a week ago by a band of white men was found alive and in "good condition" at Andalusia today.

The Negro allegedly called "hello there, baby" to a white school teacher at Wildwood, Fla.

A physician said Jesse Woods, 39, had superficial wounds of the back, apparently from a beating with a leather strap. He had been missing from the Wildwood jail since Sunday.

FBI agents interviewed Woods here for several hours this afternoon but declined to release any information.

Covington County Sheriff Cliff Meredith said he took Woods into protective custody at the request of Florida authorities.

"He will be protected," the officer told a reporter.

Woods was found at the Andalusia home of E. J. Mashburn, 69, a blind Negro preacher. Mashburn said he arrived Thursday.

Andalusia is in southeast Alabama, about 30 miles from the Florida line.

Woods was taken from the Wildwood jail Sunday while it was unguarded. Police Chief Ed Mullis said he was away chasing a speeding car. Blood flecked the cell where Woods had been.

The farm worker had been locked up Saturday night on charg-

Egypt Claims Allied Attack Is Repulsed

Britain, France Deny Reports On Landing Attempts

LONDON, Sunday, Nov. 4 (AP) — The fateful leap of British and French forces into Egypt appeared ever more imminent today.

Appeals from the U. N. for a softer course were brushed aside and the die was cast for force by Britain and France.

Egyptian reports circulated by roundabout means claimed the British and French tried to land on the Suez Canal Saturday but were repulsed, with losses, by shore guns. Egypt said enemy troop carriers were sunk and captured.

The British and French denied any such losses.

The final statements through Saturday midnight from the British and French said their warplanes still were preparing the way for their land forces to kick off the offensive.

In Washington, the Egyptian Embassy released a statement received from Cairo, saying:

"We are at war with Britain and France."

This apparently was intended to counter British-French references to the fighting as "a police action."

Massing of Syrian, Iraqi and Jordanian troops in Jordan posed the threat of a second front on Israel's eastern border.

The Israelis said on the western front their advance patrols had reached the Suez Canal.

The main Israeli forces were reported about nine miles from the waterway and moving freely throughout the Sinai Peninsula, where fighting has stopped.

An Israeli spokesman said thousands of prisoners had been taken but most Egyptian officers had fled, leaving their units to be captured in Sinai.

Prime Minister Eden told the Storm Discovered East Of Florida; Beaches Flooded

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 3 (AP)—A disturbance described as an "immature hurricane" that probably won't reach storm intensity wallowed around 500 miles east of Miami tonight, kicking up squalls and troublesome tides.

Minor flooding occurred in the Greater Miami Beach and bayfront area.

Surf jumped seawalls and soaked lawns of fashionable estates along Biscayne Bay causeways between Miami and Miami Beach.

Walter Davis, U. S. weather forecaster at Miami, who described the disturbance as an immature hurricane, said it probably wouldn't develop into a full-fledged storm.

Navy Completes Evacuations Of American Citizens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—The Navy announced Saturday that evacuation of American civilians from the Middle East war zone has been completed.

It said about 2,500 men, women and children have been transported out of the battle area by ship and plane.

Some government officials and an undetermined number of private citizens who declined the offer to be evacuated are still in Egypt and Israel, the Navy said.

"All American nationals who indicated a desire for transportation to safety have been removed" from the area, the Navy announcement said.

59 Of Trapped Miners In Nova Scotia Rescued; Hope Held For Others

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia, Nov. 3 (AP) — More than half of the 113 men trapped in a coal mine explosion here since Thursday struggled out of their tomb alive today.

These 59 survivors brought with them hope that almost all would be saved. That is, all except one miner—Charles Burton, the first man to reach sunlight. He said he thought about 40 were dead deep in the rock-filled shafts. More optimistic mine officials and workers disputed his estimate.

One rescue worker said he was willing to bet that most of the miners still underground were alive. But an official said several hours later a rescued miner reported leaving eight miners behind dead.

Fourteen known dead have been counted—13 who were killed by the gas and coal dust blast in the mine's upper levels and one miner brought out with the first survivors today and pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

When announcement was made that the first survivors had been reached, anxious relatives keeping vigil at the pithead shouted with joy. Automobiles, with horns blaring, raced through this mining town of 8,000. Nearly every family in the community was involved in the disaster.

There was delay in bringing some of the men to the surface. Many were checked for injuries. Hot soup was sent down to those weakened by hunger as they waited for rescue nearly a mile underground.

Burton said the men in his section of the mine began walking and crawling to the surface Thursday night. Today they met rescue crews on the way down.

Blizzard Leaves 8 Persons Dead; Storm Abating

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The punishing blizzard that had battered Western plains states since Thursday night was fading late Saturday leaving at least eight persons dead and masses of snow choking transportation arteries.

Discovery of the body of a missing Nebraska rancher, spotted by a search plane, and two section hands found frozen to death in Montana raised the death toll to eight. Five storm connected deaths had been reported earlier.

The same clearing skies that permitted planes to take the air gave the green light to snow plows which had been held off the roads until the storm abated. The plows turned their attention first to motorists who had ridden out the storm trapped in their cars. Some had been "lost" for as long as 36 hours.

At least four western Nebraska communities were isolated by snow drifts ranging in depth to 12 feet. Telephone service to some areas remained on an "emergency only" basis and power was a touch and go proposition.

Although hundreds of cars and trucks were abandoned in eastern areas of Colorado and Wyoming,

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sunday, Nov. 4 (UP) — The United States early Sunday requested an urgent Security Council meeting later Sunday to consider the Russian attack on the Hungarian government.

VIENNA, Sunday, Nov. 4 (AP) — The Hungarian news agency MTI sent an urgent teletype message to The Associated Press office in Vienna early today saying: "Russian gangsters have betrayed us, they are opening fire on all Budapest."

(The Canadian Press reported Budapest radio, heard in Toronto late Saturday night, said Russian troops had attacked the Hungarian army in Budapest. It said Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy was reported to have appealed to the world for help. The broadcast was heard by a Hungarian-Canadian named Alexander Alt.)

Alt quoted Premier Nagy as saying in Hungarian:

("Russian troops attacked our capital today with the purpose of overthrowing the rightful government of this country. Our troops are engaged in a battle against this aggression. We appeal to the world for assistance."

(Alt said Radio Budapest played the Hungarian national anthem repeatedly after Nagy made his dramatic appeal to the world.)

"Please inform Europe and the Austrian government," the MTI statement said.

It added that MTI itself was under heavy Russian fire. It went on:

"The Russian troops suddenly attacked Budapest and the whole country. They opened fire on everybody in Hungary. It is a general attack.

"Janos Kadar (party secretary) Gyoergy Marosan and Sandor Ronai formed a new government and they started to annihilate the counterrevolution.

"They are on the Russians' side.

Condition Of Dulles Is Good After Surgery

Perforated Part Of Colon Removed During Operation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — In an emergency operation on Secretary of State Dulles, surgeons today removed a perforated section of his large intestine. He was reported to have emerged from the operation "in good condition."

Lincoln White, the State Department's press officer, said a team of four doctors performed the 2½-hour surgery at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

Dulles at first had been thought to be suffering from acute appendicitis, but White said the operation "involved the removal of a portion of the large intestine which had perforated." He said that to his knowledge, there was no indication of malignancy. He reported also that Dulles' appendix was not involved and was not removed during the operation.

White said Dulles "is resting comfortably and is in good condition," but will be unable to return to his desk for about six weeks. Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. took over as acting secretary when Dulles was taken to the hospital early today.

The operation removes Dulles from active direction of U. S. foreign policy at a time of crisis both in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East.

He was stricken only a day after he personally had sought and received U. N. General Assembly approval of a United States resolution seeking a halt to hostilities in Egypt. British, French and Israeli forces are engaged in what they call "police actions" there.

Even as Dulles was undergoing surgery, the United States sought further U. N. action on that matter and on Hungary's continuing effort to clear itself of Russian domination.

The operation was performed by Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Walter Reed commandant and the same surgeon who operated on

Student Councils' Vice Presidency Won By Neville

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3 (Special)—Neville High School, of Monroe, Louisiana, was elected "vice president" of the Southern Association of Student Councils at the group's convention here today.

Schools rather than individuals, hold the top offices of the association, and the functions of office are performed by the school's student council.

Neville is represented at the convention by Nancy Breard, Jimmy Godfrey and Martha Riser. They were accompained to the convention by Sidney A. Seegers, of the Neville faculty, who was scheduled to appear on the convention program.

The Monroe delegates are expected to return home Sunday.

Election of "officers" for the coming year was held Saturday morning.

Fourteen states are represented in the Southern association. Neville was widely supported in its bid for office. Its student council was the first one formed in Louisiana, back in 1931.

New Law Speeds Election Returns To Press, Public

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Louisiana law designed to speed up election returns will be used for the first time Tuesday.

The law, passed during the regular session of the 1956 Legislature, requires voting commissioners to give parish clerks of court copies of the election results "for use of the press and public."

The copies must be "delivered immediately following the completion of the count and tabulation of the results of the election."

Violation of the law is punishable by a maximum fine of $3,000 and two years imprisonment.

The law was drafted by Reps. C. F. Donaldson and George Tessier, both of New Orleans. It was passed unanimously by both houses.

Donaldson said one factor which led to the law was the delay in getting the results of the last voting on constitutional amendmens. He said some election commissioners put the results in an envelope, mailed them to the secretary of state and the public was in the dark for as much as 10 days in some instances.

Confident Ike Planning For Next Four-Year Term

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—President Eisenhower is so confident of victory next Tuesday he is already making plans for his next four years in the White House, intimates disclosed Saturday.

Friends who are in close touch with the Eisenhower family said Mr. Eisenhower isn't "cocky." But they said he is thinking and talking like a man who fully expects to be running the government for another term.

The President already has turned the election campaign over to his lieutenants to devote his full energies to the crises in the Middle East and Eastern Europe.

He suffered a heavy blow Saturday with the sudden illness of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He conferred with Dulles for 10 minutes by telephone on plans for a new U. S. move in the tense diplomatic situation.

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., took over for Dulles at a White House conference Saturday morning on the Middle East and the riot-torn Soviet satellites.

The President's confidence about the election outcome reflected the belief of his personal—and political—advisers that he will be a shoo-in victor over Democratic candidate Adlai E. Stevenson.

Friends of the President said Mr. Eisenhower makes the usual demurrers about his election chances but then goes on to

Oklahoma, Georgia Tech Capture Narrow Victories

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whew! That was a mighty close call Oklahoma had against Colorado yesterday and it should provide Coach Bud Wilkinson, a blues singer of note, lyrics for the remainder of the season.

It will go down in the record books as a 27-19 Sooner triumph, their 36th in a row and 56th straight in the big seven. They haven't lost a league game since Wilkinson became head coach in 1947.

The record books won't show, however, that Oklahoma had to pull itself out of a hole and overcome a Colorado lead in the third period. The Buffs had up a 19-6 lead at halftime, but the Sooners came out of their shock and behind the fine running of Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas, scored three times in the second half.

Colorado's fine performance against a team that was rated four touchdowns better, made the Buffs heavy favorites to finish second in the conference behind Oklahoma and thus get the Orange Bowl bid. Oklahoma is ineligible, having played there last Jan. 2.

It also will add interest to the Orange Bowl game, for the Buffs proved themselves a solid football team, not just the best of a sad lineup of also-rans.

Georgia Tech, second ranked in the weekly Associated Press poll right behind Oklahoma, also had the miseries and it wasn't until the final period that the Ramblin'

59 Of Trapped Miners In Nova Scotia Rescued; Hope Held For Others

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia, Nov. 3 (AP) — More than half of the 113 men trapped in a coal mine explosion here since Thursday struggled out of their tomb alive today.

These 59 survivors brought with them hope that almost all would be saved. That is, all except one miner—Charles Burton, the first man to reach sunlight. He said he thought about 40 were dead deep in the rock-filled shafts. More optimistic mine officials and workers disputed his estimate.

One rescue worker said he was willing to bet that most of the miners still underground were alive. But an official said several hours later a rescued miner reported leaving eight miners behind dead.

Fourteen known dead have been counted—13 who were killed by the gas and coal dust blast in the mine's upper levels and one miner brought out with the first survivors today and pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital.

When announcement was made that the first survivors had been reached, anxious relatives keeping vigil at the pithead shouted with joy. Automobiles, with horns blaring, raced through this mining town of 8,000. Nearly every family in the community was involved in the disaster.

There was delay in bringing some of the men to the surface. Many were checked for injuries. Hot soup was sent down to those weakened by hunger as they waited for rescue nearly a mile underground.

Burton said the men in his section of the mine began walking and crawling to the surface Thursday night. Today they met rescue crews on the way down.

Blizzard Leaves 8 Persons Dead; Storm Abating

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The punishing blizzard that had battered Western plains states since Thursday night was fading late Saturday leaving at least eight persons dead and masses of snow choking transportation arteries.

Discovery of the body of a missing Nebraska rancher, spotted by a search plane, and two section hands found frozen to death in Montana raised the death toll to eight. Five storm connected deaths had been reported earlier.

The same clearing skies that permitted planes to take the air gave the green light to snow plows which had been held off the roads until the storm abated. The plows turned their attention first to motorists who had ridden out the storm trapped in their cars. Some had been "lost" for as long as 36 hours.

At least four western Nebraska communities were isolated by snow drifts ranging in depth to 12 feet. Telephone service to some areas remained on an "emergency only" basis and power was a touch and go proposition.

Although hundreds of cars and trucks were abandoned in eastern areas of Colorado and Wyoming,

Leaders Barely Escape Defeat

Oklahoma, Georgia Tech Capture Narrow Victories

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whew! That was a mighty close call Oklahoma had against Colorado yesterday and it should provide Coach Bud Wilkinson, a blues singer of note, lyrics for the remainder of the season.

It will go down in the record books as a 27-19 Sooner triumph, their 36th in a row and 56th straight in the big seven. They haven't lost a league game since Wilkinson became head coach in 1947.

The record books won't show, however, that Oklahoma had to pull itself out of a hole and overcome a Colorado lead in the third period. The Buffs had up a 19-6 lead at halftime, but the Sooners came out of their shook and behind the fine running of Tommy McDonald and Clendon Thomas, scored three times in the second half.

Colorado's fine performance against a team that was rated four touchdowns better, made the Buffs heavy favorites to finish second in the conference behind Oklahoma and thus get the Orange Bowl bid. Oklahoma is ineligible, having played there last Jan. 2.

It also will add interest to the Orange Bowl game, for the Buffs proved themselves a solid football team, not just the best of a sad lineup of also-rans.

Georgia Tech, second ranked in the weekly Associated Press poll right behind Oklahoma, also had the miseries and it wasn't until the final period that the Ramblin'

Attacks Without Warning During Peace Parleys

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sunday, Nov. 4 (UP) — The United States early Sunday requested an urgent Security Council meeting later Sunday to consider the Russian attack on the Hungarian government.

VIENNA, Sunday, Nov. 4 (AP) — The Hungarian news agency MTI sent an urgent teletype message to The Associated Press office in Vienna early today saying: "Russian gangsters have betrayed us, they are opening fire on all Budapest."

(The Canadian Press reported Budapest radio, heard in Toronto late Saturday night, said Russian troops had attacked the Hungarian army in Budapest. It said Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy was reported to have appealed to the world for help. The broadcast was heard by a Hungarian-Canadian named Alexander Alt.)

Alt quoted Premier Nagy as saying in Hungarian:

("Russian troops attacked our capital today with the purpose of overthrowing the rightful government of this country. Our troops are engaged in a battle against this aggression. We appeal to the world for assistance."

(Alt said Radio Budapest played the Hungarian national anthem repeatedly after Nagy made his dramatic appeal to the world.)

"Please inform Europe and the Austrian government," the MTI statement said.

It added that MTI itself was under heavy Russian fire. It went on:

"The Russian troops suddenly attacked Budapest and the whole country. They opened fire on everybody in Hungary. It is a general attack.

"Janos Kadar (party secretary) Gyoergy Marosan and Sandor Ronai formed a new government and they started to annihilate the counterrevolution.

"They are on the Russians' side.

"We are under heavy Russian fire. All Budapest is under fire. The Russian gangsters betrayed us."

"During the past hours a few hundred tanks attacked Budapest and Dunafoldvar. There is a heavy

Perforated Part Of Colon Removed During Operation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP) — In an emergency operation on Secretary of State Dulles, surgeons today removed a perforated section of his large intestine. He was reported to have emerged from the operation "in good condition."

Lincoln White, the State Department's press officer, said a team of four doctors performed the 2½-hour surgery at the Army's Walter Reed Hospital.

Dulles at first had been thought to be suffering from acute appendicitis, but White said the operation "involved the removal of a portion of the large intestine which had perforated." He said that to his knowledge, there was no indication of malignancy. He reported also that Dulles' appendix was not involved and was not removed during the operation.

White said Dulles "is resting comfortably and is in good condition," but will be unable to return to his desk for about six weeks. Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. took over as acting secretary when Dulles was taken to the hospital early today.

The operation removes Dulles from active direction of U. S. foreign policy at a time of crisis both in Eastern Europe and in the Middle East.

He was stricken only a day after he personally had sought and received U. N. General Assembly approval of a United States resolution seeking a halt to hostilities in Egypt. British, French and Israeli forces are engaged in what they call "police actions" there.

Even as Dulles was undergoing surgery, the United States sought further U. N. action on that matter and on Hungary's continuing effort to clear itself of Russian domination.

The operation was performed by Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Walter Reed commandant and the same surgeon who operated on

Student Councils' Vice Presidency Won By Neville

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 3 (Special)—Neville High School, of Monroe, Louisiana, was elected "vice president" of the Southern Association of Student Councils at the group's convention here today.

Schools rather than individuals, hold the top offices of the association, and the functions of office are performed by the school's student council.

Neville is represented at the convention by Nancy Breard, Jimmy Godfrey and Martha Riser. They were accompained to the convention by Sidney A. Seegers, of the Neville faculty, who was scheduled to appear on the convention program.

The Monroe delegates are expected to return home Sunday.

Election of "officers" for the coming year was held Saturday morning.

Fourteen states are represented in the Southern association. Neville was widely supported in its bid for office. Its student council was the first one formed in Louisiana, back in 1931.

New Law Speeds Election Returns To Press, Public

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP)—A Louisiana law designed to speed up election returns will be used for the first time Tuesday.

The law, passed during the regular session of the 1956 Legislature, requires voting commissioners to give parish clerks of court copies of the election results "for use of the press and public."

The copies must be "delivered immediately following the completion of the count and tabulation of the results of the election."

Violation of the law is punishable by a maximum fine of $3,000 and two years imprisonment.

The law was drafted by Reps. C. F. Donaldson and George Tessier, both of New Orleans. It was passed unanimously by both houses.

Donaldson said one factor which led to the law was the delay in getting the results of the last voting on constitutional amendmens. He said some election commissioners put the results in an envelope, mailed them to the secretary of state and the public was in the dark for as much as 10 days in some instances.

Two New Oilers Finaled In Miss.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)—Oil men in Mississippi brought in two new oilers in proved fields during the past week. One well was in the deep Soso field in Smith County.

Union Producing Co. turned its Suggs No. 4 well into tanks and reported it was flowing 174 barrels of 40 gravity oil per day from a sand at 11,470-82 feet.

In Adams County, Billups and Sunnyland finished its Schuchardt No. B-2 in the North Carthage Point field.

Oil men reported the well was flowing at 1,000 barrels a day from the Wilcox sand at 5,826-30 feet.

Amerada, Reese and Vaughey have released its drilling rig and will erect a pumping unit to attempt commercial completion in its Issaquena County wildcat Delta Wildlife and Forestry No. 1.

Oil men view the well as a potential new pool opener.

The well was perforated last week at 6,264-72 feet and swabbed at the rate of three barrels of 10 gravity oil an hour with no salt water content after, the well was fractured in an attempt to increase the fluid content.

The wildcat has been under test for three weeks and zons from 6,744 to 7,262 feet failed to indicate possible production.

In Simpson County, Central Oil Co. was drilling below 7,960 feet in its wildcat Charles Jennings Jennings No. 1 six miles northeast of Weathersby. Contract depth was 12,700 feet.

Rimrock-Tidelands was reported coring in the Rodessa zone below 11,560 feet in its Smith County Robinson et al unit No. 1 near Taylorsville.

Another Smith County wildcat, California Company's Central Oil Co. No. 1, was reported below 9,700 feet with contract depth at 12,500 feet.

In Covington County southwest of Seminary, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was attempting to free a stuck drill pipe in its deep wildcat Miller-Aultman No. 1. Total depth is 14,209 feet with operators preparing to core the Rodessa zone at the time the pipe became lodged.

In Hancock County, J. Will's Hughes has temporarily abandoned its wildcat State of Mississippi No. 1 in Mulatto Bayou. Total depth was 10,949 feet.

Hughes also was drilling below 9,300 feet in its offshore wildcat State of Mississippi No. 3 about a half-mile from the business district of Bay St. Louis.

Also in Hancock County, Marshall R. Young was drilling below 13,209 feet in its Tuan No. 1 with the well logging some shows in the Cuevas sand at 10,800 feet.

Over 1 Million Negroes May Vote In South Tuesday

ATLANTA, Nov. 3 (AP) —The Southern Regional Council reported today there are least 1,239,500 Negroes registered to vote in the 11 southern states, an increase of 210,000 since 1952.

The council is an interracial organization of southerners working in the field of human relations. It reported that while the Negro vote in the South has grown steadily since 1944 and the outlawing of the "white" primary, the percentage of voting age registered remains comparatively low.

Registration of white voters for the 11 states was estimated at 11,072,125. Voting age white population in the 11 states was 16,882,882 and Negro voting age population 4,980,740, making white registration about 60 per cent of the potential, Negro registration about 25 per cent.

Four reasons for the comparatively low Negro registration were listed:

1—Discriminatory practices — including unusually severe literacy and constitutional interpretation tests and difficulty in securing registration certificates.

2—Lack of political consciousness and apathy, demonstrated by the fact that in some cities where registration was comparatively easy the number of Negroes registered remained low.

3—Dependency of many Negroes on members of the white community and resultant fear of incurring economic pressures.

4—Violence and threats, still reported in some areas, "although generally replaced by more subtle forms of intimidation."

The council gave the following estimates by states:

Alabama — 52,000 Negroes registered, an ihcrease since 1952 of 26,776. Negroes represent 30 per cent of the voting age population and six per cent of the total registration.

Arkansas — 69,677 Negroes registered, an increase of 8,264; Negroes represent 21 per cent of the total population of voting age and 12 per cent of the total registration.

Florida — 149,786 Negroes registered, increase of 28,886; Negroes represent 20 per cent of the voting age population and nine per cent of the total registration.

Georgia — 163,825 Negroes registered, an increase of 18,990; Negroes represent 29 per cent of the total population of voting age (18 and over in Georgia) and 12 per cent of the total registration.

Louisiana — 161,400 Negroes registered, increase of 41,410; represents 30 per cent of total population of voting age and 18 per cent of total registration.

Mississippi — 19,975 Negroes registered in 1954, registration for 1956 unavailable. Negroes made up 41 per cent of the total population of voting age.

North Carolina — 135,000 Negroes registered, increase of 35,000; Negroes represent 24 per cent of total population of voting age and seven per cent of the total registration.

South Carolina — 100,790 Negroes registered, showing little change from 1952; Negroes represent 34 per cent of total population of voting age and 16 per cent of total registration.

Tennessee — 90,000 Negroes registered, increase of 5,000; Negroes represent 16 per cent of total population of voting age and 15 per cent of total registration.

Texas — 214,000 Negroes registered, an increase of 32,084 over 1952; Negroes represent 12 per cent of total population of voting age and eight per cent of total registration.

Virginia — 83,698 Negroes registered, increase of 13,772 over 1952; Negroes represent 21 per cent of total population of voting age and nine per cent of total registration.

Miss. Sen. Evans Raps 'Turn-About' Southern Demos

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP) — State Sen. Earl Evans today blasted what he called "turn-about Democrats who hide their candidates so the people cannot see how deplorable they are to the South."

The States Rights leader scored candidates Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, saying both were determined to carry out the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation.

Hitting at state Democrats, he said in a statement released to the press:

"Kefauver has been ordered by the party not to come below the Mason-Dixon line because he is so repulsive to the South. Yet our so-called state leaders want to elect vice president and make him presiding officer of the U.S. Senate where we will undoubtedly fight the last ditch stand for segregation."

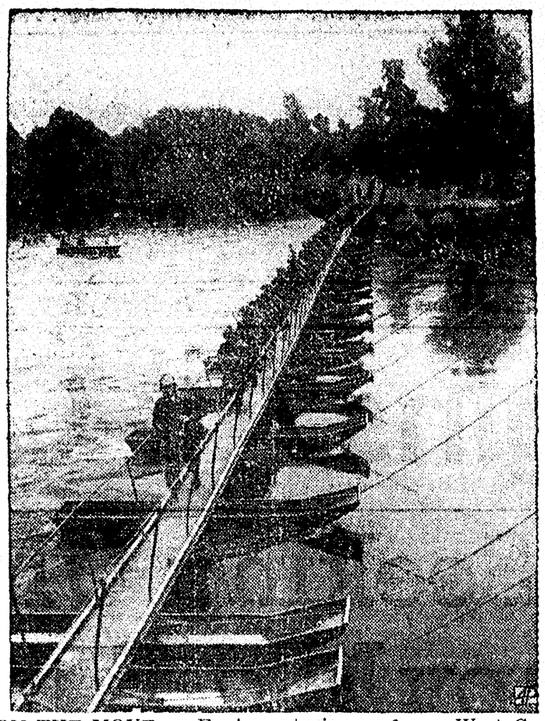

Evans said as presiding officer of the Senate, Kefauver could bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss) is chairman, and "virtually control every bit of legislation to come before the Congress."

The third-ranking state officer repeated his charge that the Democratic party's national platform "is exactly opposite to what members of the Mississippi Democratic party unanimously approved in state convention when they endorsed the interposition resolution . . . declaring the U.S. Supreme Court decision of no effect in Mississippi."

Evans said the States Righters could find no comfort in the Republican party.

The States Righters are on the Mississippi ballot as independent and unpledged. But this week they said they would stand by Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va) for president and Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) for vice president.

Both men were endorsed by the States Righters of South Carolina although the States Rights National Convention endorsed T. Coleman Andrews of Virginia and former Rep. Thoma Werdel (R-Calif).

Anti-Democrat Vote In Miss. Heaviest On River

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)—The anti-Democrat vote in Mississippi Tuesday was expected in general to be concentrated in the "river counties" and the population centers of Jackson, Hattiesburg, McComb and Columbus.

Observers expect the Republican strength to fall considerably from 1952 when it carried 15 counties. How much of that strength will be picked up by States Righters and to what degree States Righers will make inroads into the Democrats, no one is certain.

In 1952, Republicans carried these counties along the Mississippi River: Bolivar, Washington, Sharkey, Warren, Clairborne, Adams and Wilkinson.

With the exception of Issaquena, that's a solid strip from just below Clarksdale to the southern border.

They also carried Hinds (Jackson) and neighboring Madixon; Forrest (Hattiesburg) and Pike (McComb) in south Mississippi; and Lwndes (Columbus) and neighboring Noxubee in East Central Mississippi.

Some of these 1952-GOP counties may go States Rights. Observers said there is a possibility also that Holmes and Yazoo counties would be carried by the States Righters.

"Kefauver has been ordered by the party not to come below the Mason-Dixon line because he is so repuslive to the South. Yet our so-called state leaders want to elect vice president and make him presiding officer of the U.S. Senate where we will undoubtedly fight the last ditch stand for segregation."

Evans said as presiding officer of the Senate, Kefauver could bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee, of which Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss) is chairman, and "virtually control every bit of legislation to come before the Congress."

The third-ranking state officer repeated his charge that the Democratic party's national platform "is exactly opposite to what members of the Mississippi Democratic party unanimously approved in state convention when they endorsed the interposition resolution ... declaring the U.S. Supreme Court decision of no effect in Mississippi."

Evans said the States Righters could find no comfort in the Republican party.

The States Righters are on the Mississippi ballot as independent and unpledged. But this week they said they would stand by Sen. Harry Byrd (D-Va) for president and Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) for vice president.

Both men were endorsed by the States Righters of South Carolina although the States Rights National Convention endorsed T. Coleman Andrews of Virginia and former Rep. Thoma Werdel (R-Calif).

Anti-Democrat Vote In Miss. Heaviest On River

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)—The anti-Democrat vote in Mississippi Tuesday was expected in general to be concentrated in the "river counties" and the population centers of Jackson, Hattiesburg, McComb and Columbus.

Observers expect the Republican strength to fall considerably from 1952 when it carried 15 counties. How much of that strength will be picked up by States Righters and to what degree States Righers will make inroads into the Democrats, no one is certain.

In 1952, Republicans carried these counties along the Mississippi River: Bolivar, Washington, Sharkey, Warren, Clairborne, Adams and Wilkinson.

With the exception of Issaquena, that's a solid strip from just below Clarksdale to the southern border.

They also carried Hinds (Jackson) and neighboring Madixon; Forrest (Hattiesburg) and Pike (McComb) in south Mississippi; and Lwndes (Columbus) and neighboring Noxubee in East Central Mississippi.

Some of these 1952-GOP counties may go States Rights. Observers said there is a possibility also that Holmes and Yazoo counties would be carried by the States Righters.

Stock Exchange Prices Climb For Rise In Average

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Wall-Street rode out the war crisis this week and made its first gain on average in three weeks.

The Associated Press average advanced $1 to $180.20, highest since Sept. 17.

War news almost always brings a sharp stock market break. The financial reaction Wednesday was classic behavior on war news. Stock prices broke as traders dumped shares in a wave of uncertainty. Commodity prices rose on fears of wartime shortages.

The reaction was entirely different from the market's slow, wait-and-see dawdling on the previous week's news of the Polish and Hungarian upheavels.

This time, the decline represented an estimated drop of $2,800,000,000 Wednesday in values of stocks.

President Eisenhower's statement Wednesday night that the United States would not become involved brought an overwhelming rebound Thursday. It more than wiped out the previous day's losses.

The week began with the long-awaited "pre-election rally" based on what Wall Street regarded as improved prospects for Eisenhower's re-election. The favorable medical report was behind this confidence Monday.

The general rally was cancelled by news of the Israeli strike into Egypt. Prices were hammered down in bursts of trading during the next two days.

The Thursday recovery was continued mildly yesterday. Oils were buoyant on prospects of Suez stabilization.

During the week there were 667 advances and 529 declines. Among conspicious gainers were Lukens Steel up 4⅝; Kennecott Copper 4½; Alcoa 2⅜; International Nickel 2⅜, and North American Aviation 2⅝.

The five most active issues were U. S. Steel up 1¾ at 70⅝, Standard Oil (NJ) up 2½ at 57⅞; Avco up ⅛ at 6⅛, General Motors off ⅛ at 46¾, and Georgia-Pacific Corp., off 1½ at 29¾.

Prices of corporate and U. S. government bonds continued on the downward path this week in the bond market.

Ex-Ambassador To Russia Raps Mid-East Policy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—George F. Kennan, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, said that the United States must bear "a heavy measure of responsibility" for the British-French attack on Egypt.

He said U. S. diplomacy since the attack has been "directed to the grandstand rather than to the realities of the situation." Its success, he said, would not solve the problem but would only "pillory" this nation's oldest allies.

Kennan, ,once among the State Department's foremost authorities on Russia, broke with Dulles in a dispute over the so-called "containment" policy against the Communists. He is now with the institute for advanced studies at Princeton, N. J.

Kennan aired his views in a letter to the editor of the Washington Post and Times Herald.

"The British and French have fumbled-certainly. We, too, have fumbled on certain past occasions, and our friends did not turn against us," Kennan said.

"Moreover, we bear a heavy measure of responsibility for the desperation that has driven the French and British governments to this ill-conceived and pathetic action. . ."

'Vacillation," by the U. S. in the Middle East has contributed to the "calamitous confusion," Kennan said.

Suez Crisis Has Little Effect On U.S. Markets

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP)—Business rode out the Suez storm this week with only minor reverberations.

News of the British-French-Israli attack on Egypt caused violent gyrations in stock and commodity prices and touched off a scramble among European buyers for Venezuelan and Texas oil.

The possibility of a prolonged Suez shutdown also raised the bogey of sharply higher shipping costs and higher prices of many imports. Along the U.S. east coast, oil tanker charter rates climbed to their highest levels since the Korean War.

The New York Stock Exchange reacted intially with a severe shakeout, but stocks rebounded vigorously after President Eisenhower said there would be "no United States involvement" in the Middle East hostilities.

Investors, it seemed, were leaning toward the belief that with Nasser's forces in retreat there was a good possibility that the blocked Suez Canal might soon be reopened to international shipping.

If the big oil companies were worried, they didn't show it. Even as bombs were crashing down around the canal, Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), with a huge investment in the Middle East, raised its quarterly dividend to 60 cents a share from the 50 cents paid in prior quarters.

While Suez and Egypt claimed headlines, businessmen continued to wrestle with other problems.

One was the question of a steel price increase. A little more than a week ago, Eugene Gifford Grace chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., said the $8.50-a-ton price boost of last July was "all used up" and a new increase is needed. This week the industry heard from its No. 1 producer, United States Steel Corp., which traditionally sets the trend. "Our corporation," said Chairman Roger M. Blough, "does not have in mind any plans for a general price increase at this time."

Steel's biggest consumer, the auto industry, shifted into high gear. Production in U.S. plants was scheduled at better than 116,000 cars, up 12 per cent from the previous week, with all makes except Studebaker Packard Corp.'s Packard division pushing out their 1957 models.

The industry, which had spent 1¼ billion dollars redesigning its 1957 line, this week revised its sales quotas upward. Some executives said the year ahead might even surpass the record of 7,200,000 cars sold in 1955. The one big barrier was the higher price level, with increases ranging from $1 for one of the popular ford styles to $614 for a Cadillac Eldorado.

Home builders, charting their course for 1957, predicted higher prices, a continued shortage of mortgage money, and about 10 per cent fewer home starts than this year's estimated 1,100,000. The National Assn. of Home Builders, after a poll of its members, reported that nearly half expect mortgage money to be even scarcer next spring than in today's "tight" mortgage market.

A reassuring footnote was provided by the federal government's housing chief, Albert Cole. Once the present boom in industrial expansion has passed, he explained, more funds will again be available for residential construction. Combine ample mortgage credit with the high rate of family formation due in a year or two, said Cole, and you'll get a housing boom "the like of which has never been seen."

Politics, Foreign Intrigue Spices Stock Market

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (UP)—International intrigue and domestic politics spiced the stock market during the past week.

Prices went through a series of wide swings and ended higher on the week. Industrials closed at 490.72 in the Dow-Jones average, up 4.41 points; rails 159.54 off 0.65; utilities 67.08 up 0.97 point, and 65 stocks 173.13 up 1.22 points.

On Monday the market set off on a smart rally which Wall Street labeled a pre-election rise. In the last hour selling knocked the whole list down from the highs on word of Israel's invasion of Egypt.

On Tuesday price movements narrowed and trading lightened. On Wednesday when France and Britain bombed Egypt, prices broke sharply with industrials losing 6.62 points. On Thursday, after President Eisenhower said there would be no U.S. involvement in the Middle East the market surged ahead and wiped out Wednesday's losses by a lot to spare.

On Friday Wall Street had again uncovered its pre-election rally label when the Russians invaded Hungary with heavy reinforcements. That invasion knocked prices down from their highs and prevented the rails from scoring a gain for the week.

The feature earnings report was Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) which showed net profit for the first nine months at an all-time record high of $603 million or $3.07 a share, against $523 million or $2.66 a share a year ago.

Jersey Standard raised its dividend 10 cents to 60 cents a share. On its 196,575,578 shares that will mean a payout of $117,945,227 this year.

U.S. Steel reported net of only 52 cents a share for the third quarter against $1.83 in the previous quarter and $1.55 a year ago but declared the usual dividend which lifted the year's payments to a record high.

The feature report on the downside was Chrysler's. That company in the first nine months earned only 72 cents a share for the first nine months, against $8.11 in 1955.

Sales for the week totaled 10,599,369 shares, a daily average of 2,119,874 shares. This contrasted with a mere 7,848,078 shares or a daily average of 1,569,615 shares in the previous week.

The Middle East oils had several days of strength but their close showed only small changes from a week ago.

Cotton Futures Climb Sharply On News From Egypt

NEW YORK, Nov. 3 (AP) —Warfare in Egypt gave a potent lift this week to domestic cotton futures prices.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange scored net gains ranging from 35 cents to $2.55 a bale.

While the strife in Egypt was the chief factor behind the active buying of domestic cotton for future delivery, there were other bullish forces. Chief among these were the favorable long-range aspects of the government-sponsored soil bank and sales-for-export programs.

Offerings were furnished through hedge selling and liquidation by a leading spot house of the current December contract. Late in the week, profit taking chipped away at earlier gains.

Of considerable interest in the trade was the announcement that entries of cotton into the government loan for the seven-day period ended Oct. 26 had set a weekly record for the current season at 305,000 bales. It was noted, however, that total loan entries for the season through that date were no longer at a record high.

The latest official parity price report was pretty much in line with trade expectations. The mid-October figure was unchanged from mid-September at 35.56 cents per pound, and compared with 34.97 cents in mid-October last year.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture said the average price received by growers for their cotton had declined in mid-October to 31.94 cents from 32.50 cents in September, and was also below the year-ago price of 32.83 cents a pound.

Exports of U. S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 53,000 bales, vs. 115,000 the previous week and 23,000 bales in the like 1955 week.

The total for the season through Tuesday was estimated at 1,167,000 bales vs. only 368,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

Grains Rise, Dip In Week's Trading

CHICAGO, Nov. 3 (AP)—Grains went up early and came down late on the Board of Trade this week.

It was a week dominated by international news and the harries efforts of the grain trade to appraise it and act upon it.

Wheat closed the week unchanged to ¼ lower, corn ½-⅞ higher, oats ⅛-1⅜ lower, rye 1½-2¼ lower, soybeans 1½ to 2 cents higher and lard 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Martin Opposes Convention Call

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr. says a state constitutional convention would give Gov. Earl Long a bigger voice than the people.

Martin yesterday noted that if the convention is approved Tuesday Long would appoint 20 delegates while the people would elect 101.

Martin said this would give Long control of the Legislature since his influence also would help elect delegates following his viewpoint.

The 'Third' Parties

As Election Day approaches, the political campaign begins building up to a crescendo, with both major parties directing most of their appeals to the independent, or undecided voters. To add to the usual excitement of a presidential election, however, this year sees the entry into the campaign of the largest number of "third party" tickets in many years.

To most people, perhaps, minority parties appear to be little more than nuisance groups organized to dramatize a particular issue of the campaign. Actually, while they have never been successful in electing their own candidates, splinter parties have been the deciding factor in five presidential elections. The most dramatic example was the Bull Moose Party of Theodore Roosevelt which, by splitting the majority Republican vote, caused the election of Woodrow Wilson in 1912.

This year there are at least 11 "third party" candidates for the presidency entered on ballots in various states. In addition to three perennials, the Greenbacks, the Prohibitionists and the Socialists, there is a great influx into the political scene of states rights parties. The most notable of these, and probably the strongest, is a coalition of conservative groups which has nominated T. Coleman Andrews, former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, for the presidency.

Andrews, whose main support comes from the Constitution Party and the For America Party, has no idealistic conceptions about being elected to the White House. Instead, his avowed purpose is twofold: to capture enough electoral votes from both Eisenhower and Stevenson to throw the election into the House of Representatives, and by hammering away at what he considers the socialistic tendencies of both major parties, to cause a realignment of political philosophies in the nation.

Thus, the voters of 1956 are offered a wide array of candidates and issues, including free beer as advocated by the American Third Party. How successful the "third" parties will be this election can only be guessed, but the minority parties are invaluable to the American tradition of free choice.

Competition Is A Disciplinary Force

Dr. Dudley F. Pegrum, Professor of Economics at UCLA, has written an exceptionally interesting study of transportation regulation, which has been published by the Railway Progress Institute. In conclusion this authority states: "Public policy today should place major reliance upon competition as the disciplinary force in the field of transport . . . Then the regulatory authorities should exercise their rate-making power over a particular agency:

"Without regard to the effect of such rates on the traffic of a rival agency;

"Without regard to the relation of such rates to the rates of any other agency; and,

"Without regard to the question of whether the rates were lower than those necessary to meet the competition of the carrier of another agency."

What Dr. Pegrum proposes, in sum, are changes in policy that will make real price competition possible in commercial transportation—the kind of competition that characterizes virtually every other enterprise in this cuntry. He urges the passage of a bill now pending in Congress which would help substantially to bring this about. And here he says, "I believe further that this action will, in the long run, benefit all modes of transport, as well as the public they all serve." Only through price competition can each carrier make the most of its own special capabilities, to the advantage of itself and its customers.

Amendment No. 11 Sound

Amendment No. 11 would increase the number of state senatorial districts from 34 to 35 but would not increase the number of state senators, which would remain at 39. The effect of the amendment would be solely to constitute St. Landry parish alone as District No. 16 with one senator. District No. 16 now includes St. Landry and Acadia parishes and has two senators. Acadia would retain its senator. The effect of this also would be to re-number senatorial districts all over the state, but without changing their geographical areas or their Senate representation. The amendment would be effective only if the people of the two parishes concerned vote in favor of it. It would have to have a statewide majority, in addition.

The Morning World believes that Amendment No. 11 should be approved.

New Life And Vigor

No less an authority than Interstate Commerce Commissioner Walrath says that all forms of transportation are taking on "new life and vigor." He pays testimonial to one of them, the railroads, in these words: "If there were any doubt that railroading is being rejuvenated, we need only read the trade journals, listen to the reports of rail executives and of the Association of American Railroads—and to see the experimental and laboratory work being done—as I have been privileged to see it recently in the Chicago testing center of the AAR and in the freight yards and machine shops of our railroads over the country. It is convincing."

Some of these innovations are startling. They include the full development and use of electronic control of the rolling stock; billing and cost accounting done automatically by the incredible univac machines; radio-active boxcars which will transport perishables without refrigeration; television control of various operations; and invisible rays which will detect mechanical flaws in equipment. They are not concepts of the science fiction school. According to Commissioner Walrath, all of them and more, including almost foolproof safety developments, ". . . are already in or beyond the experimental stages."

This is the way the railroads are meeting the needs of today and tomorrow—and the way they are meeting the competition of other carriers. There is one more great need which is beyond the railroads' control—that is, reasonable changes in the regulatory laws which will put all the carriers on the same competitive footing, favoring or penalizing none.

Biased Editorials

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I am surprised at your attitude toward veterans of World War I. When you drew up a list of what you thought were unfavorable amendments, you included No. 43, which is O. K. by me (we all have a right to our own opinion) but why did you say in this item and I quote, "No. 43 authorizes a $16 million debt to be secured by a tax on beer to pay bonuses to veterans of Spanish-American, Boxer Rebellion, Philippines and World War II and leave off veterans of World War I. Are you so prejudiced against us fellows who fought in World War I that you use your editorial power to fight a measure that would help us veterans of War I, many of whom like myself, are in poor health and could use the little sum we would get if No. 43 were passed? You left off the list, whether by accident or intent and purpose, the World War I vets in your editorial of Oct. 24 when you branded amendment No. 43 unfavorable.

For several years now your editorials have been very biased politically, but some of us hate to see you throwing your editorial weight against a bunch of us guys who fought for you when you were only wet behind the ears. There was a time when your paper presented the news and did not try to prejudice the readers against either party but let them draw their own conclusions, but that's all changed now.

West Monroe Postoffice

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

(The following letter was sent to Senators Russell Long and Allen Ellender of Louisiana and a copy to this newspaper for publication)

Dear Senators:

What do you think of the chance of including West Monroe in the list of the Congressional order for Post Offices. I know that this is a part of Mr. Passman's prerogatives but many months of inquiry reveals the need to have the aid of you senators as well. I am sure he has the interest of this town at heart in that respect judging from the correspondence but he alone cannot sustain the attack upon this nation's needs against the influence that tends to direct our wealth to other nations.

There is no city, I dare say, in the nation of this size without a Post Office building. Some 25,000 people are being served from the portals of an ill-housed arrangement on a rental basis.

West Monroe's record in getting better post office facilities stems from a long number of years of effort to free the shacks of a bureau that bound it to the city of Monroe, and with about twelve years freedom with an independent office, our own wealth and growth with its attendant tax payments to the nation now requires some service to a community in our own native land. This would be in the public interest and would tend to expand the growth of wealth essential for other taxes. Certainly we are entitled to equal treatment community wise. Moreover, we should surely have the interest of our own people in the nation served first.

Schools Need Help

Jennings, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Our public school system is on the verge of collapsing due to the two political factions in our state using the teachers pay raise as a "political football." Our schools are in dire need of assistance from every citizen. The education of our children is of utmost importance. Unless something is done immediately to stop the steady deterioration of our schools by the loss of qualified teachers, our future generation will not be properly equipped to meet the challenge of the "atomic age."

We appeal to the newspapers to exercise that "freedom of the press" to awaken the citizens of Louisiana to the critical situation our schools face.

Are We Under-Taxed?

Oak Grove, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have missed very few of your editorials over the last several years and, while not agreeing with you on every issue, I have always thought you were fair to all factions. In all your writings since the legislature convened last spring you have bitterly opposed any increase in taxes. This stand may or may not be correct. I have seen no report proving we are over - taxed and neither have I seen any published proof of undertaxation. Let us assume that we are taxed enough to support all activities participated in by the state. Is this consistent with your views on the proposed teacher's salary schedule? You profess to be highly in favor of this act, yet, you are against any tax increase. This can only mean that you believe there is enough money available. If this is true, why don't you devote more space to graft, waste, etc., on the state level and less to lambasting a professional organization for trying to increase the quality of its services? As a beginning point you could use the welfare situation. I realize this would entail time and expense on your part in determining the facts of the welfare farce, but in the last few months you haven't let a lack of facts curtail your editorials concerning education.

I realize as much as you that this may be only one citizen's opinion, and it doesn't amount to much, but I feel better now anyway.

Other states per capita state tax — Arkansas, $52.14; Texas, $51.77; Mississippi, $50.10; Alabama, $43.28 and New Jersey with the lowest per capita tax — $35.83.)

'Eggs And Potatoes'

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I heard a part of the political talks the other night, and as there was no reference to the questions raised by the States Rights Committee as to Adlai Stevenson's views on vital issues, but the Farm issue was blasted pretty badly, I wonder why the men doing so much loud talking have such short memories.

I have here a clipping from your paper's editorial under date of 8 September, 1950, under title, "Eggs and Potatoes." The item reads somewhat as follows:

"That more than 135,000,000 pounds of potatoes were given free to various agencies by the government last month, along with 60,000,000 pounds of other food products such as cheese, butter and dried eggs. Even on the give-away basis the government can not dispose of all the perishable food commodities it has been required to buy under the 1949 agriculture price - support program. You state further — "Currently the government has in storage 110,000,000 pounds of dried eggs, or the quivalent of 330,000,000 dozen fresh eggs. It has been taking dried eggs off the market at the rate of 15,000,000 pounds a month, paying 96 cents a pound and offering for export what cannot be given away to eligible applicants here, at 30 cents a pound. Outmatching the egg situation is the fantastic operation of the price-support system as applied to potatoes. Tons and tons of prime potatoes are being incontinently dumped at a cost to taxpayers higher than would be had for them on the open market. From the present outlook the government's costly experience with potatoes last year is in a fair way of being repeated. What the cost to taxpayers will be in consequence is anybody's guess. It won't be light."

There from your editorial of the above mentioned date is a little of what went on under the previous administration.

I was born and riased on a farm, before these supports were ever thought of, and it seems odd that such a situation should ever exist. Being of a selfish nature, I can state that no one gives me anything in the line of a price support —I have to work for each dollar I bring home. I think that if ALL of our politicians would do more work and less talking, we would get somewhere.

John E. Zufall.

P. S. — Two-thirds of the decline in farm prices occurred in the last 21 months of the Truman administration, while the cost of renting storage space costs $1,000,000 per day.

The Morning World Scorecard On Amendments

The Morning World presents herewith a scorecard type of marked ballot for the 49 constitutional proposals which will be before the people in next Tuesday's voting —48 proposed amendments to the constitution and a call for a constitutional convention to write a new state constitution.

The scorecard ballot is published in response to innumerable telephone and written requests during the past two weeks for some kind of marked ballot "that can be torn out and taken into the voting booth in a pocket or a wallet.

With this guide, voters wishing to follow The Morning World recommendations will find it easy to vote on the constitutional proposals. Others may wish to check these recommendations against the amendments and make changes here and there.

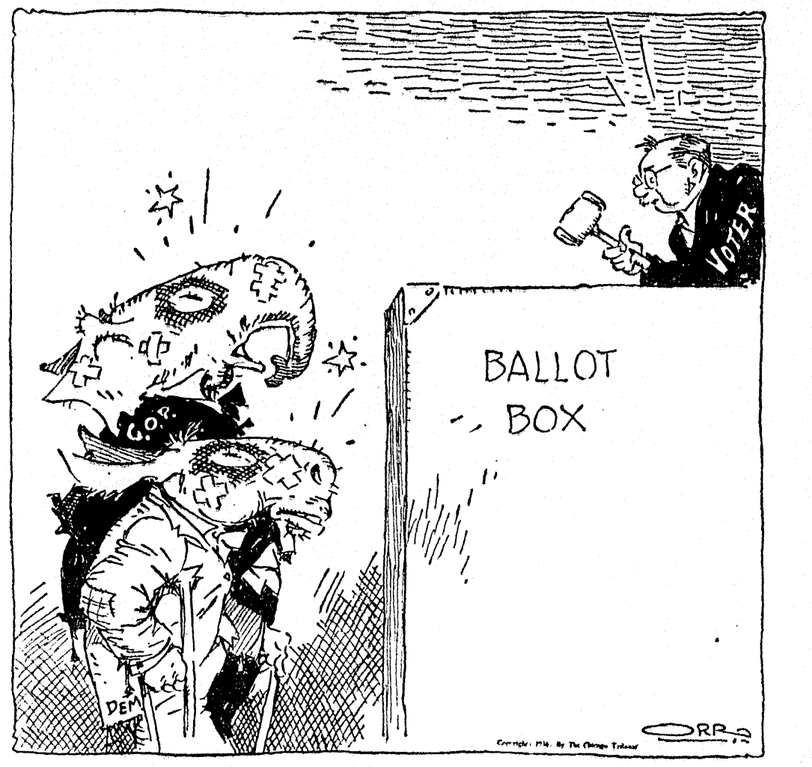

The recommendations of the Morning World are based on analyses by its editors and its legal department, with consideration also for other impartial analyses, such as those by the Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana and the New Orleans Bureau of Governmental Research.

While the Morning World urges every voter to vote on every constitutional proposal, failure to vote on all 49 will not in any way affect the validity of the ballot thus cast. Voters may vote for or against any one proposal and not vote on any of the others and the single vote cast will be recorded by the voting machine.

Whether or not this scorecard is used, voters are urged to take a marked ballot into the voting machine booth. Only in this way can voting be speeded up sufficiently to give everyone a chance to vote.

AWAITING THE DECISION

Bascom N. Timmon

IN WASHINGTON

Sometimes The Voters Astound The Pundits

There have been thirteen presidential elections in the Twentieth century — fourteen if the second race between McKinley and Bryan in 1900 is counted in the Twentieth rather than the nineteenth century. In every one of them, with the exceptions of 1916 and 1948, the results have been clearly indicated by the last week in October.

It, of course, was true in all these elections that each side claimed victory and perhaps tens of thousands were clinging to a forlorn hope of winning. But without exception in all of these elections except those of 1916 and 1948 the professional politicians and the writing men and others whose business it is to get a feeling of the public pulse were very sure of the outcome.

In the final analysis any election forecasts now with the electorate certain to be above 60,000,000 is a guess and it was a guess fifty years ago when the voting population was less than one-fourth of what it is now. But they were guesses made on what seemed to be visible trends, accustomed data which seemed measurable and the various traditional methods of calculation.

There have been distinctive sets of issues and factors in every presidential race. There have always been some imponderables, but always one candidate has opened up a gap over the other by the end of October, except in the Wilson - Hughes and Truman-Dewey races. Strangely enough the best educated guessers thought this had occurred in both of these races, but they figured the wrong man had taken the head — Hughes in 1916 and Dewey in 1948. Also at midnight of both these election days the eventual loser appeared on the basis of ballots tabulated at that hour to be in winner.

With the professional guessers having a record of being wrong only twice in fourteen trys why are they predicting with less confidence in this fifteenth try? Why are the guessers hedged and qualified?

The polls and predictions universally give President Eisenhower as the likely winner. Lurking behind every prediction is an almost universally accepted axiom: A great popular majority (in round numbers 6,621,260 in 1952) cannot be reversed in four years if economic conditions remain as godd. Certainly, except for the farmers and some small business men, conditions are as good or better than they were four years ago.

The doubt which causes the qualification and the hedges are that in the face of the polls and predictions, President Eisenhower did lose Congress in the middle of his first term despite his strong plea to the country to again give him a Republican Congress. And there is also the fact that whatever polls and straw votes showed when real flesh and blood ballots went into the boxes in gubernatorial and other important campaigns in 1954 and down to Maine and Alaska already this year the Democrats generally have come out on top.

Independent Party On 14 State Ballots

WASHINGTON — An independent party movement hopes to show enough strength this year to provide it with a foundation for 1958 and 1960.

The Independent States Rights Movement — a third force that declines to call itself a third political party — is on the ballot in 14 states, nine of them in the south.

Although its catalyst was the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision and general discontent with United States "internationalist" policies, its coagulant was former Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews' vigorous denunciation of the income tax. He once collected for the Eisenhower administration.

The Independent Movement primarily is a combination of two organizations — the Federation for Constitutional Government and For America. The federation is a loosely knit grouping of southern white Citizens Councils opposed to school desegration; For America is a nationalist group claiming 30,000 members.

Together with still other small groups adhering to the same philosophies, they are backing the candidacy of Andrews, Richmond, Va., insurance executive, for president, and Thomas H. Werdel of Bakersfield, Calif., a Republican representative from 1949 to 1953.

"Socialistic platforms" of the Democrats and Republicans, claim the Independent Movement leaders, give millions of discontented voters within the two major political parties a choice of voting for "Tweedle - dee" or "Tweedle-dum."

So on Oct. 7 Andrews and Werdel announced an eight - point platform emphasizing increased states rights, "drastic tax reform" that would greatly reduce the income tax levy, a reversal of the "dangerous trend toward socialism" as well as a "complete rejection" of Atlantic Union and world government.

Leaders of the movement hope they will win enough electors in the 14 states where they appear on the ballot, and in 24 other states where they are conducting a write-in campaign, to prevent either Adlai E. Stevenson or President Eisenhower from getting the 266-vote electoral college majority needed to win the presidential election. If they succeed, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Although leaders of the movement say the possibility exists of their winning enough electoral votes to prevent either candidate from obtaining a majority, they privately admit this possibility isn't too probable. They will be satisfied if their movement draws enough votes — how many they don't say — to make the major parties take notice of their platform.

Retired Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, national director of For America, explained the third force's aims this way to Congressional Quarterly:

We hope that the results in the 14 states (where the Independent Movement is on the ballot) and from additional states where write-in votes are allowed, will be sufficient to effect a sounding board—a protest which must be recognized. There is a possibility that Andrews and Werdel may actually carry Virginia and other southern states — principally on the states rights and tax reform issues."

In Virginia, the movement is on the ballot as the States Rights party. The other state ballots where it will appear, and the party designation in those states:

Alabama, Independent electors; Arkansas, Constitution party; Iowa American Constitution party; Kentucky and Louisiana, States Rights party; Mississippi, States Rights Electors; New Jersey, Conservative party; New Mexico, The New Party; North Dakota, For America party; South Carolina, States Rights Electors; Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin, Constitution party.

Getting their independent electors on the ballot turned out to be a problem for the Independent Movement. Twenty - eight states do not even list the electors in the general election. Time ran out in some of the other 20 states — 18 of which place the party candidates for presidential office on the ballot with the names of the electors. The Independent Movement did not have its candidates until Sept. 16. Other requirements for party conventions and-or petitions tend to prevent any but a strongly organized party from appearing on the ballot.

But despite these handicaps, Fellers remains confident — if not o success this year, then of the future. As he puts it: "Judging from the response to date and the anticipated results (on Nov. 6), the continuation of the conservative movement in some form is certainly indicated."

Scoring The Candidates' Qualifications

At this late hour there are probably very few undecided voters. Most, on the basis of reason and-or emotion, have made a choice.

For those few who have not . . .

For the handful yet uncertain.

For those who haven't been able to decide between Eisenhower and Stevenson, let us evaluate their qualifications one at a time.

Personnel management teaches us that when two men are in line for the same promotion, we should set down their qualifications in writing. Grade them. And compare the grades.

This "test" is worthless, of course, unless your answers are as nearly impartially honest as you can make them.

But if you avoid "wishful thinking," if you set aside political rationalization, if you will take a pencil and grade both candidates honestly on the same "qualifications for the job," you'll help yourself make an intelligent choice.

On a piece of paper write the names Eisenhower . . .and Stevenson . . . one over the other.

Then, as I list certain qualities essential to the Presidency, you put a single mark after the name of the individual you believe best qualified.

For example, if I say "golfer," you put a mark after Eisenhower.

If I say "tennis player," you put a mark after Stevenson.

However, I will confine this list to those qualities which are pertinent to the office. Here goes:

1. Which candidate would you consider most willing and best able to solve the so-called "farm problem"?

Put one line after the name of either Eisenhower or Stevenson.

Next:

2. Which candidate would you want to represent you in negotiations with other nations?

3. Which man is best qualified to lead us through a hot war?

4. Which man is best qualified to lead us in a cold war?

5. Physical health?

Be careful here. Be as honest as you can and as accurate as available information allows. Which man is in the best physical health?

We are halfway through now. Keep score carefully.

6. Which candidate has the better Vice-President?

In other words, if death should come to the leader, which man has the running mate better equipped to administer the office? You have to visualize both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kefauver in the White House. Which man is best qualified?

7. Which candidate, Eisenhower or Stevenson, know most about money matters? This refers to fiscal policy, inflation, deflation, Taxes, budgetary and other economic matters. Which man knows most about these things?

8. Of which man would you be most proud if he were President? This is important. The dignity of that office is essential to our national prestige. Which man, as President, would make you most proud to be an American?

9. Which candidate has the best qualified advisors? Careful, again. Imagine these "friends" of the President walking in and out the back door of the White House. Evaluate their associates. Which man has the best qualified advisors?

10. Which is best able to translate complex issues into understandable terms?

One more question:

11. Which man, Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson, would you most trust with our internal security?

Now add up the score. You may be surprised.

New Life And Vigor

No less an authority than Interstate Commerce Commissioner Walrath says that all forms of transportation are taking on "new life and vigor." He pays testimonial to one of them, the railroads, in these words: "If there were any doubt that railroading is being rejuvenated, we need only read the trade journals, listen to the reports of rail executives and of the Association of American Railroads—and to see the experimental and laboratory work being done—as I have been privileged to see it recently in the Chicago testing center of the AAR and in the freight yards and machine shops of our railroads over the country. It is convincing."

Some of these innovations are startling. They include the full development and use of electronic control of the rolling stock; billing and cost accounting done automatically by the incredible univac machines; radio-active boxcars which will transport perishables without refrigeration; television control of various operations; and invisible rays which will detect mechanical flaws in equipment. They are not concepts of the science fiction school. According to Commissioner Walrath, all of them and more, including almost foolproof safety developments, ". . . are already in or beyond the experimental stages."

This is the way the railroads are meeting the needs of today and tomorrow—and the way they are meeting the competition of other carriers. There is one more great need which is beyond the railroads' control—that is, reasonable changes in the regulatory laws which will put all the carriers on the same competitive footing, favoring or penalizing none.

Biased Editorials

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I am surprised at your attitude toward veterans of World War I. When you drew up a list of what you thought were unfavorable amendments, you included No. 43, which is O. K. by me (we all have a right to our own opinion) but why did you say in this item and I quote, "No. 43 authorizes a $16 million debt to be secured by a tax on beer to pay bonuses to veterans of Spanish-American, Boxer Rebellion, Philippines and World War II and leave off veterans of World War I. Are you so prejudiced against us fellows who fought in World War I that you use your editorial power to fight a measure that would help us veterans of War I, many of whom like myself, are in poor health and could use the little sum we would get if No. 43 were passed? You left off the list, whether by accident or intent and purpose, the World War I vets in your editorial of Oct. 24 when you branded amendment No. 43 unfavorable.

For several years now your editorials have been very biased politically, but some of us hate to see you throwing your editorial weight against a bunch of us guys who fought for you when you were only wet behind the ears. There was a time when your paper presented the news and did not try to prejudice the readers against either party but let them draw their own conclusions, but that's all changed now.

West Monroe Postoffice

West Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

(The following letter was sent to Senators Russell Long and Allen Ellender of Louisiana and a copy to this newspaper for publication)

Dear Senators:

What do you think of the chance of including West Monroe in the list of the Congressional order for Post Offices. I know that this is a part of Mr. Passman's prerogatives but many months of inquiry reveals the need to have the aid of you senators as well. I am sure he has the interest of this town at heart in that respect judging from the correspondence but he alone cannot sustain the attack upon this nation's needs against the influence that tends to direct our wealth to other nations.

There is no city, I dare say, in the nation of this size without a Post Office building. Some 25,000 people are being served from the portals of an ill-housed arrangement on a rental basis.

West Monroe's record in getting better post office facilities stems from a long number of years of effort to free the shacks of a bureau that bound it to the city of Monroe, and witn about twelve years freedom with an independent office, our own wealth and growth with its attendant tax payments to the nation now requires some service to a community in our own native land. This would be in the public interest and would tend to expand the growth of wealth essential for other taxes. Certainly we are entitled to equal treatment community wise. Moreover, we should surely have the interest of our own people in the nation served first.

Schools Need Help

Jennings, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Our public school system is on the verge of collapsing due to the two political factions in our state using the teachers pay raise as a "political football." Our schools are in dire need of assistance from every citizen. The education of our children is of utmost importance. Unless something is done immediately to stop the steady deterioration of our schools by the loss of qualified teachers, our future generation will not be properly equipped to meet the challenge of the "atomic age."

We appeal to the newspapers to exercise that "freedom of the press" to awaken the citizens of Louisiana to the critical situation our schools face.

Are We Under-Taxed?

Oak Grove, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I have missed very few of your editorials over the last several years and, while not agreeing with you on every issue, I have always thought you were fair to all factions. In all your writings since the legislature convened last spring you have bitterly opposed any increase in taxes. This stand may or may not be correct. I have seen no report proving we are over - taxed and neither have I seen any published proof of undertaxation. Let us assume that we are taxed enough to support all activities participated in by the state. Is this consistent with your views on the proposed teacher's salary schedule? You profess to be highly in favor of this act, yet, you are against any tax increase. This can only mean that you believe there is enough money available. If this is true, why don't you devote more space to graft, waste, etc., on the state level and less to lambasting a professional organization for trying to increase the quality of its services? As a beginning point you could use the welfare situation. I realize this would entail time and expense on your part in determining the facts of the welfare farce, but in the last few months you haven't let a lack of facts curtail your editorials concerning education.

I realize as much as you that this may be only one citizen's opinion, and it doesn't amount to much, but I feel better now anyway.

The state of Washington was high with $102.72. Other states per capita state tax — Arkansas, $52.14; Texas, $51.77; Mississippi, $50.10; Alabama, $43.28 and New Jersey with the lowest per capita tax — $35.83.)

'Eggs And Potatoes'

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I heard a part of the political talks the other night, and as there was no reference to the questions raised by the States Rights Committee as to Adlai Stevenson's views on vital issues, but the Farm issue was blasted pretty badly, I wonder why the men doing so much loud talking have such short memories.

I have here a clipping from your paper's editorial under date of 8 September, 1950, under title, "Eggs and Potatoes." The item reads somewhat as follows:

"That more than 135,000,000 pounds of potatoes were given free to various agencies by the government last month, along with 60,000,000 pounds of other food products such as cheese, butter and dried eggs. Even on the give-away basis the government can not dispose of all the perishable food commodities it has been required to buy under the 1949 agriculture price - support program. You state further — "Currently the government has in storage 110,000,000 pounds of dried eggs, or the quivalent of 330,000,000 dozen fresh eggs. It has been taking dried eggs off the market at the rate of 15,000,000 pounds a month, paying 96 cents a pound and offering for export what cannot be given away to eligible applicants here, at 30 cents a pound. Outmatching the egg situation is the fantastic operation of the price-support system as applied to potatoes. Tons and tons of prime potatoes are being incontinently dumped at a cost to taxpayers higher than would be had for them on the open market. From the present outlook the government's costly experience with potatoes last year is in a fair way of being repeated. What the cost to taxpayers will be in consequence is anybody's guess. It won't be light."

There from your editorial of the above mentioned date is a little of what went on under the previous administration.

I was born and riased on a farm, before these supports were ever thought of, and it seems odd that such a situation should ever exist. Being of a selfish nature, I can state that no one gives me anything in the line of a price support —I have to work for each dollar I bring home. I think that if ALL of our politicians would do more work and less talking, we would get somewhere.

John E. Zufall.

P. S. — Two-thirds of the decline in farm prices occurred in the last 21 months of the Truman administration, while the cost of renting storage space costs $1,000,000 per day.

The Morning World Scorecard On Amendments

The Morning World presents herewith a scorecard type of marked ballot for the 49 constitutional proposals which will be before the people in next Tuesday's voting —48 proposed amendments to the constitution and a call for a constitutional convention to write a new state constitution.

The scorecard ballot is published in response to innumerable telephone and written requests during the past two weeks for some kind of marked ballot "that can be torn out and taken into the voting booth in a pocket or a wallet.

With this guide, voters wishing to follow The Morning World recommendations will find it easy to vote on the constitutional proposals. Others may wish to check these recommendations against the amendments and make changes here and there.

The recommendations of the Morning World are based on analyses by its editors and its legal department, with consideration also for other impartial analyses, such as those by the Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana and the New Orleans Bureau of Governmental Research.

While the Morning World urges every voter to vote on every constitutional proposal, failure to vote on all 49 will not in any way affect the validity of the ballot thus cast. Voters may vote for or against any one proposal and not vote on any of the others and the single vote cast will be recorded by the voting machine.

Whether or not this scorecard is used, voters are urged to take a marked ballot into the voting machine booth. Only in this way can voting be speeded up sufficiently to give everyone a chance to vote.

AWAITING THE DECISION

Bascom N. Timmon

IN WASHINGTON

Sometimes The Voters Astound The Pundits

There have been thirteen presidential elections in the Twentieth century — fourteen if the second race between McKinley and Bryan in 1900 is counted in the Twentieth rather than the nineteenth century. In every one of them, with the exceptions of 1916 and 1948, the results have been clearly indicated by the last week in October.

It, of course, was true in all these elections that each side claimed victory and perhaps tens of thousands were clinging to a forlorn hope of winning. But without exception in all of these elections except those of 1916 and 1948 the professional politicians and the writing men and others whose business it is to get a feeling of the public pulse were very sure of the outcome.

In the final analysis any election forecasts now with the electorate certain to be above 60,000,000 is a guess and it was a guess fifty years ago when the voting population was less than one-fourth of what it is now. But they were guesses made on what seemed to be visible trends, accustomed data which seemed measurable and the various traditional methods of calculation.

There have been distinctive sets of issues and factors in every presidential race. There have always been some imponderables, but always one candidate has opened up a gap over the other by the end of October, except in the Wilson - Hughes and Truman-Dewey races. Strangely enough the best educated guessers thought this had occurred in both of these races, but they figured the wrong man had taken the head — Hughes in 1916 and Dewey in 1948. Also at midnight of both these election days the eventual loser appeared on the basis of ballots tabulated at that hour to be in winner.

With the professional guessers having a record of being wrong only twice in fourteen trys why are they predicting with less confidence in this fifteenth try? Why are the guessers hedged and qualified?

The polls and predictions universally give President Eisenhower as the likely winner. Lurking behind every prediction is an almost universally accepted axiom: A great popular majority (in round numbers 6,621,260 in 1952) cannot be reversed in four years if economic conditions remain as godd. Certainly, except for the farmers and some small business men, conditions are as good or better than they were four years ago.

The doubt which causes the qualification and the hedges are that in the face of the polls and predictions, President Eisenhower did lose Congress in the middle of his first term despite his strong plea to the country to again give him a Republican Congress. And there is also the fact that whatever polls and straw votes showed when real flesh and blood ballots went into the boxes in gubernatorial and other important campaigns in 1954 and down to Maine and Alaska already this year the Democrats generally have come out on top.

Independent Party On 14 State Ballots

WASHINGTON — An independent party movement hopes to show enough strength this year to provide it with a foundation for 1958 and 1960.

The Independent States Rights Movement — a third force that declines to call itself a third political party — is on the ballot in 14 states, nine of them in the south.

Although its catalyst was the Supreme Court's school desegregation decision and general discontent with United States "internationalist" policies, its coagulant was former Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews' vigorous denunciation of the income tax. He once collected for the Eisenhower administration.

The Independent Movement primarily is a combination of two organizations — the Federation for Constitutional Government and For America. The federation is a loosely knit grouping of southern white Citizens Councils opposed to school desegration; For America is a nationalist group claiming 30,000 members.

Together with still other small groups adhering to the same philosophies, they are backing the candidacy of Andrews, Richmond, Va., insurance executive, for president, and Thomas H. Werdel of Bakersfield, Calif., a Republican representative from 1949 to 1953.

"Socialistic platforms" of the Democrats and Republicans, claim the Independent Movement leaders, give millions of discontented voters within the two major political parties a choice of voting for "Tweedle - dee" or "Tweedle-dum."

So on Oct. 7 Andrews and Werdel announced an eight - point platform emphasizing increased states rights, "drastic tax reform" that would greatly reduce the income tax levy, a reversal of the "dangerous trend toward socialism" as well as a "complete rejection" of Atlantic Union and world government.

Leaders of the movement hope they will win enough electors in the 14 states where they appear on the ballot, and in 24 other states where they are conducting a write-in campaign, to prevent either Adlai E. Stevenson or President Eisenhower from getting the 266-vote electoral college majority needed to win the presidential election. If they succeed, the election would be thrown into the House of Representatives.

Although leaders of the movement say the possibility exists of their winning enough electoral votes to prevent either candidate from obtaining a majority, they privately admit this possibility isn't too probable. They will be satisfied if their movement draws enough votes — how many they don't say — to make the major parties take notice of their platform.

Retired Brig. Gen. Bonner Fellers, national director of For America, explained the third force's aims this way to Congressional Quarterly:

We hope that the results in the 14 states (where the Independent Movement is on the ballot) and from additional states where write-in votes are allowed, will be sufficient to effect a sounding board—a protest which must be recognized. There is a possibility that Andrews and Werdel may actually carry Virginia and other southern states — principally on the states rights and tax reform issues."

In Virginia, the movement is on the ballot as the States Rights party. The other state ballots where it will appear, and the party designation in those states:

Alabama, Independent electors; Arkansas, Constitution party; Iowa American Constitution party; Kentucky and Louisiana, States Rights party; Mississippi, States Rights Electors; New Jersey, Conservative party; New Mexico, The New Party; North Dakota, For America party; South Carolina, States Rights Electors; Tennessee, Texas and Wisconsin, Constitution party.

Getting their independent electors on the ballot turned out to be a problem for the Independent Movement. Twenty - eight states do not even list the electors in the general election. Time ran out in some of the other 20 states — 18 of which place the party candidates for presidential office on the ballot with the names of the electors. The Independent Movement did not have its candidates until Sept. 16. Other requirements for party conventions and-or petitions, tend to prevent any but a strongly organized party from appearing on the ballot.

But despite these handicaps, Fellers remains confident — if not of success this year, then of the future. As he puts it: "Judging from the response to date and the anticipated results (on Nov. 6), the continuation of the conservative movement in some form is certainly indicated."

Scoring The Candidates' Qualifications

At this late hour there are probably very few undecided voters. Most, on the basis of reason and-or emotion, have made a choice.

For those few who have not . . .

For the handful yet uncertain.

For those who haven't been able to decide between Eisenhower and Stevenson, let us evaluate their qualifications one at a time.

Personnel management teaches us that when two men are in line for the same promotion, we should set down their qualifications in writing. Grade them. And compare the grades.

This "test" is worthless, of course, unless your answers are as nearly impartially honest as you can make them.

But if you avoid "wishful thinking," if you set aside political rationalization, if you will take a pencil and grade both candidates honestly on the same "qualifications for the job," you'll help yourself make an intelligent choice.

On a piece of paper write the names Eisenhower . . . and Stevenson . . . one over the other.

Then, as I list certain qualities essential to the Presidency, you put a single mark after the name of the individual you believe best qualified.

For example, if I say "golfer," you put a mark after Eisenhower.

If I say "tennis player," you put a mark after Stevenson.

However, I will confine this list to those qualities which are pertinent to the office. Here goes:

1. Which candidate would you consider most willing and best able to solve the so-called "farm problem"?

Put one line after the name of either Eisenhower or Stevenson.

Next:

2. Which candidate would you want to represent you in negotiations with other nations?

3. Which man is best qualified to lead us through a hot war?

4. Which man is best qualified to lead us in a cold war?

5. Physical health?

Be careful here. Be as honest as you can and as accurate as available information allows. Which man is in the best physical health?

We are halfway through now. Keep score carefully.

6. Which candidate has the better Vice-President?

In other words, if death should come to the leader, which man has the running mate better equipped to administer the office? You have to visualize both Mr. Nixon and Mr. Kefauver in the White House. Which man is best qualified?

7. Which candidate, Eisenhower or Stevenson, know most about money matters? This refers to fiscal policy, inflation, deflation, Taxes, budgetary and other economic matters. Which man knows most about these things?

8. Of which man would you be most proud if he were President? This is important. The dignity of that office is essential to our national prestige. Which man, as President, would make you most proud to be an American?

9. Which candidate has the best qualified advisors? Careful, again. Imagine these "friends" of the President walking in and out the back door of the White House. Evaluate their associates. Which man has the best qualified advisors?

10. Which is best able to translate complex issues into understandable terms?

One more question:

11. Which man, Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson, would you most trust with our internal security?

Now add up the score. You may be surprised.

Mississippi Voters Face Difficult Choice Between Ike, Adlai On Race Issue

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP) — Tuesday's election will find most Mississippians like fans at the wrong football game. They feel there's no team on the field fighting effectively for what they want most — continued segregation.

Seasoned political observers are unanimous in believing the Democrats will win as usual. Except for 1948 when she joined three other states in the States Rights column, Mississippi hasn't strayed from the Democratic column in modern history.

The States Righters are back, this time without the state's Democratic machinery on their side. Their most effective play has been to condemn the Democrats for supporting "that integrationist candidate," Adlai Stevenson. Their great handicap is a belief their movement is futile.

The Democrats — and almost all state office holders and congressmen have stayed loyal — have seldom mentioned Stevenson and shunned Estes Kefauver entirely. Their effective campaign arguments:

1. The South must protect committee assignments of Southern congressmen in a position to block civil rights, especially Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

2. If the States Righters succeed in throwing the election into the House of Representatives, the Republicans would elect the President because they outnumber the Democrats there.

The Republicans were a real threat in 1952, when many big Democrats supported Eisenhower and he polled an unprecedented 39 per cent of the Mississippi vote under a "Citizens for Eisenhower" label. The Supreme Court integration ruling, the administration's integration program, and the fact that Eisenhower will be on the ballot only under a Republican label apparently doom him this time.

Besides choosing among four presidential elector slates, Mississippians will vote on a constitutional amendment authorizing the state Legislature to close a tax loophole. It would enable the Legislature to set collection of the advalorem taxes to coincide with automobile license tag purchases.

A majority of those voting must approve the amendment for it to pass. Those who vote but not on the amendment will, in effect, cast a vote against it.

Mississippi's six congressmen, all Democrats, are unopposed. It's an off-year for state offices, and also for the U. S. Senate.

There's a lot of talk of "going fishing" election day. Secretary of State Heber Ladner predicted only 275,000 of Mississippi's estimated 475,000-500,000 eligible voters will cast ballots. He says elimination of absentee votes and the fact that it's an off-year for state offices are factors in reducing the count.

In 1948, the state's leading Democrats joined the States Righters en masse, headed by Gov. Fielding Wright as the splinter faction's vice presidential nominee. This year, the States Righters, who include a good number of 1952's Democrats for Eisenhower, have been most critical of the Democrats.

This reached its height when state Sen. Earl Evans of the States Righters in a statement Oct. 29 said, "Coleman, Stevenson and Kefauver all favor the same race-mixing socialistic ideals . . ." Coleman wrote most of Mississippi's new segregation laws as attorney general and signed them when he was promoted to governor. He felt called upon to repeat his pledge that, Mississippi, only state to hold out 100 per cent against integration, would continue segregated while he is in office.

In 1952, the Democrats carried Mississippi by 172,566-112,966, or 61 per cent. The total vote of 285,532 set a record. In 1948, States Righters polled 167,538, or 90 per cent of the 192,100 total. Democrats backing President Truman polled only 19,384, the Black and Tan Republicans 2,505, the Lily White Republicans 2,448 and the Progressives 225.

The Republican vote this time will be divided between the Black and Tan Grand Old Party and the Mississippi Republican Party, the latter known familiarly as the Lily Whites. Both slates are pledged to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

Taxpayers' Group In Final Bid To Beat Convention

KAPLAN, La., Nov. 3—UP—Spokesmen for the Louisiana Taxpayers Association made an 11th hour appeal to Louisiana voters here tonight to defeat the proposed constitutional convention.

LTA Chairman Jack Hayes told a gathering here to "consider well the safeguards of property... then vote against the call for the constitutional convention.

"You have no guarantee," he said, "that a new constitution would include important safe - guards.

"In these times of political unrest and turmoil, of suspicion and public antagonism, we cannot trust the laws of our land to the mercy of an administration which has shown clearly time and again that it will demand higher taxes," Hayes added.

He said the administration would demand higher taxes, abolish civil service, tamper with local government and rule "with an iron hand, if you give it the opportunity."

The anti-convention group has made a statewide tour to defeat the convention call since passed in amendment form by the 1956 Legislature.

New Orleans state Rep. J. Marshall Brown also spoke to the gathering, saying, "How in the name of decency are we to believe the promises of this power-mad governor...when we have seen how he broke promise after promise in Baton Rouge?"

Rep. Brown then referred again to Gov. Earl Long.

"Didn't he promise not to raise taxes, threatening, pleading, demanding and insulting, as he tried to get new taxes?" asked Brown.

12.7 Million Lbs. Of Wool Purchased For Army Blankets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—The Army announced today the purchase of 12,720,000 pounds of wool from the Commodity Credit Corp., for the manufacture of blankets for the armed services.

The Army said the purchase will reduce the government's stocks of surplus wool "by a substantial amount." The purchase was made at this time, the Army said, "to take advantage of a favorable price."

The Army will invite bids from textile manufacturers to make blankets from the wool.

Cancer Society's Position On United Fund Given

The president of the Ouachita parish unit of the American Cancer Society yesterday issued a statement clarifying its position with regard to the United Givers Fund and explaining why the group is not a member of the local united campaign.

Mrs. Fred Petty declared that "during the last few weeks there has been a tremendous amount of national publicity in connection with the fund-raising activities of the national United Fund."

"It has been said time and again on radio and television that a part of the money raised will go for cancer research," she continued.

Inasmuch as the Ouachita parish unit of the American Cancer Society, due to national policy, does not belong to the united fund, this is not true in our area, she added.

The American Cancer Society, according to Mrs. Petty, is not opposed to united fund raising for organizations that want it and whose purpose can best be served by this type of solicitation.

"However, in the best interest of the American Cancer Society's threefold program of research, service and education, we will carry on our April Crusade, which is an extensive educational program combined with a fund-raising effort," said Mrs. Petty.

Mrs. Petty continued by saying that several years ago over the country some few units of ACS did elect to join United Fund raising organizations. Some of these units have continued to participate in this federal fund raising effort however, nearly 25 per cent of those in united funds in 1954 have seen fit to withdraw and resume their own independent crusades, she added.

Mrs. Petty went on to say that two years ago the American Cancer Society made a 'thorough study" covering a five year period of fund raising which revealed that the group participating in united fund raising showed a growth of only 18 per cent while those units outside the united fund had experienced more than 58 per cent growth.

"On the strength of this survey," said Mrs. Petty, "it was decided that those units already participating in United Funds could continue to do so as long as the fund was able to meet the ever growing need of the American Cancer Society."

However, at that time a national policy was adopted which henceforth forbade those units not already in the united funds to join any united fund raising effort, she said. "It was felt that this action was imperative in view of the fact that during the five year period referred to, the occurrence of cancer increased from one person out of seven to one out of four of us who will have cancer today. This makes us realize the urgent need for acceleration of our research and educational programs," asserted Mrs. Petty.

Regardless of what our personal feelings might be in this matter, Mrs. Petty stated, this policy is a national one set by the governing body of the American Cancer Society which is made up of volunteer workers such as we from all sections of the United States and cannot be changed locally either by persuasion or pressure.

The cancer official was referring to the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund drive which was launched Thursday. The local drive has 12 member agencies, but the Cancer Society is not among them, nor is Cerebral Palsy or Infantile Paralysis.

Legion To Pay Tribute To Vets

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3—UP — The American Legion will pay tribute to the nation's 22 million living veterans here in its 1956 national Veterans Day program Nov. 11.

The Legion will give recognition to those who died defending the nation, but will dedicate the national program to living veterans.

Some three million legionnaires in 17,000 posts will observe the program.

Morton Downey, nationally-known vocalist will participate in the program with Gov. Earl Long and Mayor de Lesseps Morrison.

The national Veterans Day observance will get under way in the morning with a traditional wreath-laying ceremony at Chalmette National Cemetery.

The Legion selected New Orleans as the site for the Veterans Day observance in keeping with recent policy of rotating the ceremoney around the nation.

Rep. Thompson To Vote Against New Constitution

VILLE PLATTE, La. Nov. 3—UP—Congressman T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte said today he will vote against the proposed state constitutional convention.

He said a convention could again open the possibility of increased and unnecessary taxes.

Thompson is up for re-election Nov. 6 without opposition. He won a primary victory over three opponents endorsed by Gov. Earl Long.

Long is for the convention.

"In this matter, I am willing, for one thing, to take the judgement of the people most directly affected, just as I ask farmers for advice about agriculture," he said. "And in this case, lawyers of Louisiana are overwhelmingly against holding a convention at this time."

Thompson said he was not trying to impose his judgment on the convention but that he was clarifying his stand on the question.

"Teachers certainly should get first consideration for raises," he said, "but with the upward swing of existing tax collections there should be enough funds to accomplish this."

Parchman Prison To Open Novelty Shop To Public

PARCHMAN, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP) — The Mississippi penitentiary plans to open its first public novelty and curio shop to sell prisoner-made items, the prison's monthly publication said today.

Donald F. Morgan, editor of the "Inside World," said plans include highway signs showing the public the way to the new shop.

In his "Rambling With the Editor" column, Morgan said:

"Another first for Parchman is now in the making. A novelty and curio shop is to be opened in the near future . . . at the front (of the prison) to promote the sale of inmate-made articles."

On display and for sale will be women's purses, billfolds, belts, picture frames, lamps and many other hand-made gift items, Morgan said.

Under the program, 10 per cent of the sale price would go to the inmate hobby contest fund — scheduled this year for Dec. 4 — in which Morgan plans to enter a lamp.

Negro Held For Beating Up Man

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, Miss. (AP)—Copiah County Sheriff J. L. Lotterhos said today he arrested a Negro in connection with the severe beating of a 50-year-old white man yesterday.

Lotterhos identified the Negro only as "Stovall" and said he was held on an open charge pending further investigation.

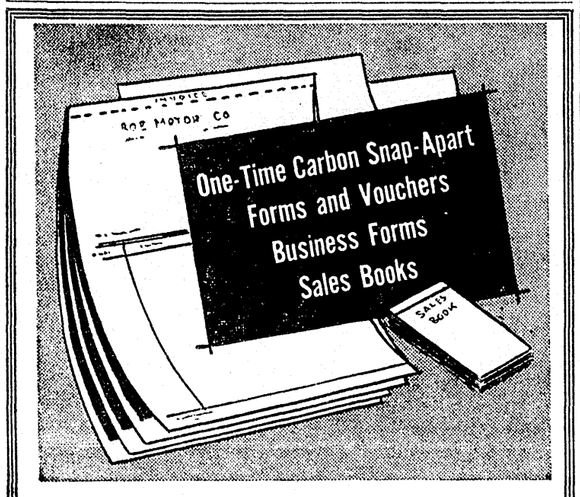

The sheriff identified the white man as Alfred Newman, a salvage dealer. He said he was in a Jackson hospital where physicians described his condition as critical. He underwent surgery for a skull fracture.

Newman was found unconscious on the city dump and has not regained consciousness.

Lotterhos expressed hope Newman could identify his assailant.

On June 17, 1909 a Congressional Medal was presented to Orville and Wilbur Wright, inventors of the airplane.

Mississippi Voters Face Difficult Choice Between Ike, Adlai On Race Issue

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP) — Tuesday's election will find most Mississippians like fans at the wrong football game. They feel there's no team on the field fighting effectively for what they want most — continued segregation.

Seasoned political observers are unanimous in believing the Democrats will win as usual. Except for 1948 when she joined three other states in the States Rights column, Mississippi hasn't strayed from the Democratic column in modern history.

The States Righters are back, this time without the state's Democratic machinery on their side. Their most effective play has been to condemn the Democrats for supporting "that integrationist candidate," Adlai Stevenson. Their great handicap is a belief threat in 1952, when many big Democrats supported Eisenhower and he polled an unprecedented 39 per cent of the Mississippi vote under a "Citizens for Eisenhower" label. The Supreme Court integration ruling, the administration's integration program, and the fact that Eisenhower will be on the ballot only under a Republican label apparently doom him this time.

The Democrats — and almost all state office holders and congressmen have stayed loyal — have seldom mentioned Stevenson and shunned Estes Kefauver entirely. Their effective campaign arguments:

1. The South must protect committee assignments of Southern congressmen in a position to block civil rights, especially Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

2. If the States Righters succeed in throwing the election into the House of Representatives, the Republicans would elect the President because they outnumber the Democrats there.

The Republicans were a real

Besides choosing among four presidential elector slates, Mississippians will vote on a constitutional amendment authorizing the state Legislature to close a tax loophole. It would enable the Legislature to set collection of the advalorem taxes to coincide with automobile license tag purchases.

A majority of those voting must approve the amendment for it to pass. Those who vote but not on the amendment will, in effect, cast a vote against it.

Mississippi's six congressmen, all Democrats, are unopposed. It's an off-year for state offices, and also for the U. S. Senate.

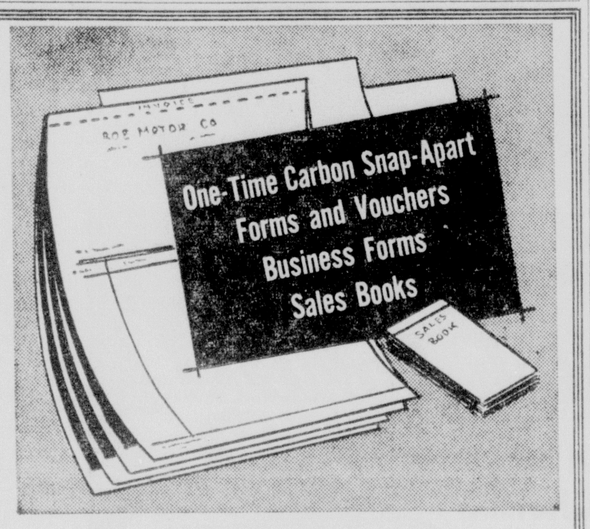

There's a lot of talk of "going fishing" election day. Secretary of State Heber Ladner predicted only 275,000 of Mississippi's estimated 475,000-500,000 eligible voters will cast ballots. He says elimination of absentee votes and the fact that it's an off-year for state offices are factors in reducing the count.

In 1948, the state's leading Democrats joined the States Righters en masse, headed by Gov. Fielding Wright as the splinter faction's vice presidential nominee. This year, the States Righters, who include a good number of 1952's Democrats for Eisenhower, have been most critical of the Democrats.

This reached its height when state Sen. Earl Evans of the States Righters in a statement Oct. 29 said, "Coleman, Stevenson and Kefauver all favor the same race-mixing socialistic ideals . . ." Coleman wrote most of Mississippi's new segregation laws as attorney general and signed them when he was promoted to governor. He felt called upon to repeat his pledge that, Mississippi, only state to hold out 100 per cent against integration, would continue segregated while he is in office.

In 1952, the Democrats carried Mississippi by 172,566-112,966, or 61 per cent. The total vote of 285,532 set a record. In 1948, States Righters polled 167,538, or 90 per cent of the 192,100 total. Democrats backing President Truman polled only 19,384, the Black and Tan Republicans 2,505, the Lily White Republicans 2,448 and the Progressives 225.

The Republican vote this time will be divided between the Black and Tan Grand Old Party and the Mississippi Republican Party, the latter known familiarly as the Lily Whites. Both slates are pledged to the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

Taxpayers' Group In Final Bid To Beat Convention

KAPLAN, La., Nov. 3—UP—Spokesmen for the Louisiana Taxpayers Association made an 11th hour appeal to Louisiana voters here tonight to defeat the proposed constitutional convention.

LTA Chairman Jack Hayes told a gathering here to "consider well the safeguards of property... then vote against the call for the constitutional convention.

"You have no guarantee," he said, "that a new constitution would include important safe - guards.

"In these times of political unrest and turmoil, of suspicion and public antagonism, we cannot trust the laws of our land to the mercy of an administration which has shown clearly time and again that it will demand higher taxes," Hayes added.

He said the administration would demand higher taxes, abolish civil service, tamper with local government and rule "with an iron hand, if you give it the opportunity."

The anti-convention group has made a statewide tour to defeat the convention call since passed in amendment form by the 1956 Legislature.

New Orleans state Rep. J. Marshall Brown also spoke to the gathering, saying, "How in the name of decency are we to believe the promises of this power-mad governor...when we have seen how he broke promise after promise in Baton Rouge?"

Rep. Brown then referred again to Gov. Earl Long.

"Didn't he promise not to raise taxes, threatening, pleading, demanding and insulting, as he tried to get new taxes?" asked Brown.

12.7 Million Lbs. Of Wool Purchased For Army Blankets

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—The Army announced today the purchase of 12,720,000 pounds of wool from the Commodity Credit Corp., for the manufacture of blankets for the armed services.

The Army said the purchase will reduce the government's stocks of surplus wool "by a substantial amount." The purchase was made at this time, the Army said, "to take advantage of a favorable price."

The Army will invite bids from textile manufacturers to make blankets from the wool.

Cancer Society's Position On United Fund Given

The president of the Ouachita parish unit of the American Cancer Society yesterday issued a statement clarifying its position with regard to the United Givers Fund and explaining why the group is not a member of the local united campaign.

Mrs. Fred Petty declared that "during the last few weeks there has been a tremendous amount of national publicity in connection with the fund-raising activities of the national United Fund."

"It has been said time and again on radio and television that a part of the money raised will go for cancer research," she continued.

Inasmuch as the Ouachita parish unit of the American Cancer Society, due to national policy, does not belong to the united fund, this is not true in our area, she added.

The American Cancer Society, according to Mrs. Petty, is not opposed to united fund raising for organizations that want it and whose purpose can best be served by this type of solicitation.

"However, in the best interest of the American Cancer Society's threefold program of research, service and education, we will carry on our April Crusade, which is an extensive educational program combined with a fund-raising effort," said Mrs. Petty.

Mrs. Petty continued by saying that several years ago over the country some few units of ACS did elect to join United Fund raising organizations. Some of these units have continued to participate in this federal fund raising effort however, nearly 25 per cent of those in united funds in 1954 have seen fit to withdraw and resume their own independent crusades, she added.

Mrs. Petty went on to say that two years ago the American Cancer Society made a 'thorough study" covering a five year period of fund raising which revealed that the group participating in united fund raising showed a growth of only 18 per cent while those units outside the united fund had experienced more than 58 per cent growth.

"On the strength of this survey," said Mrs. Petty, "it was decided that those units already participating in United Funds could continue to do so as long as the fund was able to meet the ever growing need of the American Cancer Society."

However, at that time a national policy was adopted which henceforth forbade those units not already in the united funds to join any united fund raising effort, she said. "It was felt that this action was imperative in view of the fact that during the five year period referred to, the occurrence of cancer increased from one person out of seven to one out of four of us who will have cancer today. This makes us realize the urgent need for acceleration of our research and educational programs," asserted Mrs. Petty.

Regardless of what our personal feelings might be in this matter, Mrs. Petty stated, this policy is a national one set by the governing body of the American Cancer Society which is made up of volunteer workers such as we from all sections of the United States and cannot be changed locally either by persuasion or pressure.

The cancer official was referring to the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund drive which was launched Thursday. The local drive has 12 member agencies, but the Cancer Society is not among them, nor is Cerebral Palsy or Infantile Paralysis.

Legion To Pay Tribute To Vets

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3—UP — The American Legion will pay tribute to the nation's 22 million living veterans here in its 1956 national Veterans Day program Nov. 11.

The Legion will give recognition to those who died defending the nation, but will dedicate the national program to living veterans.

Some three million legionnaires in 17,000 posts will observe the program.

Morton Downey, nationally-known vocalist will participate in the program with Gov. Earl Long and Mayor de Lesseps Morrison.

The national Veterans Day observance will get under way in the morning with a traditional wreath-laying ceremony at Chalmette National Cemetery.

The Legion selected New Orleans as the site for the Veterans Day observance in keeping with recent policy of rotating the ceremoney around the nation.

Rep. Thompson To Vote Against New Constitution

VILLE PLATTE, La. Nov. 3—UP—Congressman T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte said today he will vote against the proposed state constitutional convention.

He said a convention could again open the possibility of increased and unnecessary taxes.

Thompson is up for re-election Nov. 6 without opposition. He won a primary victory over three opponents endorsed by Gov. Earl Long.

Long is for the convention.

"In this matter, I am willing, for one thing, to take the judgement of the people most directly affected, just as I ask farmers for advice about agriculture," he said. "And in this case, lawyers of Louisiana are overwhelmingly against holding a convention at this time."

Thompson said he was not trying to impose his judgment on the convention but that he was clarifying his stand on the question.

Passman Blames Ike For Trouble In Middle East

The crisis which has developed in the Middle East was declared Saturday night by Fifth District Congressman Otto E. Passman to be "a direct result of the Eisenhower administration's blunder - and-bluff foreign policy."

He charged, in a statement issued from his office at Monroe, that United States "diplomacy by slogan has reached a dead-end in the Mid-East, which has brought this nation to an alliance in the United Nations with Communist Russia and the dictator of Egypt."

Chairman of the Foreign Operations Appropriations committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, Passman emphasized an assertion to the effect that "for nearly four years the Eisenhower - Dulles foreign policy has been alternately fast and loose with Israel, fast and loose with India, fast and loose with Egypt, fast and loose with Britain and France." He asserted that "the tragic consequence of these bluffs and backdowns is total loss of confidence abroad in American wisdom and purposes."

He attributed what he called the "breakdown in the alliance between the United States and the free nations of the world" to these three factors: "Ill-considered and mistaken policies of the Eisenhower administration, the administration compounding its errors by withholding the truth about the Middle Eastern situation from the American people, and the neglect by the administration to do many things which might have been done during the past year to avert war in the Middle East."

Declared the Congressman: "If the American people want a foreign policy which will sustain free world unity, while holding back Communism and working for a lasting peace in the world, it is imperative that there be awakening now to the lessons of the debacle in the Middle East."

Coci Ordered To Show Cause For Withholding Data

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3—UP—Jefferson Sheriff William S. Coci has been ordered to show cause at a Nov. 9 hearing why he refused to let a New Orleans newspaper reporter examine payroll records in his office.

A writ of mandamus was filed against Coci by Emil Comar of the New Orleans States and Judge Leo W. McCune of the 24th Judicial district court signed the order yesterday.

Comar said he made oral and written requests to examine the sheriff's office payroll, but Coci refused.

Jefferson parish district attorney Frank H. Langridge said the payroll in the sheriff's office comes under the state public records act, and can be examined by any qualified elector or taxpayer without any inquiry as to why he desires to see the records.

March Of Dimes Workers To Meet At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3—UP—March of Dimes workers from 63 chapters in Louisiana and Texas will gather here Thursday to map regional plans for the 1957 fund drive of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Some 200 professional and volunteer workers are expected to attend.

Speakers will include Raymond H. Barrows, national executive director, and Joseph F. Nee, national director of fund raising activities.

Eisenhower And Stevenson

Summary Of 'How They Stand' On Vital Issues Confronting U.S. Citizens Today

WHERE THEY STAND
By UNITED PRESS

Where do the presidential candidates stand on the major campaign issues?

Here, in capsule form, are the views of President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson.

ROLE OF GOVERNMENT

EISENHOWER — "I think that we are more concerned on our side with trying to follow the Lincolnian dictum of doing for people the things they cannot do well themselves, but to avoid interference where people can do thing for themselves . . . we believe that it is very necessary . . . to support the social security, the unemployment insurance plans . . . to help the research in health, to help provide school rooms . . ."

STEVENSON — "As the size and complexity of our society increases, the role of government activity must not be allowed to decline, as it has, up to the election year, under President Eisenhower. It is not economical to neglect our public needs to postpone confronting them, . . . to buy the needed public services in a bargain basement . . ."

TAXES

EISENHOWER — "I wouldn't class the prospects for a tax cut as bright or something right around the corner. I say that logical tax reduction comes from proof that you can live more economically doing the things that need to be done and must be done. . ."

STEVENSON — "In the absence of a major war, there is every reason to believe that we not only can meet the claims of increased welfare programs out of increased tax revenues that respond automatically to higher incomes, but even reduce tax rates. . ."

H-BOMB TESTS

EISENHOWER — Tests must be continued. "There is nothing in post-war history to justify the belief that we should or that we could even dare accept less than sound safeguards and controls in any disarmament arrangement."

STEVENSON — U.S. should lead in agreement with Britain and Russia, to halt H-bomb tests. "First, the H-bomb is already so powerful that a single bomb could destroy the largest city in the world . . Second, the testing of an H-bomb anywhere can be quickly detected. . ."

DRAFT

EISENHOWER — "As of now, we have about 3 million people under arms. Experience has shown time and again we can't keep more than about 1 1-2 million on a voluntary basis . . . I don't see any chance of ending the draft . . in the immediate future . . and carrying out the responsibilities for the security of the country that must be carried out."

STEVENSON—"We can now anticipate the possibility-- hopefully but responsibly — that within the foreseeable future we can maintain the military forces we need without the draft. . I think it is the national will, shared equally by every American—candidate or voter, Democrat or Republican—that the draft be ended at the earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety."

SCHOOLS

EISENHOWER—"Not once but twice, in my state of the union messages—in 1955 and again in 1956—I urged swift action by Congress 'to build schools' . . . That three-year program was rejected by the opposition. . ."

STEVENSON — "The crisis in our schools is not only a challenge to democracy and to national security. Above all, it is a challenge to conscience — to our moral conviction of the worth of individual human beings, to our love and hopes for our children, and to our faith in America."

FOREIGN POLICY

EISENHOWER — "We have advanced a long way on the road toward peace . . . the plain truth is that Americans know very well the difference between today — and the days of the Korean casualty lists."

STEVENSON — "Four years of boasts and bluffs have diminished respect for our words, as four years of threats and smiles have diminished respect for our will."

FARM

EISENHOWER — Flexible price supports, soil bank will be continued. New program to help small farmers has been developed. "Rigid wartime price supports induced the farmer to grow far more than he could sell and shorted off much of his foreign market. Huge surpluses built up. Prices went down . . . this year is the first year since World War II that farm prices have started back up without the economic help of war . . ."

STEVENSON — "Only Republicans could keep the stock market up and the farm market down at the same time. They did it the last time they were in office with Hoover at the helm and they're doing it again now . . . We propose to support basic commodities at 90 per cent of parity. We propose to extend protection to perishables . . . We will administer vigorously the soil bank, a good democratic idea."

Sausage production in 1955 amounted to 2.7 billion pounds. Frankfurters accounted for one third of the total output of sausage products.

In 1821 there were about 30,000 pioneers in Australia. More than half were convicts.

Eisenhower And Stevenson

Summary Of 'How They Stand' On Vital Issues Confronting U.S. Citizens Today

WHERE THEY STAND
By UNITED PRESS

Where do the presidential candidates stand on the major campaign issues?

Here, in capsule form, are the views of President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson:

ROLE OF GOVERNMENT

EISENHOWER — "I think that we are more concerned on our side with trying to follow the Lincolnian dictum of doing for people the things they cannot do well themselves, but to avoid interference where people can do thing for themselves . . . we believe that it is very necessary . . . to support the social security, the unemployment insurance plans . . . to help the research in health, to help provide school rooms . . ."

STEVENSON — "As the size and complexity of our society increases, the role of government activity must not be allowed to decline, as it has, up to the election year, under President Eisenhower. It is not economical to neglect our public needs, to postpone confronting them, or to try to buy the needed public services in a bargain basement . . ."

TAXES

EISENHOWER — "I wouldn't class (the prospects for a tax cut) as bright or something right around the corner. I say that logical tax reduction comes from proof that you can live more economically doing the things that need to be done and must be done . . ."

STEVENSON—"In the absence of a major war, there is every reason to believe that we not only can meet the claims of (increased welfare) programs out of increased tax revenues that respond automatically to higher incomes, but even reduce tax rates. . . ."

H—BOMB TESTS

EISENHOWER—Tests must be continued. "There is nothing in post-war history to justify the belief that we should—or that we could even dare—accept less than sound safeguards and controls for any disarmament arrangements."

STEVENSON — U. S. should lead, in agreement with Britain and Russia, to halt H-bomb tests. "First, the H-bomb is already so powerful that a single bomb could destroy the largest city in the world. . . Second, the testing of an H-bomb anywhere can be quickly detected. . ."

DRAFT

EISENHOWER — "As of now, we have about 3 million people under arms. Experience has shown time and again we can't keep more than about 1 1-2 million on a voluntary basis . . . I don't see any chance of ending the draft. . in the immediate future. . and carrying out the responsibilities for the security of the country that must be carried out."

STEVENSON—"We can now anticipate the possibility— hopefully but responsibly — that within the foreseeable future we can maintain the military forces we need without the draft. . I think it is the national will, shared equally by every American—candidate or voter, Democrat or Republican—that the draft be ended at the earliest possible moment consistent with the national safety."

SCHOOLS

EISENHOWER—"Not once but twice, in my state of the union messages—in 1955 and again in 1956—I urged swift action by Congress (to build schools) . . . That five-year program was rejected by the opposition. . ."

STEVENSON — "The crisis in our schools is not only a challenge to democracy and to national security. Above all, it is a challenge to conscience — to our moral conviction of the worth of individual human beings, to our love and hopes for our children, and to our faith in America."

FOREIGN POLICY

EISENHOWER — "We have advanced a long way on the road toward (peace) . . . the plain truth is that Americans know very well the difference betwen today —and the days of the Korean casualty lists."

STEVENSON — "Four years of boasts and bluffs have diminished respect for our words, as four years of threats and smiles have diminished respect for our will."

FARM

EISENHOWER — Flexible price supports; soil bank will be continued. New program to help small farmers has been developed. "Rigid wartime price supports induced the farmer to grow far more than he could sell and choked off much of his foreign market. Huge surpluses built up. Prices went down . . . this year is the first year since World War II that farm prices have started back up without the economic help of war . . ."

STEVENSON — "Only Republicans could keep the stock market up and the farm market down at the same time. They did it the last time they were in office with Hoover at the helm and they're doing it again now . . . We propose to support basic commodities at 90 per cent of parity. We propose to extend protection to perishables . . . We will administer vigorously the soil bank, a good democratic idea."

Sausage production in 1955 amounted to 2.7 billion pounds. Frankfurters accounted for one third of the total output of sausage products.

In 1821 there were about 30,000 pioneers in Australia. More than half were convicts.

Nixon Says U. S. Hopes For Stable Mid-East Solution

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 3 (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a final campaign rally Saturday night that the Eisenhower administration believes a "stable" solution will be found to the Middle East crisis.

In a new reply to Adlai Stevenson's criticism of President Eisenhower's Middle East policy, Nixon said that Russia has not and will not become a "decisive influence" in the area.

The speech which was prepared for delivery here ended Nixon's 34,000 mile barnstorming tour of the country that has taken him into 36 states by plane, train and auto. His only other scheduled campaign activity will be an election eve telecast Monday night from Washington.

Nixon spent the final day whistle-stopping through Ohio, primarily to boost the re-election campaign of Sen. George H. Bender (R. Ohio), who is in a battle with five-time Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche. The Republicans are confident Mr. Eisenhower will win Ohio's 25 electoral votes on Tuesday.

In his Canton speech, Nixon said Stevenson had criticized the Eisenhower administration's policy in the Middle East but ignored conditions in that area while President Truman was in office.

He recalled that Israel and the Arab states were in a "major war," in 1948 that was never ended by peace but only patched up by inconclusive and uneasy armistice.

In the present crisis, Nixon said the United States deplores the use of force.

Negro Sentenced To Death Penalty

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3—UP—Emile Weston Jr., Negro, today faced a death sentence for the rape of a white woman.

Weston was sentenced yesterday to the electric chair by District Judge Charles Holcomb after Weston's conviction last month for a May 27 rape.

Weston has 10 days to appeal the sentence.

Holcombe also sentenced Lil Kennedy to life imprisonment for murdering McKinley Robinson with an icepick Sept. 5. A jury found her guilty without capital punishment.

NAACP Seeking Court Hearing On Texas Legal Ban

TYLER, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—District Judge Otis T. Dunagan said Saturday he has received a written request from an attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asking for a court hearing on an injunction banning the group's activities in Texas.

Dunagan declined to identify the attorney.

He said the request asks for a hearing to argue a motion to move a permanent injunction hearing to Dallas or Austin. The letter also contains an agreement that if Judge Dunagan overrules the request to transfer the case the permanent injunction hearing could start immediately in Tyler.

Dunagan said he has not yet set a date to hear the motion.

The NAACP was banned in Texas last month by a temporary injunction granted by the judge. The organization has 20 days to file an appeal from the ruling. The deadline is Nov. 13.

When the temporary injunction hearing was started, the NAACP requested the case be transfered. After a 17-day-hearng, the judge issued the temporary order.

The court reporter has not been asked for a copy of the October hearing.transcript.

If a permanent injunction case is held, a jury may be called to decide it.

Law Student At LSU Contests Traffic Fines

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3—UP—An LSU law student attacked the legality of $5 parking tickets given by the university to offenders and declared a state statute seems to invalidate the parking fine.

J. Burton Foret of Ville Platte, president of the junior law class, said a university official told him the fine was in part disciplinary.

Foret declared the law states that fines in excess of $1 by municipal subdivisions are illegal in such cases.

The question was turned over to the LSU student senate traffic committee. It was suggested that the attorney general be asked to rule on the law.

After 11-Year-Old Brother Slain

Hungarian Girl Waging Private War On Russia

BUDAPEST, Nov. 3 (UP)— A 19-year-old Hungarian girl is waging a private war against the Russians.

She is seeking to avenge the death of her 11-year-old brother, who was shot in cold blood on a street by Soviet soldiers.

Juliana has been a member of the Communist party, but she forgot about that when her brother was killed.

First, she went home and cried for the lost boy. Then she picked up a gun and joined in the battle to free Budapest from the Russians. She believes she killed at least four Russian soldiers.

There were no tears in her eyes as she talked of her private war against the Soviets.

Juliana said she and other girls in a textile factory walked out when the revolt flamed Oct. 23.

"When I went home, my mother told me my 11-year-old brother had been killed by a Soviet tank they shot him on purpose—it was no accident," she said.

"After I finished crying, I promised I would avenge him."

Lines of fatigue made Juliana appear older. A bandage covered the bullet wound in her cheek. She moved stiffly because of a machine gun wound in her right shoulder. She had fought for eight days mostly around the Kilian barracks where vicious battles had occurred.

But she made it sound so simple.

When the Soviets attacked the barracks, she and some others ran to a building across the street and made it to the roof.

"I had a banjo (a Russian tommy gun) and some hand grenades which we got from the (Hungarian) soldiers," she said.

"With me were a girl of 17 and two boys of 18 or 19.

"I think I killed at least four Soviet soldiers, but it may have been more or less. Everyone was shooting all the time."

Some rebels brought up Molotov cocktails. They fought with every weapon they could find.

"They killed some of us, too," Juliana said, "but we were not afraid."

The fighting went on through last Sunday and Monday.

She added that she and others would rise to fight again if the Russians again resort to the cold-blooded killing of such defenseless persons as her 11 - year - old brother.

First Report Of United Fund Set Monday At Noon

The first report luncheon of the first annual Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund campaign for $189,000 will be held at noon Monday at the Virginia Hotel Ball Room.

All divisions of the "Give Once For All" drive will report on the progress of their work as the first tally of the campaign is made, Walter Kellogg, general chairman, said.

About 75 of the almost 1000 campaign volunteers will attend the report session, the first of three for all divisions.

The others are set for November 12 and November 16. The campaign is scheduled to wind up November 21.

In addition to the report to be made by the division leaders, Rabbi Jacob Lantz will deliver a talk on the Dead Sea Scrolls and their implication for our lives.

It is hoped that the first report will show a good start toward reaching the $189,000 goal.

All campaign workers are urged to attend the noon luncheon. Tickets will be available at the door.

Exploded Tire Causes Wreck On S. Grand Street

NO 4 - EXPLODED ALT

Kenneth Catalina, 17 - year - old Monroe youth, narrowly escaped raming a telephone pole and receiving serious injuries yesterday around 5 p.m. when a right front tire blew out on his automobile.

Although the youth missed the telephone pole, he crashed into a fire plug at 4200 S. Grand, but was not injured. The plug broke with the impact.

Catalina's father, J. H. Catalina, 316 Exan St., was driving in his car behind his son when the accident occurred. He said the youth, a Neville freshman, did an "excellent job" of keeping the car in the road after he hit the fire plug.

Kenneth was driving toward the downtown section of Monroe at approximately 45 m.p.h. The fire department was summoned, but the bent water line did not spill water into the street.

Expect Increase In La. Allowable

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3 (AP) — Conservation commissioner John B. Hussey said today Louisiana's December oil allowables probably will be increased because of Middle-East pipeline sabotage.

Oil purchasing companies contacted the commission, he said, after the 30-inch north line in Syria was blown up.

He termed the oil situation since the blowup "a great deal more serious," there but said there still is little indication of a big boom here.

The commission will contact the Oil companies which purchase in Louisiana Monday, he said, to learn their definite needs. If the commission decides to hold a meeting, he said, it likely will be Nov. 8.

Nominations for oil allowables normally are received on the 10th of each month, he said.

Production this month, he said, will be about 700,000 barrels of oil daily, but he was unable to estimate any accurate December figure.

Tea production hit a new world record in 1955 with India, Ceylon and Africa reporting bumper crops.

Texas Baptists Open Convention

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 3 (UP) —The Texas Baptists' 71st annual meeting opens Monday with more than 10,000 persons expected to attend the three different conventions.

Delegates will begin arriving Sunday from towns and cities all over the state. Pastors, laymen and women will represent 3,704 churches and 1,502,000 members.

Among them are some of the nation's most prominent Baptists, including Dr. Theodore Adams, president of the Baptist World Alliance, and Dr. Baker James Cauthen, executive secretary of the Foreign Mission Board for the Southern Baptist Convention.

The main annual convention begins Tuesday night and lasts through Thursday night but it will be preceded by the conventions of two auxiliary groups meeting from Monday morning through Tuesday afternoon.

More than 50 persons are on the program for the big general sessions alone. Purpose of the three conventions is to conduct the denomination's annual business, hear reports from various institutions and agencies, and hear inspiration talks by outstanding personalities.

Soldier Jailed In Miss. Death

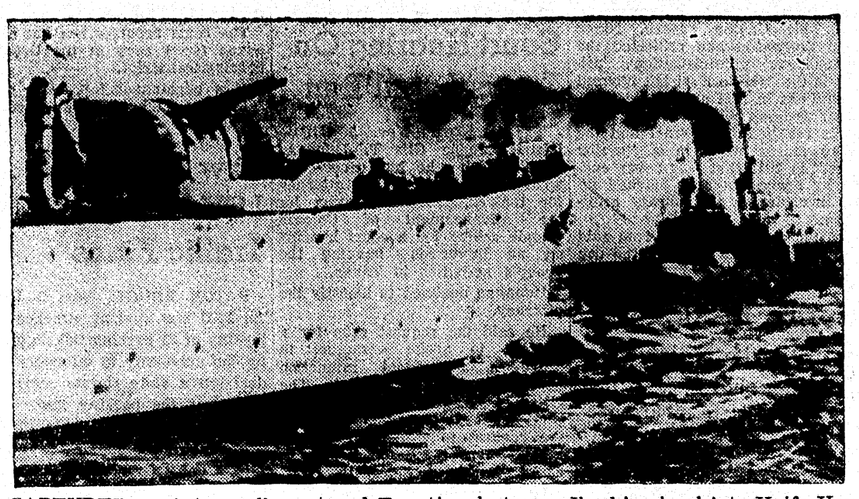

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)— Lauderdale County Sheriff J. V. Duckworth said today he jailed a soldier on a charge of accessory to murder in the death of a 41-year old West Enterprise carpenter last week.

Duckworth identified the soldier as Elmer Williams of Ranger, Tex. He said the man admitted being in the area at the time of the incident. The soldier declined to talk about it.

Williams was assigned to an Army post at Marietta, Ga.

Duckworth said Emmett Ellery Richardson died of a skull fracture and his body was found near Graham Switch on Highway 80.

Six other persons have been arrested in connection with the death.

CAPTURED — A tug pulls captured Egyptian destroyer Ibrahim Awal into Haifa Harbor after the 1000-ton vessel surrendered to Israeli naval forces. The ship and its 250-man crew were captured by four Israeli ships aided by planes. The former British destroyer, acquired by Egypt in 1950, had lobbed shells into Haifa before its capture.

Gainsville, Tex., Man Found Shot Dead In Driveway

GAINESVILLE, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Leroy Penton, 57, a member of the Cooke county selective Service Board, was found shot Saturday in the driveway of his home and died 30 minutes later in a Gainesville hospital.

His wife told investigators he came into the house, got a .45 pistol and went outside. She said she thought he was going to shoot a hawk or snake. She heard a shot and found him in the driveway.

The family resides about two miles south of Gainesville. Besides his wife, immediate survivors include a son who is in the Navy.

Lunacy Hearing Charges Sought In Texas Laws

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)— Gov. Allan Shivers Saturday endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow waiving of a jury in lunacy trials.

The amendment is one of eight on which voters will ballot at Tuesday's general election.

Texas is the last state in the nation to retain a compulsory jury trial for commitment of the mentally ill. The proposed amendment would allow waiver of the jury and require in its place competent medical or psychiatric testimony before a person could be committed to a state hospital.

Associations In Texas Seek Better Law Enforcement

AUSTIN, Nov. 3 (UP)—Representative of seven statewide associations will meet with Attorney General John Ben Shepperd Nov. 14 to draft a "legislative program for better law enforcement in Texas," it was announced Saturday.

The group—representing judges, district attorneys, county attorneys, sheriffs, constables, justices of the peace, city police, Texas Department of Public Safety and the attorney general's office — comprises a special legislative committee of the Texas Attorney General's Law Enforcement Conference.

First Snow Falls In Western Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Texas had its first snow of the season Saturday, but even more important were widespread rains over a broad area in the midsection of the state.

A trace of snow fell at Dalhart, in the Panhandle. It melted quickly, however, and skies later cleared in that sector.

The heaviest rainfall was at Trenton, in Fannin county near Bonham, where 1.61 inches was recorded up to 7 p. m. Also in North Central Texas, Celina had 1.53 inches, Gunter 1.60, McKinney 1.17 and Sherman 1.05.

Dallas had exactly one inch up to 7 p. m. and more rain was falling Saturday night.

The showers fell in an area bounded by Austin, Mineral Wells, Wichita Falls, Ardmore, Okla., and McAlester, Okla., and back through Tyler, College Station and Austin.

Up to nightfall Austin had measured .52-inch, College Station .38, Waco .90, Victoria .10, San Antonio .03, Fort Worth .58, Lufkin .63, Mineral Wells .32 and Houston and Laredo a trace.

The controlling factor in the Texas weather picture was an intense low pressure area aloft over New Mexico. The circulation around this low caused warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico to overrun the cold air to the surface in East and Central Texas.

The same condition was due to bring more scattered showers Sunday, weathermen predicted.

Temperatures remained mostly in the 40s and 50s Saturday afternoon, although it was warmer on the coast. Beaumont recorded 82 degrees and Galveston 81.

A dust storm cut visibility to four to six miles in West Texas Saturday afternoon. The Giant dust area was bounded by Abilene, Del Rio, Wink and back to Abilene.

Students Select Ike For President

PAMPA, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)— If Pampa high school students had their way about it President Eisenhower would be re-elected.

They held a mock election Friday and 357 voted for the President and 137 for the Democratic nominee, Adlai Stevenson.

The ballot was a replica of the one Gray county will use in Tuesday's general election.

In the governor's race, the students voted 263 for Democrat Price Daniel and 27 for the Republican nominee, William Bryant. There were 18 write-in votes for W. Lee O'Daniel.

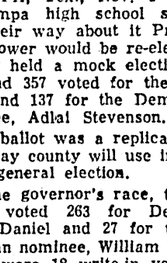

There were 594 out of 913 enrolled who paid a 5 cent poll tax (cost of printing the ballots) participating in the election.

President Eisenhower won a similar mock election in 1952.

First Report Of United Fund Set Monday At Noon

The first report luncheon of the first annual Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund campaign for $189,000 will be held at noon Monday at the Virginia Hotel Ball Room.

All divisions of the "Give Once For All" drive will report on the progress of their work as the first tally of the campaign is made, Walter Kellogg, general chairman, said.

About 75 of the almost 1000 campaign volunteers will attend the report session, the first of three for all divisions.

The others are set for November 12 and November 16. The campaign is scheduled to wind up November 21.

In addition to the report to be made by the division leaders, Rabbi Jacob Lantz will deliver a talk on the Dead Sea Scrolls and their implication for our lives.

It is hoped that the first report will show a good start toward reaching the $189,000 goal.

All campaign workers are urged to attend the noon luncheon. Tickets will be available at the door.

Exploded Tire Causes Wreck On S. Grand Street

NO 4 - EXPLODED ALT

Kenneth Catalina, 17 - year - old Monroe youth, narrowly escaped raming a telephone pole and receiving serious injuries yesterday around 5 p.m. when a right front tire blew out on his automobile.

Although the youth missed the telephone pole, he crashed into a fire plug at 4200 S. Grand, but was not injured. The plug broke with the impact.

Catalina's father, J. H. Catalina, 316 Egan St., was driving in his car behind his son when the accident occurred. He said the youth, a Neville freshman, did an "excellent job" of keeping the car in the road after he hit the fire plug.

Kenneth was driving toward the downtown section of Monroe at approximately 45 m.p.h. The fire department was summoned, but the bent water line did not spill water into the street.

Expect Increase In La. Allowable

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 3 (AP) — Conservation commissioner John B. Hussey said today Louisiana's December oil allowables probably will be increased because of Middle-East pipeline sabotage.

Oil purchasing companies contacted the commission, he said, after the 30-inch north line in Syria was blown up.

He termed the oil situation since the blowup "a great deal more serious," there but said there still is little indication of a big boom here.

The commission will contact the Oil companies which purchase in Louisiana Monday, he said, to learn their definite needs. If the commission decides to hold a meeting, he said, it likely will be Nov. 8.

Nominations for oil allowables normally are received on the 10th of each month, he said.

Production this month, he said, will be about 700,000 barrels of oil daily, but he was unable to estimate any accurate December figure.

Tea production hit a new world record in 1955 with India, Ceylon and Africa reporting bumper crops.

Texas Baptists Open Convention

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 3 (UP) —The Texas Baptists' 71st annual meeting opens Monday with more than 10,000 persons expected to attend the three different conventions.

Delegates will begin arriving Sunday from towns and cities all over the state. Pastors, laymen and women will represent 3,704 churches and 1,502,000 members.

Among them are some of the nation's most prominent Baptists, including Dr. Theodore Adams, president of the Baptist World Alliance, and Dr. Baker James Cauthen, executive secretary of the Foreign Mission Board for the Southern Baptist Convention.

The main annual convention begins Tuesday night and lasts through Thursday night but it will be preceded by the conventions of two auxiliary groups meeting from Monday morning through Tuesday afternoon.

More than 50 persons are on the program for the big general sessions alone. Purpose of the three conventions is to conduct the denomination's annual business, hear reports from various institutions and agencies, and hear inspiration talks by outstanding personalities.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)— Lauderdale County Sheriff J. V. Duckworth said today he jailed a soldier on a charge of accessory to murder in the death of a 41-year old West Enterprise carpenter last week.

Williams was assigned to an Army post at Marietta, Ga.

Duckworth said Emmett Ellery Richardson died of a skull fracture and his body was found near Graham Switch on Highway 80.

Six other persons have been arrested in connection with the death.

Teachers Voice Opposition To Work Stoppage

Classroom Teachers Association groups in two Northeast Louisiana parishes adopted resolutions last week favoring a peaceful solution of the teacher pay raise problem and opposing a work stoppage as a means of forcing the issue upon the people of Louisiana.

The Concordia Parish teachers' group met Tuesday and adopted the resolution, followed by a gathering in Rayville of Richland Parish teachers Wednesday night.

Concordia teachers jointly addressed the opinion that the teaching profession is being weakened by incommensurate pay schedules, and that "teachers are being used as political pawns in an effort to effect certain tax raises not related to education."

The resolution branded the proposed Amendment 49 as a "half-hearted attempt at administering the pay raises voted by the Legislature, offering no guaranteed or stable amount of funds for teacher salaries, and is apparently intended as a contingent and fluctuating fund to placate the teachers." They resolved, however, to "support the passage of the 9th amendment only as a temporary relief measure."

The Concordia teachers said they "resent the implied directive that we act as lobbyists in getting tax legislation passed."

The resolution pledged support to the United School Committee and the special legislative committee in their efforts to get a permanent and dedicated tax for teachers' salaries, but asked that no companion bills be attached to any education bills presented.

Finally, the teachers maintained that "employment of strike to attain our objectives" is both ill-advised and utimely.

At a meeting in the Rayville Junior High school auditorium, Charles Tillman, president of the Richland Parish Classroom Teachers Association, emphasized the 'erroneous rumor and reports that lead the public to believe that the majority of the state's teachers are in favor of work stoppage."

Tillman said that at a much-publicized state-wide meeting in Alexandria Oct. 26 he repeatedly attempted to get the floor so that he could voice his opposition to the stoppage, and he believed the chairman deliberately failed to recognize him. He said only about five North Louisiana parishes were represented at the Alexandria meeting and these in very few numbers.

Parish Superintendent of Schools J. B. Thompson Jr. also discussed the present dilemma and the problems connected with the teachers pay raise proposal.

The group unanimously approved a statement, "The members of the Richland Parish CTA are opposed to any form of work stoppage." A committee was appointed to draw up a formal resolution to that effect.

The Richland teachers scheduled their next meeting for Dec. 12.

Sen. Evans Denies States Righters Will Aid GOP

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)—State Sen. Earl Evans says his States Rights party is not designed to help the Republican party.

Gov. J. P. Coleman and Bidwell Adam, Democratic state Executive Committee chairman, had said the States Righters comprise mostly 1952 Eisenhower supporters who could easily turn to him again.

But Evans yesterday said:

"I have repeatedly stated that the Democratic and Republican candidates and platforms are equally obnoxious and contrary to the principles of the Democratic party of Mississippi.

"But the professional career politicians of the national Democratic party in this state represents the only group using every force at their command to cram their race-mixing candidates down the throats of the voters of Mississippi."

564,718 Bales Of Cotton Sold For Export

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Commodity Credit Corp. has sold 564,718 bales of surplus cotton for export on Oct. 30 bids.

The CCC yesterday said the cotton sold for 26.20 cents per pound, basis middling one inch staple at average locations. The minimum price for middling 15-16 inch was 25 cents a pound.

Dr. Leo Hebert Named Director In Federal Office

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Comptroller General Joseph Campbell today announced appointment of Dr. Leo Herbert, former assistant Louisiana auditor, as director of the office of staff management of the U.S. General Accounting Office.

Campbell said in the newly created post, the Baton Rouge man would be responsible for recruiting, training, assigning and developing the professional accounting staff of the office.

Dr. Herbert, a certified public accountant who received his doctor's degree from Louisiana State University, resigned last spring as assistant in charge of accounting and auditing in the Louisiana auditor's office.

Israel Feels U. S. Let Her Down, Wife Of La. Rabbi Says

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (UP)—Mrs. David Raab, wife of a Baton Rouge rabbi, who has spent the past four months in Israel said yesterday that country feels the United States has let it down.

Mrs. Raab returned here yesterday, five days before Israel sent her troops marching into Egypt, and declared that the threat of war did not prompt her return to the United States after a four months visit.

"When I left there was no more tension than usual," she said.

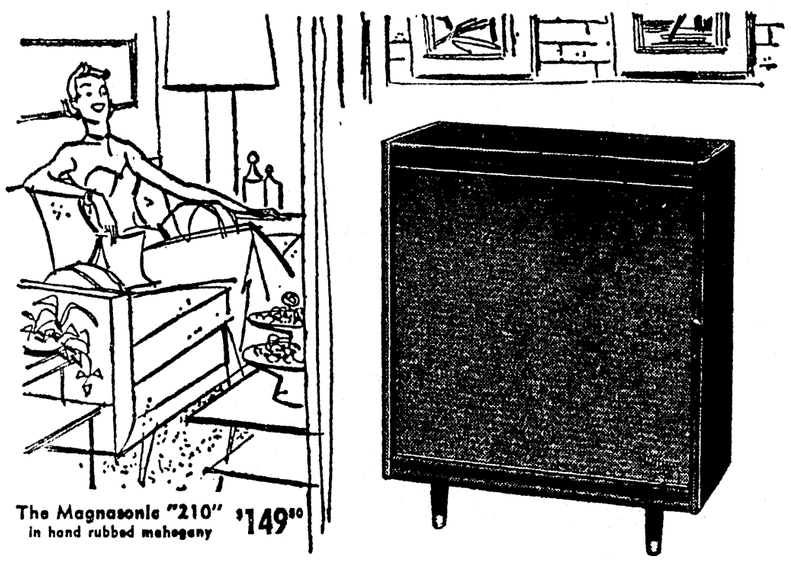

Mrs. Raab said some good will come out of the present crisis in the Middle East because "things have come to a head and Israel and the Arab nations will be prevailed upon to sit down at the peace table."

"Israel feels the United States has let her down," she said, "when Egypt received weapons from Russia, Israel was refused arms from the United States."

She said Israel's attack on Egypt was in self defense.

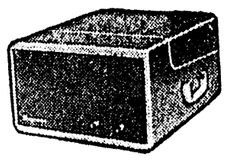

Mrs. Raab, a citizen for six years, said her parents and two brothers live in Tel Aviv. Her husband is rabbi of the Liberal Synagogue in Baton Rouge.

Teachers Voice Opposition To Work Stoppage

Classroom Teachers Association groups in two Northeast Louisiana parishes adopted resolutions last week favoring a peaceful solution of the teacher pay raise problem and opposing a work stoppage as a means of forcing the issue upon the people of Louisiana.

The Concordia Parish teachers' group met Tuesday and adopted the resolution, followed by a gathering in Rayville of Richland Parish teachers Wednesday night.

Concordia teachers jointly addressed the opinion that the teaching profession is being weakened by incommensurate pay schedules, and that "teachers are being used as political pawns in an effort to effect certain tax raises not related to education."

The resolution branded the proposed Amendment 49 as a "halfhearted attempt at administering the pay raises voted by the Legislature, offering no guaranteed or stable amount of funds for teacher salaries, and is apparently intended as a contingent and fluctuating fund to placate the teachers." They resolved, however, to "support the passage of the 9th amendment only as a temporary relief measure."

The Concordia teachers said they "resent the implied directive that we act as lobbyists in getting tax legislation passed."

The resolution pledged support to the United School Committee and the special legislative committee in their efforts to get a permanent and dedicated tax for teachers' salaries, but asked that no companion bills be attached to any education bills presented.

Finally, the teachers maintained that "employment of strike to attain our objectives" is both ill-advised and utimely.

At a meeting in the Rayville Junior High school auditorium, Charles Tillman, president of the Richland Parish Classroom Teachers Association, emphasized the 'erroneous rumor and reports that lead the public to believe that the majority of the state's teachers are in favor of work stoppage."

Tillman said that at a much-publicized state-wide meeting in Alexandria Oct. 26 he repeatedly attempted to get the floor so that he could voice his opposition to the stoppage, and he believed the chairman deliberately failed to recognize him. He said only about five North Louisiana parishes were represented at the Alexandria meeting and these in very few numbers.

Parish Superintendent of Schools J. B. Thompson Jr. also discussed the present dilemma and the problems connected with the teachers pay raise proposal.

The group unanimously approved a statement, "The members of the Richland Parish CTA are opposed to any form of work stoppage." A committee was appointed to draw up a formal resolution to that effect.

The Richland teachers scheduled their next meeting for Dec. 12.

Sen. Evans Denies States Righters Will Aid GOP

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 3 (AP)—State Sen. Earl Evans says his States Rights party is not designed to help the Republican party.

Gov. J. P. Coleman and Bidwell Adam, Democratic state Executive Committee chairman, had said the States Righters comprise mostly 1952 Eisenhower supporters who could easily turn to him again.

But Evans yesterday said:

"I have repeatedly stated that the Democratic and Republican candidates and platforms are equally obnoxious and contrary to the principles of the Democratic party of Mississippi.

"But the professional career politicians of the national Democratic party in this state represents the only group using every force at their command to cram their race-mixing candidates down the throats of the voters of Mississippi."

564,718 Bales Of Cotton Sold For Export

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Commodity Credit Corp. has sold 564,718 bales of surplus cotton for export on Oct. 30 bids.

The CCC yesterday said the cotton sold for 26.20 cents per pound, basis middling one inch staple at average locations. The minimum price for middling 15-16 inch was 25 cents a pound.

The sales brought to 5,228,378 bales the total sold for export only under the Agriculture Department program.

Dr. Leo Hebert Named Director In Federal Office

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—Comptroller General Joseph Campbell today announced appointment of Dr. Leo Herbert, former assistant Louisiana auditor, as director of the office of staff management of the U.S. General Accounting Office.

Campbell said in the newly created post, the Baton Rouge man would be responsible for recruiting, training, assigning and developing the professional accounting staff of the office.

Dr. Herbert, a certified public accountant who received his doctor's degree from Louisiana State University, resigned last spring as assistant in charge of accounting and auditing in the Louisiana auditor's office.

Israel Feels U. S. Let Her Down, Wife Of La. Rabbi Says

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (UP)—Mrs. David Raab, wife of a Baton Rouge rabbi, who has spent the past four months in Israel said yesterday that country feels the United States has let it down.

Mrs. Raab returned here yesterday, five days before Israel sent her troops marching into Egypt, and declared that the threat of war did not prompt her return to the United States after a four months visit.

"When I left there was no more tension than usual," she said.

Mrs. Raab said some good will come out of the present crisis in the Middle East because "things have come to a head and Israel and the Arab nations will be prevailed upon to sit down at the peace table."

"Israel feels the United States has let her down," she said, "when Egypt received weapons from Russia, Israel was refused arms from the United States."

She said Israel's attack on Egypt was in self defense.

Mrs. Raab, a citizen for six years, said her parents and two brothers live in Tel Aviv. Her husband is rabbi of the Liberal Synagogue in Baton Rouge.

Missouri Pacific To Demonstrate New Service Wed.

A demonstration of the newly-installed "truck-rail" service now being offered by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company will be held Wednesday at 1500 Mississippi street in Monroe. The demonstrations will be held at 10 and 11 a.m.

M. E. Pickett, division freight and passenger agent, has issued a general invitation to the public to attend the demonstration of the new demonstration trailer-body service. "This new service is considered a most progressive step in transportation," Pickett said. "It is an efficient, economical new service designed for the movement of trailerloads of freight, combining the speed and all-weather dependability of transport by train with the advantage of expeditious handling and the flexibility of truck operations at terminal points."

The operations are the first to be installed in Louisiana. The company is presently constructing similar equipment at New Orleans and Kinder, La. Similar operations are in service in many of the larger points along the Missouri Pacific railway, Pickett pointed out.

The new service allows the entire bodies of trailers to be lifted from the chassis, placed on gondola cars for speedier transportation throughout the system. At the rail destination, the body trailer is placed on another chassis and taken to its final destination.

Negro Newsmen Endorsing Ike

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP) — Two Negro weekly newspapers today said they were supporting President Eisenhower's bid for re-election.

The Louisiana Weekly, published in New Orleans, said its "decision to support Eisenhower and Nixon is based primarily upon the failure of the Democrats of this state to show any consideration for the fact that the Negro vote kept Louisiana in the Democratic column in 1952."

The newspaper said the only way Negro voters "can show they do not intend to be ignored and pushed around" is by voting for Eisenhower and Nixon.

The Baton Rouge News Leader said in an editorial there was "no excuse for the little progress made in desegregation" under Eisenhower, but "in these times of crises, both at home and abroad, America needs a man who is possessed with the wisdom, courage, determination and experience to provide the best possible leadership. . . ."

"While it is true the Negroes have made greater progress under the Democratic administrations," the Baton Rouge News Leader added, "it is also true that Democratic leaders, especially in the South, have been allowed to assasinate the Negro's chances of attaining full citizenship rights everywhere."

Nine Pupils Are Suspended For Bus Disturbance

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 3 (AP)—Nine pupils were suspended from Dallas high schools for taking part in two disturbances on city buses last week.

Supt. W. T. White said today the pupils will have to pay the estimated $35 damage before they are readmitted to school.

The James Madison High School disturbance came when pupils tried to wrest control of a bus and threatened the driver with knives and pop bottles.

Little Theatre Curtain Call

By BETH BREESE

Blocking rehearsals have been going on for the past two nights at the Playhouse. That, we think, is perhaps the most grueling part of any rehearsal period. Because, you see, when you attend a show and watch the actors and actresses moving over the stage from one place to another it isn't just by accident. Every move on stage is plotted by the director and rehearsed by the actors for weeks before the opening night curtain. There is no such thing as an actor just moving willy-nilly from one place to another. Each move is made for a purpose — sometimes for a special effect; sometimes to line two actors up against another in a particular dramatic situation. The movements in a play (called "stage business") very often have a tremendous psychological effect on the play as a whole. Most often the audience is unaware of this planned effect — other than subconsciously — and they should be unaware of it, except for the effect it produces. So you see, blocking the stage business is all important to the final production.

Director Ivan Uttal has announced his cast — almost in it's entirety. There is still one male role open. If you are interested in being a part of this show call Ivan at 3-4263 (the Little Theatre) or at 3-8413 (his home).

The cast is lined up as follows: Chernov, Petrovin and Bounine — the three conspirators — are being played by Jorge Mack, Charles Wilhite and Lou Cline respectively; Varya, the house maid, Del Moore; the charwoman, Joanne Genung; the dowager empress, Jo Brian; Dr. Serensky, Gerald Monday; Baroness Livenbaum, Boyce Ann Allbritton; Prince Paul, Chuck Morgan; and Anastasia, yours truly.

You'll recognize many of those names from plays in the past, and many of them will be new names to you. But, having watched this play in rehearsal for only three nights now, We feel we're qualified to say that you're in for a real treat when "Anastasia" hits the boards early in December.

There are so many things we need for this production. First and foremost, Director Uttal is requesting, of all things, a Russian-speaking Russian. All kidding aside, he does need someone to act as dialogue advisor on this show. So if you know any Russian, or know of anyone who has a speaking acquaintance with Russian, please call Ivan. We need ikons, . . and a gold throne! Strange requests, we know, but we need them. People have always managed to come through whenever the Little Theatre made a plea. We feel they will again.

See you next week!

Spaht Cites Why He Opposes Convention

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Carlos Spaht, Earl Long's candidate for governor four years ago, said last night there were two reasons for opposing the proposed constitutional convention:

1. Fear of higher taxes.
2. Fear of losing constitutional safeguards.

The proposed constitution, up for voter approval Tuesday, has the support of Gov. Long.

Spaht spoke against the proposed call on a radio program with state Sen. Robert A. Ainsworth and Mrs. Harold H. Lee of the League of Women Voters.

Navajo Lands In Three States To Be Leased For Oil

By RICHARD C. SIZEMORE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP) — Oil companies are interested in leasing most of the Navajo Indian reservation in Utah, Arizona and New Mexico. The Bureau of Indian Affairs is set to make sure the Indians get a fair deal.

Three lease sales on the Navajo reservation are set for November on 364,317 acres of land in Utah and New Mexico.

None of this land is located in a 5-million acre area which the Delhi-Taylor Oil Corp., Dallas, Tex. tried recently to lease from the Indians.

That contract was rejected by Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton who said there was some question as to its legality. He also said the Indians stood to profit more from competitive leasing.

Indian bureau officials said no action on leases has been taken in the disputed area. They said they would watch the November lease sales to "see what develops."

Because there now is no limit to the lease acreage one company may hold on Indian reservations and because there is a new pipe line to the Pacific Northwest there is increased interest for oil exploration on the Navajo lands. There also is increased interest on other Indian lands.

The Navajos had their second best year in income from oil and gas bonus bids, rentals and royalties last year when they received $2.58 million. The tribe has received an all-time total of about $19.9 million from oil and gas activity on their lands.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs does not have the total that all Indians have received from oil and gas leasing since the first commercial production was started in the Cherokee Nation at the turn of the century.

But those Indian tribes that were lucky enough to have oil on their lands have fared well. They may fare even better in the future.

The tribe that has raked in the most is the Osage in Oklahoma with a total of $350.5 million.

Last year all Indians received a record one-year total of $41 million for oil and gas activities. The fact that about half of this was for bonuses to explore on new land indicates the stepped up interest in the Indan lands.

The Indian bureau has authority to reject all bids on Indian reservations and it has the geological survey and experts of its own to determine the potential value of the lands for oil and gas purposes. Officials said they plan to use this expert advice to see that the Indians do not get cheated.

Mid-East Battle Brings Quiet To Oil Import Feud

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (AP)—One possible result of the Middle East crisis is a quieting, at least temporarily, of the oil import controversy.

This could happen if the flow of Middle East oil, either by pipeline or the Suez Canal or both, is interrupted enough.

U. S. refineries now using Middle East oil would have to turn to domestic supplies for at least part of their needs. That would mean stepping up U. S. production, especially if the Western Hemisphere should have to make up to Western Europe the oil that it might lose from the Middle East.

Industry spokesmen are making no predictions.

"Everything is still in a fuzzy stage as far as the Middle East situation is concerned and I am making no predictions about what may happen," said Russell Brown, general counsel for the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA) and spokesman for forces which long have sought reduction of oil imports.

Brown conceded developments could bring disappearance, for a time, of the oil import question.

He said the situation in the Middle East "emphasizes the necessity of the domestic industry's being ready to meet the requirements that might be thrown on the United States in meeting our demands and European demands."

U. S. imports of oil and oil products now are running about 1½ million barrels daily, with 400,000 barrels a day from the Middle East, the IPAA estimates. The rest comes chiefly from Venezuela and Canada.

Area Oil Firms Spend $22 Million For Equipment

An average of over $22 million for equipment, materials and supplies will be spent in 1956 by each major and large independent oil and gas company operating in Texas and western Louisiana according to figures published by The Southwestern Purchaser in its annual survey of oil company purchasing power, out this week. These averages do not include amounts spent for crude, natural gas, payrolls or leases.

The survey was made among the 92 companies holding membership in the Purchasing Agents Associations in Texas and western Louisiana. Based on the average from 36 replies received, the total would be $2,100,150,884.

An interesting result of the survey this year shows an increase of over $6,000,000 as compared to 1955 when the average was $16,122,248. In the survey reported a year ago, members had indicated an expected increase of 15 per cent for 1956 over 1955. Actually it ran much higher but this resulted from three companies reporting over $125,000,000 purchases this year as compared to two such companies last year. By eliminating one of these larger figures, for statistical purposes, the increase would be 16½ per cent as compared to a predicted 15 per cent.

Purchases of oil companies will be even greater in 1957, according to estimates indicated on the survey. Larger purchases are expected by 23 companies with only one company anticipating smaller expenditures. No change in probable purchases was reported by 11 companies.

Concentration of the companies reporting was in the cities of Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, Shreveport, the Sabine - Neches area, Corpus Christi and the Texas Panhandle.

It was pointed out in the figures released that the oil companies spend for equipment, materials and supplies a little over $6,000,000 a day.

Would you sign a blank check?

It's a pretty risky business.

And so is this Constitutional Convention we're voting on November sixth.

We know our present Constitution insures fair tax laws, fair elections, civil service, home rule and many other important rights.

But nobody knows what kind of Constitution will come out of this convention, if we let them call it.

What are they going to put into it?
What are they going to leave out of it?
Just what do they want to change anyway, and why?
Will it be dominated by one man?

Nobody has answered these questions. Either they can't or they don't want to.

So let's not sign a blank check.

Louisiana Leaders Give Adlai Edge In State; Others See Close Contest

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Top Louisiana leaders give Adlai Stevenson the edge over President Eisenhower in Tuesday's election But a shifting Negro vote and the fast-breaking war scare point to a tight race.

The national Democratic party has been wooing Louisiana since the close call in 1952 yhen Stevenson won the state's 10 electoral votes by a 38,000 lead.

Big political brass, including Gov. Earl Long and his nephew, Sen. Russell Long, the late Huey P. Long's son; Sen. Allen J. Ellender, seven of eight congressmen, and New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, are with Stevenson.

So is the powerful Democratic State Central Committee. Thus the top Democratic bracket is behind Stevenson, showing the first unity on a national front in 12 years.

Four years ago, former Gov. Robert Kennon was the first Southern Democratic governor to bolt to Eisenhower. He carried thousands of Democrats in this one-party state with him, giving Eisenhower the greatest vote in history for a GOP candidate.

In 1948, a bitter wave of anti-Trumanism sweeping Louisiana thrust it into the States' Rights presidential column.

A new States' Rights presidential slate is on the ballot, but it lacks well known leaders and has no organization of consequence in a state where both Stevenson and Eisenhower have strong following.

States' Rights leaders show they will command support in north Louisiana.

Democratic Committeeman Camille Gravel, member of the national party's executive Committee, predicts Stevenson will double his 1952 margin and carry the state by 75,000. Sen. Long estimates 100,000.

Republican National Committeeman John Minor Wisdom claims Louisiana for Ike by 40,000 ballots. The 1952 vote was 345,027 to 306,925, favoring Stevenson.

With 1,056,000 registered votes nearly all Democrats, all sides except a light presidential ballot running 550,000 to 650,000. Lack of enthusiasm is blamed. But Louisiana presidential voting always is lighter compared with the race for governor.

Gravel said the war scare will help Stevenson "because it is obvious Republicans have followed a foreign policy opposing our best friends, Britain and France . . . The people realize the administration has bungled in foreign affairs."

Wisdom insisted it is a mistake to drag the Middle East outbreak into partisan politics.

"I suppose, however, we cannot escape certain political implications," he added. "I think Louisiana voters now have more reason than ever for not exchanging a president experienced in handling international crises for a novice in world affairs . . . . This is no time to change horses in the middle of the Suez."

The Negro registration is more than 152,000, always growing. Last time, the Negro vote was heavily pro-Stevenson and Negro leaders again insist a majority of their race will stay with Stevenson.

A. P. Tureaud Sr., attorney for the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, estimated at least 30 per cent of the Negro vote will swing toward Eisenhower.

The significance of this estimate is that Tureaud is a New Orleans Negro leader in the Stevenson campaign. He recently denounced the President for "indifference" in enforcing the Supreme Court decision banning school segregation.

Les Barham, editor of a Baton Rouge Negro daily Newspaper which has endorsed Eisenhower, said there " will be a considerable Negro switch to Eisenhower in Louisiana.

"Most Negroes, I believe, think if Ike is given a second chance he may be more positive about implementing the Supreme Court decision," Barham said.

Tureaud said Negro volunteers for Eisenhower were "working like the devel" in New Orleans, where one - fourth the state vote is cast. "They're making headway with Negroes who under any other circumstances would be strongly Democratic," Tureaud said. He said he is for Stevenson because he believes the Democratic party will give his race a better break economically.

The segregation question seems to be a puzzle in the presidential showdown in Louisiana. Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the influential Legislative Committee on Segregation, has not endorsed the States' Righters, although they criticize both major parties on the racial issue.

Rainach hasn't endorsed Stevenson or Eisenhower. His group has been highly successful with state legislation. One court effort they backed knocked out the NAACP in Louisiana.

Louisiana has the most crowded ballot in years, with Gov. Long's controversial proposal for a constitutional convention, 327 convention delegates and a string of 48 constitutional amendments listed.

While Democratic nomination on the state level is usually equivalent to election, Reps. Hale Boggs, New Orleans, and Overton Brooks, Shreveport, Democratic veterans, are opposed by Republicans George R. Blue and Calhoun Allen Jr. Sen. Long and other Democratic congressmen are unopposed.

Polls open at 6 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Gov. Long, who won the governorship a third time in a January landslide, is pro-Stevenson but is so wrapped up in state factional struggles he has been silent in the Stevenson stretch drive. He says he thinks Stevenson will win in Louisiana.

Sen. Long, although favorable to Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas before the Democratic convention, hurried to the forefroot for Stevenson.

Kennon unleashed a Louisiana trend of "Let's keep 'em guessing" where national politics is concerned, although the state is solidly Democratic and has been for nearly a century. Kennon has no titular power but is backing Eisenhower again.

Eisenhower, twice a Louisiana campaigner in 1952, skipped the state this time although Stevenson was visitor. Other Democratic visitors were Massachusetts Sen. John Kennedy, the man Louisiana backed for vice presidential nomination, Democratic Chairman Paul Butler and Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement. Harold Stassen was the only GOP name to speak in Louisiana this year.

On the state scene, Gov. Long has attached a sense of political virtue to silence now although his nature is to be loudly vocal. He is attempting to grasp again the vote power held as recently as the January gubernatorial election, but frayed in a summer tax fight.

Because of this silence, Long, who originally led Louisiana to Stevenson's side, is conspicuously absent from the presidential campaigners.

His energy is behind the constitutional convention, which faces considerable opposition. Convention foes nevertheless are uneasy, because they know the governor is a master at coming back against the odds.

The Louisiana election includes Sens. Long and Reps. F. Edward Hebert, Edwin E. Willis, Otto E. Passman, James H. Morrison, T. A. Thompson and George S. Long, all Democrats and all unopposed.

Also, for members of the State Board of Education: Joseph J. Davies Jr., Arabi, from the First Congressional District; Harold B. McSween, Alexandria, from the Eighth District, and Isom J. Guillory Sr., Eunice, from the Second Public Service Commission District.

Others up for a formal vote, unopposed: Ernest S. Clements, Oberlin, member of Public Service Commission, from Second Public Service Commission District, and Justice Joe B. Hamiter, Shreveport, associate justice, from Second Supreme Court District.

Two Negroes Die In Tenement Fire At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP) — Flames trapped and burned to death two persons today and routed 28 other occupants of a nine-family Negro tenement building.

Several persons were hospitalized from burns and injuries received when they leaped out of windows from the three - story wooden building. It was leveled.

The dead, found in the charred ruins, were identified as Elaine Andrews, 3, and Augustine Morgan, 27.

Firemen estimated damages to the dwelling and an adjoining auto repair shop at $50,000. They said the blaze apparently originated in the repair shop. At least nine cars and trucks and some machinery were destroyed in the auto shop.

About 75 firemen battled the flames at the dwelling near the French quarter and close to Municipal Auditorium.

One woman was hurt when she jumped from a second-floor window into the arms of a fireman. Both fell to the ground, but the fireman wasn't injured.

Kefauver Makes Whistle-Stops Thru Minnesota

WITH KEFAUVER IN MINNESOTA, Nov. 3 (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver "whistle - stopped" through Minnesota Saturday and chose the politically historic town of Kasson to charge the Eisenhower administration of "untrustworthiness."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate told a small crowd estimated by police at 175 that "Kasson will be remembered by farmers as the place of the greatest broken promise in the history of American politics."

In 1952, Mr. Eisenhower spoke at Kasson during the National Plowing Contest and made what Democrats said was a promise of full parity for farmers.

Kefauver's Kasson talk was one of 18 appearances in this farm-conscious state which Democrats are seeking to swing back into their column this year.

The Tennessee Democrat embarked on his gruelling Minnesota campaign tour early Saturday after an equally demanding day and night motorcade through western Pennsylvania Friday and a 17-hour tour of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

Segregation Amendments 47 and 48

More important to the general welfare and happiness of the people than any office or any other issue is Our Way of Life . . . the Way under which Louisiana people of all races have gotten along well for many generations.

There are those who would destroy this Way — who would set race against race, promote strife, cause "trouble."

Against such efforts we will need every legal weapon available. Two of these needed weapons are among the 49 proposed amendments to The Constitution, No. 47 and No. 48.

Both would give added protection against class action suits. No. 47 would protect the right of every qualified voter to register and protect the registrars of voters from NAACP nuisance class action suits. No. 48 would protect our segregated educational facilities from NAACP racial integregation suits. BOTH ARE VITAL!

Louisiana Leaders Give Adlai Edge In State; Others See Close Contest

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Top Louisiana leaders give Adlai Stevenson the edge over President Eisenhower in Tuesday's election But a shifting Negro vote and the fast-breaking war scare point to a tight race.

The national Democratic party has been wooing Louisiana since the close call in 1952 yhen Stevenson won the state's 10 electoral votes by a 38,000 lead.

Big political brass, including Gov. Earl Long and his nephew, Sen. Russell Long, the late Huey P. Long's son; Sen. Allen J. Ellender, seven of eight congressmen, and New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, are with Stevenson.

So is the powerful Democratic State Central Committee. Thus the top Democratic bracket is behind Stevenson, showing the first unity on a national front in 12 years.

Four years ago, former Gov. Robert Kennon was the first Southern Democratic governor to bolt to Eisenhower. He carried thousands of Democrats in this one-party state with him, giving Eisenhower the greatest vote in history for a GOP candidate.

In 1948, a bitter wave of anti-Trumanism sweeping Louisiana thrust it into the States' Rights presidential column.

A new States' Rights presidential slate is on the ballot, but it lacks well known leaders and has no organization of consequence in a state where both Stevenson and Eisenhower have strong following.

States' Rights leaders show they will command support in north Louisiana.

Democratic Committeeman Camille Gravel, member of the national party's executive Committee, predicts Stevenson will double his 1952 margin and carry the state by 75,000. Sen. Long estimates 100,000.

Republican National Committeeman John Minor Wisdom claims Louisiana for Ike by 40,000 ballots. The 1952 vote was 345,027 to 306,925, favoring Stevenson.

With 1,056,000 registered votes nearly all Democrats, all sides except a light presidential ballot running 550,000 to 650,000. Lack of enthusiasm is blamed. But Louisiana presidential voting always is lighter compared with the race for governor.

Gravel said the war scare will help Stevenson "because it is obvious Republicans have followed a foreign policy opposing our best friends, Britain and France . . . The people realize the administration has bungled in foreign affairs."

Wisdom insisted it is a mistake to drag the Middle East outbreak into partisan politics.

"I suppose, however, we cannot escape certain political implications," he added. "I think Louisiana voters now have more reason than ever for not exchanging a president experienced in handling international crises for a novice in world affairs . . . . This is no time to change horses in the middle of the Suez."

The Negro registration is more than 152,000, always growing. Last time, the Negro vote was heavily pro-Stevenson and Negro leaders again insist a majority of their race will stay with Stevenson.

A. P. Tureaud Sr., attorney for the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, estimated at least 30 per cent of the Negro vote will swing toward Eisenhower.

The significance of this estimate is that Tureaud is a New Orleans Negro leader in the Stevenson campaign. He recently denounced the President for "indifference" in enforcing the Supreme Court decision banning school segregation.

VOTE FOR

Segregation Amendments 47 and 48

More important to the general welfare and happiness of the people than any office or any other issue is Our Way of Life . . . the Way under which Louisiana people of all races have gotten along well for many generations.

There are those who would destroy this Way — who would set race against race, promote strife, cause "trouble."

Against such efforts we will need every legal weapon available. Two of these needed weapons are among the 49 proposed amendments to The Constitution, No. 47 and No. 48.

Both would give added protection against class action suits. No. 47 would protect the right of every qualified voter to register and protect the registrars of voters from NAACP nuisance class action suits. No. 48 would protect our segregated educational facilities from NAACP racial integregation suits. BOTH ARE VITAL!

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

It's championship time in the high school football circuits as the prep athletes strive for district and state honors to climax their grid careers.

The Jena High Giants are the first to arrive in the district races. Coach Zac Henderson's LaSalle parish outfit, boasting one of the state's top scorers in Jimmy Aldredge who has counted 20 touchdowns for 120 points, occupy the district 3-AA throne for the second straight year after 39-13 conquest of Menard of Alexandria Friday night.

Two more district crowns are expected to be decided this week. The unbeaten Mangham Dragons, who have looked mighty good for coaches Armed Mathews and Embry Pickett in winning ten straight this season, will be favored to annex the 2-B title when they meet the Holly Ridge Eagles at Mangham Friday night, and, at the same time the LaSalle Tigers of Olla will be in Many trying to sew up the 1-A championship for the second straight year.

The Block High Bears of Coach Ronald Dry, who once came within a touchdown of a championship won by Ferriday when he was head tutor at Waterproof, loom larger in the 3-B picture that still includes Sicily Island's defending champions and the Newellton Bears. Coach Raymond Peace's defenders still must play their chief threats, taking on Newellton next Friday and Jonesville's Block Bruins the following week.

The Ferriday Bulldogs appear well on their way to the 2-A title as usual although they still must pass Winnsboro on November 16 and Tallulah, the latter the lone apparent threat, on Thangsgiving week. Ferriday is unbeaten in eight games this year although once tied by Jena.

It begins to look more and more like a Neville-Haynesville playoff for the 2-AA crown being defended by Coach Bill Ruple's Neville forces. But Haynesville must beat Bossier's Bearcats, and Neville must whip crosstown Ouachita to make the playoff possible. Both games are set for November 16. Both Bossier and Ouachita of other conferences, but become "league games" for the Tornado and Tigers to fill their quota required conference games in order to challenge for state titles.

Northwestern Sinks Northeast, 24 To 7

E. Reynolds' Late TD Saves Indians From Whitewash

The Northwestern State Demons exploited hard driving backs to keep pace with Louisiana Tech in the race for the Gulf States Conference championship by sidetracking the Northeast Louisiana State express here last night, 24 to 7, at Brown Field.

The triumph kept the Demons deadlocked with Tech for first place, each with three league wins, no losses and a tie against each other. It was Northeast's second Gulf defeat.

James "Red" McNew, Charles Tolar, J. W. Beck, and Charles Hennigan battered their way through Northeast's defenses as the Indians missed tackle after tackle last night in finally shutting off the flare the Redskins had been making in Gulf circles this season.

Judson Hale, a substitute back, bagged the Demon's first two touchdowns, one on an 85-yard kickoff return, and Hennigan plunged for the other. Jim Bruning also turned in a field goal along with an extra point, and a pair of conversions by Charles Johnson accounted for the rest of Northwestern's scoring.

The Demons effectively stopped Aubrey Wade and Company, but it remained for the Indians' second team, sparked by Everett Reynolds to save face for the Tribe in the closing seconds of play. Reynolds ran ten yards for the lone Northeast touchdown and also converted.

The Northwestern offense was in complete charge in the first quarter, powering for seven first downs while the Northeast offense was never able to muster enough yardage for a first until the second period.

The Demons got their opening touchdown march underway midway of the first period after downing a Northeast punt on the Demons' 24. Charles Tolar, James McNew and Judson Hale fired the drive that included a 28-yard dash by Hale and an 11-yard run by Tolar in a push to the Redskin six. Hale skirted left end for the touchdown, and Charles Johnson kicked the point.

The Demons had another threat moving early in the second quarter, but Northeast held for downs on the Indian 28, and the rest of the opening half was fairly evenly played.

But the Demons quickly doubled the score as the second half opened with Hale taking the kickoff, sifting through the Redskin defense with only two tacklers coming near stopping him as he broke into the clear for an 85-yard trip to paydirt. Jim Bruning kicked the point that made it 14-0.

The Demons came hammering back late in the third period for a touchdown in a drive from their own 27. Tolar, Hennigan, McNew, and Beck rolled for three firsts in a drive to the Indian 12. Two straight penalties against the Tribe put the ball on the one, and Hennigan plunged over. Johnson converted.

With a minute and five seconds left and fourth down on the Indian five, Bruning stepped back to kick a field goal that upped the Demon margin three more points.

Northeast, with Everett Reynolds firing a passing attack with Jerry Head, and Don Reynolds catching, fired back in a drive to the Demon ten from where E. Reynolds raced over and also kicked the point to save the Tribe from a shutout.

Rebs Blaze Past LSU, 46-17

By WARNER RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP) — Elusive Eddie Crawford, 177-pound senior halfback, who scored four touchdowns, led Mississippi's blazing fast Rebels to a 46-17 romp over Louisiana State tonight, snapping a two-game losing string.

LSU, with fullback Jimmy Taylor scoring two touchdowns, kicking a 28-yard field goal and converting twice, fought back to lead at the half 17-14 to the complete satisfaction of 36,000 home fans. The defeat was the Tigers' sixth straight.

But Mississippi riddled the leaky LSU pass defense in the second half to turn the game into a rout. The Rebels rode their air attack to 10 completions in 14 passes for 250 yards.

Crawford romped 58 yards with the opening kickoff, then took a 29-yard pass from quarterback Ray Brown for the touchdown. In the third quarter, he tallied on a 19-yard pass from Brown and a two-yard plunge. To put icing on the cake, the speedy halfback snatched a Tiger pass in the fourth quarter and raced it 40 yards for the final Mississippi score.

LSU, which had 15 first downs to 14 for Mississippi, made most of its yardage the hard way, while the Rebels struck swiftly on long pass plays. The Tigers gained 150 yards rushing to 155 for Mississippi, but only 76 yards passing while the Rebels counted up 250. LSU completed six passes in 18 attempts and had four intercepted.

In the closing minutes of the contest, Rebel fullback Paige Cothren attempted to kick his seventh field goal of the season, which would be a new NCAA record. He missed his first try from the seven-yard line, but got another shot at it from the 22 when the Rebels were penalized 15 yards. A bad pass from center caused that one to go awry.

Taylor, a 200-pound junior fullback, provided most of the joy for LSU fans. Counted an outstanding prospect as a freshman in 1954, he dropped out of school last fall and played for Hinds, Miss., Junior College.

A disappointment in the first five games this season, Taylor came to life tonight, bulling 61 yards in 15 carries and scoring all of the Tiger points in the spirited first half rally.

But the slow-footed LSU defense couldn't cope with the Mississippi passing attack. Rebel halfbacks LeRoy Reed and Crawford simply outran the Tigers' secondary defense.

Crawford snatched five passes for 84 yards total gain and two touchdowns, but Red romped 136 yards on four receptions, including a 71-yard gain on a toss from quarterback John Blalack to set up the second Rebels' score.

Mississippi now has a 5-2 season record and a 3-1 mark in Southeastern Conference play.

Uclans Dampen Stanford's Rose Bowl Hopes, 14-13

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 (UP)—A fired-up UCLA football team, led by the defensive brilliance of quarterback Don Shinnick, scored a major upset Saturday by defeating favored Stanford, 14 to 13, and putting a crimp in the Stanford Rose Bowl Mrch before 75,55- amazed football fans in Memorial Coliseum.

The UCLA Bruins, unimpressed by the fact that Stanford was favored by two touchdowns, capitalized on fumble recoveries and a blocked kick to chalk up two touchdowns in the first period and then smothered John Brodie, the nation's leading collegiate passer, to win by the margin of a conversion that was missed by Stanford's Mike Raftery in the third period.

UCLA's defensive edge was evidence by the statistics on Sanford's great Brodie who was smeared so often that he ended up with minus 66 yards rushing while completing nine out of 20 passes for one touchdown and having one pass intercepted.

It was Brodie's blocked kick that Bruin end Pete O'Garro grabbed and took unmolested for 42 yards for the second UCLA score.

Joining Shinnick in a heroic role for UCLA was end Hal Smith whose first period recovery on the Stanford 20 set up UCLA's first score and who blocked the punt O'Garro scored with.

Score by periods:

UCLA	14	0	0	0	—14
Stanford	0	7	6	0	—13

UCLA scoring: Touchdowns — Griffin (4, run), O'Garro (42, runback on blocked kick). Conversions — Duncan, Shinnick.

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—Valli (3, plunge), Raftery (21, pass from Brodie). Conversions—Raftery.

Underdog Raiders Fight Oklahoma A&M To 13-13 Tie

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Halfback Duke Frisble's brilliant 72-yard touchdown run pulled underdog Texas Tech up by its bootstraps and the Red Raiders came from behind to battle Oklahoma A&M to a 13-13 tie Saturday.

A crowd of 17,000 homecoming fans watched the Aggies score two quick touchdowns, the first on a 50-yard punt return at 9:24 on the first quarter by halfback Duane Wood and the second on a short plunge by quarterback Johnny Allen with only 15 seconds gone in the second quarter.

But the Raiders, unable to get past their own 33-yard line in the first quarter, suddenly came to life. Two plays gained eight yards after the kickoff. On third down, Frisbie faked a pass and broke into the clear to go 72 yards unmolested.

Late in the second quarter, the Raiders punched 53 yards on seven plays, sparked by a 43-yard pass play from quarterback Buddy Hill to halfback M. C. Northam. Northam caught the ball in the clear on the 20, but fell on the 11. Four plays later, fullback Gene Bentley, a 245-pound battering ram, crashed the remaining distance.

With a chance to go ahead Frisbie's attempted placement was wide. Mc Odell missed the first Aggie attempt, but got his second one, while quarterback Don Williams converted after Tech's first tally.

It was the second successive 13-13 tie for the two teams in Lubbock. They battled to a draw here in 1954.

The Raiders held the Aggies on the 12-yard line in the first quarter and again on the 14 moments later. Aside from those two threats, the Aggies didn't imperil the Raider goal.

Tech had one other threat for the Aggies, driving to the eight yard line in the third quarter, where a bad pitch-out on third down was recovered by A&M.

It was a fumble marred game, Tech losing four of six bobbles and the Aggies, two of four.

Tech held an edge in the statistics, gaining 251 yards rushing to 143 and 68 yards passing to 46, with 13 first downs to nine.

There will be Pee Wee League for boys 12 years of age and younger, a Midget League for 14-year-olds and under, a Junior League for 18-year-old youths, a Church League for all age groups, a City League for all ages, and a Girls League for all ages. A Civic League may be formed for all civic clubs that care to participate.

The first meeting for organization will be held during the week of November 12-16.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information before that time should contact McKay by calling 2-2170.

Texas Aggies Easily Tear Down Arkansas, 27 To 0

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Texas A&M caught them while Arkansas missed them Saturday night and that was the main reason Texas A&M wound up with a 27 to 0 victory and the lead in the Southwest Conference race.

Not only couldn't Arkansas catch forward passes, a form of attack at which A&M was eminently successful, but Arkansas also missed some passes from center, thus giving A&M unwitting aid.

Nor could Arkansas match the running of such A&M backs as quarterback Don Osborne, fullback Jack Pardee and left half John Crow. Fullback Gerald Nesbitt and quarterback Don Christian of Arkansas tried but couldn't do it.

Some 27,000 persons saw the game. The night was clammy with a fog so thick that a couple of bewildered sea gulls wandered in from the Gulf of Mexico 150 miles away and flapped about the heads of the players.

Texas A&M ran up its score on two passes and two by runs. They scored three times in the first half and once in the last half, when Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant let his second and third string do most of the playing.

A&M went 47 yards in three plays for its first touchdown, a third of the way through the first period. Two running plays by Osborne and Pardee put it on the Arkansas 37, from where Osborne passed to Crow in the end zone.

The second touchdown, early in the second period, came a little harder. It took nine plays to score from 39 yards out, with Osborne running 11 yards for the touchdown.

An Arkansas fumble by right half Jerry Ferguson helped A&M get started on its third. After the fumble, Arkansas punted and got off a poor one. As a result A&M had only 24 yards to go to the goal.

Right half Don Watson gained eight yards of it, while second string quarterback Jimmy Wright's 16-yard pass to left end Eugene Stallings in the end zone got the rest of it.

A&M went 65 yards in 11 plays for its last touchdown. Osborne scored it from the one.

Score by periods:

Texas A&M	7	13	7	0	—27

Texas A&M scoring: Touchdowns, Crow (37, pass from Osborne); Osborne (11, run); Stallings (16, pass from Wright); Crow (1, run). Conversions, Taylor 3.

Inspired Canines Overpower 'Bama In Last Quarter

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3 (AP)—An 80-yard punt return for a touchdown by halfback J. B. Davis of Guntersville, Ala., fired up the Georgia Bulldogs today and they defeated Alabama 16-13 in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Before Davis' run, which came in the closing minutes of the third period, Alabama had a 7-0 lead and thoroughly had outplayed the visitors.

But the Bulldogs then recovered a Bama fumble on the losers' 41, and drove quickly deeper in Alabama territory, with sophomore end Ken Cooper booting a 29-yard field goal which proved the final margin of victory.

Georgia, with quarterback Billy Hearn doing most of the work, made a second touchdown midway of the final period on a 59-yard march.

Bama then came suddenly to life and counted on a 68-yard pass from soph quarterback Bobby Smith to halfback Marshall Brown. It was Smith's first throw in varsity play.

That was all the scoring, but Bama brought the 25,000 fans up in new excitement with passes in the closing minutes.

Alabama's first score came midway of the opening quarter on a ball outside its own 40.

Georgia	0	0	7	9	—16
Alabama	7	0	0	6	—13

Georgia scoring — touchdowns: Davis (80, punt return); Hearn (1, plunge); field goal: Cooper (29). Conversions: Cooper.

Vidalia Defeated By Sicily Island In 18-13 Battle

VIDALIA, La., Nov. 3 (Special) — Vidalia High's Vikings, still playing in "tough luck," spotted the strong Sicily Island Tigers two early touchdowns, then fought back like mad only to fall 18 to 13 before the largest crowd ever to witness a football game here.

It was homecoming for Vidalia and the occasion also called for the introduction of Vidalia's brand new band, which performed under the direction of Bernie Driscoll. Nita Cross, V.H.S. senior, was crowned queen of the homecoming in pre-game ceremonies.

Dean Wiggins and his brother, Bobby, scored all of Sicily Island's points, while Billy Calvert and Sonny Franklin made the V.H.S. scores.

Vidalia plays Roxie, Miss., next Friday night.

Dick Garibaldi, 225-pound 6 foot 4 athlete, is playing basketball at Santa Clara after two years in the service.

Ed Sutton of Cullowhee, N. C., averaged 7.6 yards per carry during North Carolina's first three football games this fall.

Northwestern Sinks Northeast, 24 To 7

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

It's championship time in the high school football circuits as the prep athletes strive for district and state honors to climax their grid careers.

The Jena High Giants are the first to arrive in the district races. Coach Zac Henderson's LaSalle parish outfit, boasting one of the state's top scorers in Jimmy Aldredge who has counted 20 touchdowns for 120 points, occupy the district 3-AA throne for the second straight year after 39-13 conquest of Menard of Alexandria Friday night.

Two more district crowns are expected to be decided this week. The unbeaten Mangham Dragons, who have looked mighty good for coaches Armed Mathews and Embry Pickett in winning ten straight this season, will be favored to annex the 2-B title when they meet the Holly Ridge Eagles at Mangham Friday night, and, at the same time the LaSalle Tigers of Olla will be in Many trying to sew up the 1-A championship for the second straight year.

The Block High Bears of Coach Ronald Dry, who once came within a touchdown of a championship won by Ferriday when he was head tutor at Waterproof, loom larger in the 3-B picture that still includes Sicily Island's defending champions and the Newellton Bears. Coach Raymond Peace's defenders still must play their chief threats, taking on Newellton next Friday and Jonesville's Block Bruins the following week.

The Ferriday Bulldogs appear well on their way to the 2-A title as usual although they still must pass Winnsboro on November 16 and Tallulah, the latter the lone apparent threat, on Thangsgiving week. Ferriday is unbeaten in eight games this year although once tied by Jena.

It begins to look more and more like a Neville-Haynesville playoff for the 2-AA crown being defended by Coach Bill Ruple's Neville forces. But Haynesville must beat Bossier's Bearcats, and Neville must whip crosstown Ouachita to make the playoff possible. Both games are set for November 16. Both Bossier and Ouachita of other conferences, but become "league games" for the Tornado and Tigers to fill their quota required conference games in order to challenge for state titles.

The 1-AA title definitely is left for decision between Byrd and Fair Park, Shreveport rivals, in their annual Thanksgiving date.

E. Reynolds' Late TD Saves Indians From Whitewash

The Northwestern State Demons exploited hard driving backs to keep pace with Louisiana Tech in the race for the Gulf States Conference championship by sidetracking the Northeast Louisiana State express here last night, 24 to 7, at Brown Field.

The triumph kept the Demons deadlocked with Tech for first place, each with three league wins, no losses and a tie against each other. It was Northeast's second Gulf defeat.

James "Red" McNew, Charles Tolar, J. W. Beck, and Charles Hennigan battered their way through Northeast's defenses as the Indians missed tackle after tackle last night in finally shutting off the flare the Redskins had been making in Gulf circles this season.

Judson Hale, a substitute back, bagged the Demon's first two touchdowns, one on an 85-yard kickoff return, and Hennigan plunged for the other. Jim Bruning also turned in a field goal along with an extra point, and a pair of conversions by Charles Johnson accounted for the rest of Northwestern's scoring.

The Demons effectively stopped Aubrey Wade and Company, but it remained for the Indians' second team, sparked by Everett Reynolds to save face for the Tribe in the closing seconds of play. Reynolds ran ten yards for the lone Northeast touchdown and also converted.

The Northwestern offense was in complete charge in the first quarter, powering for seven first downs while the Northeast offense was never able to muster enough yardage for a first until the second period.

The Demons got their opening touchdown march underway midway of the first period after downing a Northeast punt on the Demons' 24. Charles Tolar, James McNew and Judson Hale fired the drive that included a 28-yard dash by Hale and an 11-yard run by Tolar in a push to the Redskin six. Hale skirted left end for the touchdown, and Charles Johnson kicked the point.

The Demons had another threat moving early in the second quarter, but Northeast held for downs on the Indian 28, and the rest of the opening half was fairly evenly played.

But the Demons quickly doubled the score as the second half opened with Hale taking the kickoff, sifting through the Redskin defense with only two tacklers coming near stopping him as he broke into the clear for an 85-yard trip to paydirt. Jim Bruning kicked the point that made it 14-0.

The Demons came hammering back late in the third period for a touchdown in a drive from their own 27. Tolar, Hennigan, McNew, and Beck rolled for three firsts in a drive to the Indian 12. Two straight penalties against the Tribe put the ball on the one, and Hennigan plunged over. Johnson converted.

With a minute and five seconds left and fourth down on the Indian five, Bruning stepped back to kick a field goal that upped the Demon margin three more points.

Northeast, with Everett Reynolds firing a passing attack with Jerry Head, and Don Reynolds catching, fired back in a drive to the Demon ten from where E. Reynolds raced over and also kicked the point to save the Tribe from a shutout.

Rebs Blaze Past LSU, 46-17

By WARNER RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (AP) — Elusive Eddie Crawford, 177-pound senior halfback, who scored four touchdowns, led Mississippi's blazing fast Rebels to a 46-17 romp over Louisiana State tonight, snapping a two-game losing string.

LSU, with fullback Jimmy Taylor scoring two touchdowns, kicking a 28-yard field goal and converting twice, fought back to lead at the half 17-14 to the complete satisfaction of 36,000 home fans. The defeat was the Tigers' sixth straight.

But Mississippi riddled the leaky LSU pass defense in the second half to turn the game into a rout. The Rebels rode their air attack to 10 completions in 14 passes for 250 yards.

Crawford romped 58 yards with the opening kickoff, then took a 29-yard pass from quarterback Ray Brown for the touchdown. In the third quarter, he tallied on a 19-yard pass from Brown and a two-yard plunge. To put icing on the cake, the speedy halfback snatched a Tiger pass in the fourth quarter and raced it 40 yards for the final Mississippi score.

LSU, which had 15 first downs to 14 for Mississippi, made most of its yardage the hard way, while the Rebels struck swiftly on long pass plays. The Tigers gained 150 yards rushing to 155 for Mississippi, but only 76 yards passing while the Rebels counted up 250. LSU completed six passes in 18 attempts and had four intercepted.

In the closing minutes of the contest, Rebel fullback Paige Cothren attempted to kick his seventh field goal of the season, which would be a new NCAA record. He missed his first try from the seven-yard line, but got another shot at it from the 22 when the Rebels were penalized 15 yards. A bad pass from center caused that one to go awry.

Taylor, a 200-pound junior fullback, provided most of the joy for LSU fans. Counted an outstanding prospect as a freshman in 1954, he dropped out of school last fall and played for Hinds, Miss., Junior College.

A disappointment in the first five games this season, Taylor came to life tonight, bulling 61 yards in 15 carries and scoring all of the Tiger points in the spirited first half rally.

But the slow-footed LSU defense couldn't cope with the Mississippi passing attack. Rebel halfbacks LeRoy Reed and Crawford simply outran the Tigers' secondary defense.

Crawford snatched five passes for 84 yards total gain and two touchdowns, but Red romped 136 yards on four receptions, including a 71-yard gain on a toss from quarterback John Blalack to set up the second Rebels' score.

Mississippi now has a 5-2 season record and a 3-1 mark in Southeastern Conference play.

Underdog Raiders Fight Oklahoma A&M To 13-13 Tie

LUBBOCK, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Halfback Duke Frisbie's brilliant 72-yard touchdown run pulled underdog Texas Tech up by its bootstraps and the Red Raiders came from behind to battle Oklahoma A&M to a 13-13 tie Saturday.

A crowd of 17,000 homecoming fans watched the Aggies score two quick touchdowns, the first on a 50-yard punt return at 9:24 on the first quarter by halfback Duane Wood and the second on a short plunge by quarterback Johnny Allen with only 15 seconds gone in the second quarter.

But the Raiders, unable to get past their own 33-yard line in the first quarter, suddenly came to life. Two plays gained eight yards after the kickoff. On third down, Frisbie faked a pass and broke into the clear to go 72 yards unmolested.

Late in the second quarter, the Raiders punched 53 yards on seven plays, sparked by a 43-yard pass play from quarterback Buddy Hill to halfback M. C. Northam. Northam caught the ball in the clear on the 20, but fell on the 11. Four plays later, fullback Gene Bentley, a 245-pound battering ram, crashed the remaining distance.

With a chance to go ahead Frisbie's attempted placement was wide. Mc Odell missed the first Aggie attempt, but got his second one, while quarterback Don Williams converted after Tech's first tally.

It was the second successive 13-13 tie for the two teams in Lubbock. They battled to a draw here in 1954.

The Raiders held the Aggies on the 12-yard line in the first quarter and again on the 14 moments later. Aside from those two threats, the Aggies didn't imperil the Raider goal.

Tech had one other threat for the Aggies, driving to the eight yard line in the third quarter, where a bad pitch-out on third down was recovered by A&M.

It was a fumble marred game, Tech losing four of six bobbles and the Aggies, two of four.

Tech held an edge in the statistics, gaining 251 yards rushing to 143 and 68 yards passing to 46, with 13 first downs to nine.

Texas Aggies Easily Tear Down Arkansas, 27 To 0

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Texas A&M caught them while Arkansas missed them Saturday night and that was the main reason Texas A&M wound up with a 27 to 0 victory and the lead in the Southwest Conference race.

Not only couldn't Arkansas catch forward passes, a form of attack at which A&M was eminently successful, but Arkansas also missed some passes from center, thus giving A&M unwitting aid.

Nor could Arkansas match the running of such A&M backs as quarterback Don Osborne, fullback Jack Pardee and left half John Crow. Fullback Gerald Nesbitt and quarterback Don Christian of Arkansas tried but couldn't do it.

Some 27,000 persons saw the game. The night was clammy with a fog so thick that a couple of bewildered sea gulls wandered in from the Gulf of Mexico 150 miles away and flapped about the heads of the players.

Texas A&M ran up its score on two passes and two by runs. They scored three times in the first half and once in the last half, when Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant let his second and third string do most of the playing.

A&M went 47 yards in three plays for its first touchdown, a third of the way through the first period. Two running plays by Osborne and Pardee put it on the Arkansas 37, from where Osborne passed to Crow in the end zone.

The second touchdown, early in the second period, came a little harder. It took nine plays to score from 39 yards out, with Osborne running 11 yards for the touchdown.

An Arkansas fumble by right half Jerry Ferguson helped A&M get started on its third. After the fumble, Arkansas punted and got off a poor one. As a result A&M had only 24 yards to go to the goal.

Right half Don Watson gained eight yards of it, while second string quarterback Jimmy Wright's 16-yard pass to left end Eugene Stallings in the end zone got the rest of it.

A&M went 65 yards in 11 plays for its last touchdown. Osborne scored it from the one.

Score by periods:

Texas A&M	7	13	7	0—27

Texas A&M scoring: Touchdowns, Crow (37, pass from Osborne); Osborne (11, run); Stallings (16, pass from Wright); Crow (1, run). Conversions, Taylor 3.

Inspired Canines Overpower 'Bama In Last Quarter

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 3 (AP) —An 80-yard punt return for a touchdown by halfback J. B. Davis of Guntersville, Ala., fired up the Georgia Bulldogs today and they defeated Alabama 16-13 in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Before Davis' run, which came in the closing minutes of the third period, Alabama had a 7-0 lead and thoroughly had outplayed the visitors.

But the Bulldogs then recovered a Bama fumble on the losers' 41, and drove quickly deeper in Alabama territory, with sophomore end Ken Cooper booting a 29-yard field goal which proved the final margin of victory.

Georgia, with quarterback Billy Hearn doing most of the work, made a second touchdown midway of the final period on a 59-yard march.

Bama then came suddenly to life and counted on a 68-yard pass from soph quarterback Bobby Smith to halfback Marshall Brown. It was Smith's first throw in varsity play.

That was all the scoring, but Bama brought the 25,000 fans up in new excitement with passes in the closing minutes.

Alabama's first score came midway of the opening quarter on a ball outside its own 40.

Georgia	0	0	7	9—16
Alabama	7	0	0	6—13

Georgia scoring — touchdowns: Davis (80, punt return); Hearn (1, plunge); field goal: Cooper (29). Conversions: Cooper.

Alabama scoring — touchdowns: Nelson (1, plunge); Brown 68, pass-run from Smith). Conversions: Reeves.

Vidalia Defeated By Sicily Island In 18-13 Battle

VIDALIA, La., Nov. 3 (Special) — Vidalia High's Vikings, still playing in "tough luck," spotted the strong Sicily Island Tigers two early touchdowns, then fought back like mad only to fall 18 to 13 before the largest crowd ever to witness a football game here.

It was homecoming for Vidalia and the occasion also called for the introduction of Vidalia's brand new band, which performed under the direction of Bernie Driscoll. Nita Cross, V.H.S. senior, was crowned queen of the homecoming in pre-game ceremonies.

Dean Wiggins and his brother, Bobby, scored all of Sicily Island's points, while Billy Calvert and Sonny Franklin made the V.H.S. scores.

Vidalia plays Roxie, Miss., next Friday night.

Dick Garibaldi, 225-pound 6 foot 4 athlete, is playing basketball at Santa Clara after two years in the service.

Uclans Dampen Stanford's Rose Bowl Hopes, 14-13

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 (UP)—A fired-up UCLA football team, led by the defensive brilliance of quarterback Don Shinnick, scored a major upset Saturday by defeating favored Stanford, 14 to 13, and putting a crimp in the Stanford Rose Bowl Mrch before 75, 55 amazed football fans in Memorial Coliseum.

The UCLA Bruins, unimpressed by the fact that Stanford was favored by two touchdowns, capitalized on fumble recoveries and a blocked kick to chalk up two touchdowns in the first period and then smothered John Brodie, the nation's leading collegiate passer, to win by the margin of a conversion that was missed by Stanford's Mike Raftery in the third period.

UCLA's defensive edge was evidence by the statistics on Sanford's great Brodie who was smeared so often that he ended up with minus 66 yards rushing while completing nine out of 20 passes for one touchdown and having one pass intercepted.

It was Brodie's blocked kick that Bruin end Pete O'Garro grabbed and took unmolested for 42 yards for the second UCLA score.

Joining Shinnick in a heroic role for UCLA was end Hal Smith whose first period recovery on the Stanford 20 set up UCLA's first score and who blocked the punt O'Garro scored with.

Score by periods:

UCLA	14	0	0	0—14
Stanford	0	7	6	0—13

UCLA scoring: Touchdowns — Griffin (4, run), O'Garro (42, runback on blocked kick). Conversions — Duncan, Shinnick.

Stanford scoring: Touchdowns—Valli (3, plunge), Raftery (21, pass from Brodie). Conversions—Raftery.

Tulane Squeezes Past Mississippi State, 20 To 14

Quillian Scores With 2 Minutes Left For Victory

By JAMES SAGGUS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 3 (AP) — Fullback Ronny Quillian churned his aching legs for a six-yard touchdown in the final two minutes today to give Tulane a 20-14 football victory over a Mississippi State team that surged unexpectedly into contention in the fourth period.

Quillian smashed for 50 yards in a 69-yard desperation drive after State tied the Southeastern Conference game midway in the final quarter.

The big blond bruiser worked State's weakened guards almost to death, gaining most of his 141 yards rushing through the spots held down by reserves.

State's injured starting guards, Billy Fulton and Billy King, were unable to dress out for the game.

Tulane took a second quarter lead on guard Wilbur Troxclair's fumble recovery of a blocked punt in the end zone and went ahead 14-0 on a 19-yard pass from quarterback Gene Newton to halfback Claude Mason in the third quarter.

State scored in the third and fourth periods on a two yard plunge by Frank Sabbatini and on a 45-yard pass from quarterback Billy Stacy to end Ronald Bennett.

Tackle Emmett Zelenka converted twice for Tulane and halfback Gil Peterson twice for State.

The two teams played on almost even terms until midway in the second quarter when Sabbatini tried a quick kick close behind his line and Tulane end Eddie Khayat blocked the kick at the 17 and the ball bounded into the end zone where Troxclair covered it.

Tulane seemed to have the advantage until substitutes sprinkled the lineup in the second half.

It took Tulane only three minutes after the third quarter kickoff to march 73 yards. After Newton, Quillian and halfback Willie Hof sparked a drive to the 19, Newton connected with Mason on the 10 and Mason scampered across for the second touchdown.

State tied the game in the fourth quarter after a 40-yard punt return by halfback Bubber Trammell to the Tulane 45. On the first play, Stacy hit Bennett with a short pass and Bennett outran the defense to tie the game with less than eight minutes left and set the stage for Quillian's great offensive effort that decided it.

Tulane piled up a rushing advantage of 272 yards to 178 and led 20 to 12 in first downs. Stacy was runner tup Quillian for ground gaining honors with 61 and added 69 more in completing four of six passes.

Quarterback John Caruso topped Tulane passers with two completions in five attempts for 27 yards.

Tech Upsets Southeastern

RUSTON, La., Nov. 3 (Special) —Underdog Louisiana Tech thrilled 7,000 homecoming fans here this afternoon by upsetting Southeastern Louisiana, 12 to 6, on a slippery field. No rain fell during the contest, but there was rain the night before.

The important Gulf States Conference win knocked the visiting S.L.C. Lions out of the loop lead, and gave the inside track to the Techmen, who took over the top spot and who can now cinch the championship with a win over Northeast State on November 17.

STATISTICS

	S.L.C.	Tech
First downs	7	12
Net yards rushing	70	191
Net yards passing	93	59

Tech's inspired Canines scored with two minutes left in the first quarter when quarterback Billy Bond shot a six-yard pass to end Neal Thompson in the end zone. Wayne Bourgeois tried the extra point kick which was no good.

The alert Bond intercepted a pass tossed by Lion quarterback Bill Hawkins in the third quarter and raced 40 yards untouched to paydirt. Again Bourgeois' try for point was unsuccessful, but Tech had a comfortable 12-0 lead.

Southeastern tried to get back into the game through the air in the last period. With five minutes left in the struggle, quarterback Cliff Stringfield spotted end Huey Husser in the open for a 55-yard scoring pass. Stringfield's kick for PAT was wide.

Tech's first score climaxed a 65-yard drive, started by an intercepted pass. Bulldog Bourgeois grabbed a Stringfield aerial and returned it to the Lion 46. Big gun in the drive was the pin-point passing of Bond who connected on five tosses.

A 16-yard pass from Bond to end Billy White got a first on the Southeastern 31. Halfback Sonny Sumlin got another first on the 21, and Bond triggered another aerial to Thompson on the eighth.

A 15-yard penalty sent the Oanines back to the 22, and it looked as though the drive was halted, but Bond did it again, with a toss to White for 17 to the six. It was at this point that Tech made the touchdown with Bond throwing to Thompson.

Tech's strong defense bottled the Lion attack so successfully in the early phases of the game that Southeastern did not get past the mid-field stripe the entire first half. The visitors didn't get a first down until midway of the third quarter.

Leading ground gainer for the Bulldogs was halfback Bourgeois with 59 yards on 14 carries. Top rusher for S.L.C. was fullback Tom Bell with 18 on four attempts. Bond of Tech connected on six of nine passes for 59. Stringfield completed five of ten for S.L.C. for 80.

Vanderbilt Shades Virginia With 2nd Period Marker

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Vanderbilt slogged 62 yards through the gooey muck for a second-period touchdown and then stopped Virginia a yard short of the goal in the final quarter to record a 6-2 football victory today in rain-spattered Scott Stadium.

Boyce Smith, poised sophomore quarterback standing in for the injured Don Orr, sliced 12 yards over right tackle on the split-T option play for the touchdown that decided the game. After that, the Commodores spent the rest of the afternoon fending off Cavalier thrusts.

Michigan State Mauls Wisconsin In Duel Of Errors

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 3 (UP) — Michigan State forced weaker Wisconsin into numerous mistakes Saturday, scoring in all but the final period and swamping the Badgers 33-0 before 53,647 fans in Macklin Stadium.

Both teams played erratically throughout the game but Michigan State put on a powerful running and passing attack, while Wisconsin was unable to get a serious scoring drive going.

In the final period fourth-ranked nationally Michigan State tried to use Oklahoma's "hurry-up" offense. The strategy didn't help as the Spartans failed to score for the only period in the game.

Five Michigan State players scored. State took the opening kickoff and marched 68 yards to start the rout.

The Spartans put in their third team and tried the "hurry-up" offense. The tactics baffled Michigan State as well as the Badgers and neither team could score although the Spartans went into Badger territory several times.

Score by periods:

Michigan State	13	13	7	0	—33
Wisconsin	0	0	0	0	— 0

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns—Gilbert (one yard plunge), Kowalczyk (one yard plunge), Kolodzig (20-yard pass-run), Dukes (6 yard pass) and Mendyk (67 yard punt return). Conversions — Ninowski 2, Panitch 1.

TCU Whips Down Baylor's Bruins With 7-6 Stick

By ROBERT E. FORD

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 3 (AP) —Texas Christian smashed and drove its way to a 7-6 football victory over Baylor today to keep its hopes climbing for a repeat victory as Southwest Conference champions.

Harold Pollard kicked the crucial extra point shortly after the fourth quarter began in drizzle-drenched Amon Carter Stadium.

The touchdown that evened the score 6-6 before Pollard's kick was made by Chuck Curtis on a 6-inch quarterback sneak.

The six points climaxed a drive that covered 67 yards and spanned the third and fourth quarters.

Baylor struck like lightning with only 55 seconds remaining in the first half a 32-yard pass and run play from Bobby Jones to Jerry Marcontell to pay dirt. Arthur (Junior) Beall's conversion attempt was wide.

Undefeated Vols Turn Under North Carolina, 20 To 0

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3 (AP) —Third-ranked Tennessee, looking ahead to its important date with second-ranked Georgia Tech next Saturday, defeated North Carolina 20-0 today in an intersectional football game.

With injured tailback Johnny Majors sitting on the bench for all except one play—a 52-yard fourth period quick kick—Tennessee's single wing offense mounted only three drives on the stubborn Tar Heel defense but scored on all of them.

Al Carter and Bobby Gordon, subbing for Majors, supplied the spark that carried the Vols to their sixth straight victory of the season.

Thus the stage was set for Tennessee and Georgia Tech, also undefeated, to meet in Atlanta next week in a contest that may well decide the Southeastern Conference championship.

Carter led two of the three marches and scored on both of them. The first Tennessee touchdown came in the second quarter when Carter dashed off tackle for five yards to cap a 38-yard sally.

Later, the 168-pound Sarasota, Fla., speedster plunged from the one to climax a 62-yard march.

Gordon and fullback Carl Smith ripped the tiring Tar Heel line to shreds in a fourth period maneuver that covered 84 yards, Gordon racing 11 for the score.

Tennessee	0	6	7	7—20

Tennessee scoring — touchdowns: Carter (5, run; 1 plunge); Gordon (11, run.) conversions: Smithers, Burklow.

Wrestling Show Expected To Be Full Of Dynamite

Special police protection will be called to Kallio's Arena this Tuesday night when promoter Gus Kallio presents one of the most explosive wrestling matches of his career.

Things have been fuming at the Walnut street establishment for the past two weeks. Last Tuesday a four man tag team match ended with six grapplers in the ring and the entire arena ready to errupt into a riot at any minute. Two wrestlers were fined ten dollars for their uncalled-for action and two more were almost killed.

Favorites George and Jack Curtis would probably have been carried away on a slab had the affair continued. Jose Alvarado and Salvador Martinez, Mexican tag team champions, has just started to pound the heads of the Curtis boys into liquid. The victory was actually given to the Curtis clan on a disqualification but it is certainly one win of which the Mississippians cannot be proud.

Once the slaughter had gotten up a full head of steam, "Wild Bill" Steddum stepped in to protect the Curtisses and the Golden Terror leaped through the ropes to aid the Mexicans. So the six began to swing fists and the audience was about ready to join in on the harmony when polices called an end to the brawl.

Kallio had decided to let everyone get his fill of the roughhouse stuff this week. One match will be without a referee and the main event will have the same six back together in a tag scramble of three-man teams. And watch out....!

It will be Steddum and the Terror going on the rampage without a referee. They have tried for two weeks to get a decision but both times their encounter has been halted by referee Loy Scarborough with "no contest."

The main event though will have a double dip of "refs" as Bill Barney steps in to give Scarborough a hand.

Kallio in announcing that he will ask for extra police protection said, "This match looks like it will be too rough an event to have without added protection. It will probably be wild and rough but I intend to see that things don't get out of control."

The Steddum and Terror brawl will have a ten-minute time limit with one fall needed to win. Two more preliminaries will have the same bounds.

The main event will have a 90-minute limit with two falls necessary for victory.

Navy Clobbers Hapless Notre Dame In 2nd Half

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Navy's pent-up scoring punch burst its bounds for three touchdowns in the third quarter and, with timely passing by quarterback Tom Forrestal, beat Notre Dame today, 33-7, for the first time since 1944.

The fourth straight loss and fifth this season is the poorest Notre Dame football record since 1933.

Navy, eager and ready to kick the Irish while they were down after beating them only four times in 29 past games, held the upper hand after the first few minutes. Navy got a touchdown near the end of the first half to take a 7-0 lead.

The crowd of 57,773 was treated to an explosive third quarter with Notre Dame getting its only touchdown on a 27-yard run by halfback Bob Ward.

They swapped touchdowns in the first four minutes after the second half started on the damp Memorial Stadium gridiron and Navy then pulled away for its fifth victory in six games this season.

Forrestal, completing 10 of 15 passes, hit Ned Oldham on a 31-yard scoring play for Navy's second touchdown and took the ball over himself for the fourth on a 4-yard keep play after his tosses set it up. In between, Navy ran the ball 65 yards in 11 plays with Oldham going the last 6 yards.

Navy wound up the game with its third team playing, and Don Jahn ran 8 yards for the final tally. The second-string halfback, Harry Hurst, bucked for the first touchdown in the second quarter.

Tech Upsets Southeastern

RUSTON, La., Nov. 3 (Special) —Underdog Louisiana Tech thrilled 7,000 homecoming fans here this afternoon by upsetting Southeastern Louisiana, 12 to 6, on a slippery field. No rain fell during the contest, but there was rain the night before.

The important Gulf States Conference win knocked the visiting S.L.C. Lions out of the loop lead, and gave the inside track to the Techmen, who took over the top spot and who can now cinch the championship with a win over Northeast State on November 17.

Tech's inspired Canines scored with two minutes left in the first quarter when quarterback Billy Bond shot a six-yard pass to end Neal Thompson in the end zone. Wayne Bourgeois tried the extra point kick which was no good.

The alert Bond intercepted a pass tossed by Lion quarterback Bill Hawkins in the third quarter and raced 40 yards untouched to paydirt. Again Bourgeois' try for point was unsuccessful, but Tech had a comfortable 12-0 lead.

Southeastern tried to get back into the game through the air in the last period. With five minutes left in the struggle, quarterback Cliff Stringfield spotted end Huey Husser in the open for a 55-yard scoring pass. Stringfield's kick for PAT was wide.

Tech's first score climaxed a 65-yard drive, started by an intercepted pass. Bulldog Bourgeois grabbed a Stringfield aerial and returned it to the Lion 46. Big gun in the drive was the pin-point passing of Bond who connected on five tosses.

A 16-yard pass from Bond to end Billy White got a first on the Southeastern 31. Halfback Sonny Sumlin got another first on the 21, and Bond triggered another aerial to Thompson on the eighth.

A 15-yard penalty sent the Canines back to the 22, and it looked as though the drive was halted, but Bond did it again, with a toss to White for 17 to the six. It was at this point that Tech made the touchdown with Bond throwing to Thompson.

Tech's strong defense bottled the Lion attack so successfully in the early phases of the game that Southeastern did not get past the mid-field stripe the entire first half. The visitors didn't get a first down until midway of the third quarter.

Leading ground gainer for the Bulldogs was halfback Bourgeois with 59 yards on 14 carries. Top rusher for S.L.C. was fullback Tom Bell with 18 on four attempts. Bond of Tech connected on six of nine passes for 59. Stringfield completed five of ten for S.L.C. for 80.

Vanderbilt Shades Virginia With 2nd Period Marker

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 3 (AP)—Vanderbilt slogged 62 yards through the gooey muck for a second-period touchdown and then stopped Virginia a yard short of the goal in the final quarter to record a 6-2 football victory today in rain-spattered Scott Stadium.

Boyce Smith, poised sophomore quarterback standing in for the injured Don Orr, sliced 12 yards over right tackle on the split-T option play for the touchdown that decided the game. After that, the Commodores spent the rest of the afternoon fending off Cavalier thrusts.

Michigan State Mauls Wisconsin In Duel Of Errors

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 3 (UP) — Michigan State forced weaker Wisconsin into numerous mistakes Saturday, scoring in all but the final period and swamping the Badgers 33-0 before 53,647 fans in Macklin Stadium.

Both teams played erratically throughout the game but Michigan State put on a powerful running and passing attack, while Wisconsin was unable to get a serious scoring drive going.

In the final period fourth-ranked nationally Michigan State tried to use Oklahoma's "hurry-up" offense. The strategy didn't help as the Spartans failed to score for the only period in the game.

Five Michigan State players scored. State took the opening kickoff and marched 63 yards to start the rout.

The Spartans put in their third team and tried the "hurry-up" offense. The tactics baffled Michigan State as well as the Badgers and neither team could score although the Spartans went into Badger territory several times.

Score by periods:

Michigan State	13	13	7	0	—33
Wisconsin	0	0	0	0	— 0

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns—Gilbert (one yard plunge), Kowalczyk (one yard plunge), Kolodzig (20-yard pass-run), Dukes (6 yard pass) and Mendyk (67 yard punt return). Conversions — Ninowski 2, Panitch 1.

Navy Clobbers Hapless Notre Dame In 2nd Half

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3 (AP)—Navy's pent-up scoring punch burst its bounds for three touchdowns in the third quarter and, with timely passing by quarterback Tom Forrestal, beat Notre Dame today, 33-7, for the first time since 1944.

The fourth straight loss and fifth this season is the poorest Notre Dame football record since 1933.

Navy, eager and ready to kick the Irish while they were down after beating them only four times in 29 past games, held the upper hand after the first few minutes. Navy got a touchdown near the end of the first half to take a 7-0 lead.

The crowd of 57,773 was treated to an explosive third quarter with Notre Dame getting its only touchdown on a 27-yard run by halfback Bob Ward.

They swapped touchdowns in the first four minutes after the second half started on the damp Memorial Stadium gridiron and Navy then pulled away for its fifth victory in six games this season.

Forrestal, completing 10 of 15 passes, hit Ned Oldham on a 31-yard scoring play for Navy's second touchdown and took the ball over himself for the fourth on a 4-yard keep play after his tosses set it up. In between, Navy ran the ball 65 yards in 11 plays with Oldham going the last 6 yards.

Navy wound up the game with its third team playing, and Don Jahn ran 8 yards for the final tally. The second-string halfback, Harry Hurst, bucked for the first touchdown in the second quarter.

Notre Dame	0	0	7	0	— 7
Navy	0	7	20	6	—33

Notre Dame scoring—touchdown: Ward (27, run). Conversion: Hornug.

TCU Whips Down Baylor's Bruins With 7-6 Stick

By ROBERT E. FORD

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 3 (AP) —Texas Christian smashed and drove its way to a 7-6 football victory over Baylor today to keep its hopes climbing for a repeat victory as Southwest Conference champions.

Harold Pollard kicked the crucial extra point shortly after the fourth quarter began in drizzle-drenched Amon Carter Stadium.

The touchdown that evened the score 6-6 before Pollard's kick was made by Chuck Curtis on a 6-inch quarterback sneak.

The six points climaxed a drive that covered 67 yards and spanned the third and fourth quarters.

Baylor struck like lightning with only 55 seconds remaining in the first half a 32-yard pass and run play from Bobby Jones to Jerry Marcontell to pay dirt. Arthur (Junior) Beall's conversion attempt was wide.

Baylor	0	6	0	0	—6
Texas Christian	0	0	0	7	—7

Undefeated Vols Turn Under North Carolina, 20 To 0

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3 (AP) —Third-ranked Tennessee, looking ahead to its important date with second-ranked Georgia Tech next Saturday, defeated North Carolina 20-0 today in an intersectional football game.

With injured tailback Johnny Majors sitting on the bench for all except one play—a 52-yard fourth period quick kick—Tennessee's single wing offense mounted only three drives on the stubborn Tar Heel defense but scored on all of them.

Al Carter and Bobby Gordon, subbing for Majors, supplied the spark that carried the Vols to their sixth straight victory of the season.

Thus the stage was set for Tennessee and Georgia Tech, also undefeated, to meet in Atlanta next week in a contest that may well decide the Southeastern Conference championship.

Carter led two of the three marches and scored on both of them. The first Tennessee touchdown came in the second quarter when Carter dashed off tackle for five yards to cap a 38-yard sally.

Later, the 168-pound Sarasota, Fla., speedster plunged from the one to climax a 62-yard march.

Gordon and fullback Carl Smith ripped the tiring Tar Heel line to shreds in a fourth period maneuver that covered 84 yards, Gordon racing 11 for the score.

Tennessee	0	6	7	7	—20

Tennessee scoring — touchdowns: Carter (5, run; 1 plunge); Gordon (11, run.) conversions: Smithers, Burklow.

Wrestling Show Expected To Be Full Of Dynamite

Special police protection will be called to Kallio's Arena this Tuesday night when promoter Gus Kallio presents one of the most explosive wrestling matches of his career.

Things have been fuming at the Walnut street establishment for the past two weeks. Last Tuesday a four man tag team match ended with six grapplers in the ring and the entire arena ready to errupt into a riot at any minute. Two wrestlers were fined ten dollars for their uncalled-for action and two more were almost killed.

Favorites George and Jack Curtis would probably have been carried away on a slab had the affair continued. Jose Alvarado and Salvador Martinez, Mexican tag team champions, has just started to pound the heads of the Curtis boys into liquid. The victory was actually given to the Curtis clan on a disqualification but it is certainly one win of which the Mississippians cannot be proud.

Once the slaughter had gotten up a full head of steam, "Wild Bill" Steddum stepped in to protect the Curtisses and the Golden Terror leaped through the ropes to aid the Mexicans. So the six began to swing fists and the audience was about ready to join in on the harmony when polices called an end to the brawl.

Kallio had decided to let everyone get his fill of the roughhouse stuff this week. One match will be without a referee and the main event will have the same six back together in a tag scramble of three-man teams. And watch out....!

It will be Steddum and the Terror going on the rampage without a referee. They have tried for two weeks to get a decision but both times their encounter has been halted by referee Loy Scarborough with "no contest."

The main event though will have a double dip of "refs" as Bill Barney steps in to give Scarborough a hand.

Kallio in announcing that he will ask for extra police protection said, "This match looks like it will be too rough an event to have without added protection. It will probably be wild and rough but I intend to see that things don't get out of control."

The Steddum and Terror brawl will have a ten-minute time limit with one fall needed to win. Two more preliminaries will have the same bounds.

The main event will have a 60-minute limit with two falls necessary for victory.

Devils Fight Hard But Georgia Tech Wins, 7-0

DURHAM, N.C., Nov. 3 (AP) — Powerful Georgia Tech finally broke the shackes against a stout Duke defense today with a fourth-period touchdown to defeat the inspired Blue Devils, 7-0, and maintain its undefeated record before a cheering crowd of 38,000.

Fullback Dickie Mattison of Atlanta plunged over from the 1 early in the fourth quarter to provide the winning margin in a skintight game. Quarterback Wade Mitchell converted.

It was the ninth consecutive victory for Coach Bobby Dodd's team, ranked second in the nation in the current Associated Press football poll. It was Duke's fourth loss in seven starts.

Duke, playing an inspired performance, missed a good scoring chance in the second quarter when a drive stopped on the Tech 5. The Blue Devils had moved from their 33 to Tech's 3. Tackle Ed Deloatch, a senior of Roanoke Rapids, led the big Duke line that more than matched Georgia Tech and stopped everything Tech could muster until the payoff touchdown.

That drive began late in the third quarter when halfback Paul Rotenberry intercepted a pass by quarterback Bob Brodhead on Georgia Tech's 38.

Georgia Tech was threatening at the end of the game and had possession on Duke's 7.

Aerial Movement Of Olympic Team Starts Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3 (AP)—The mass aerial movement of America's 1956 Olympic team to Melbourne, Australia, begins tomorrow night.

The first of a succession of chartered airliners leaves from Los Angeles International Airport at 11:30 p.m. CST.

Aboard will be the president of the United States Olympic committee, Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, his wife and daughter; other Olympic officials, a group of newspapermen, and members of the canoe and wrestling teams.

The first plane, setting the route pattern for the others, will arrive in Honolulu early Monday morning and the travelers will spend 36 hours in the island capital, with a light limbering up exercise scheduled for the athletes.

A brief stop will be made in the Fiji islands and then on to Melbourne, completing a journey of 32 hours flying time.

Some 375 athletes will make the trip. The games begin Nov. 22.

The track and field squad leaves in split sections Monday night and early Tuesday. The last plane is booked to fly out Nov. 11, bearing basketball and field hockey teams and an assortment of passengers connected with the games.

Main interest centers on the track and field team, considered by most experts as the most powerful in this nation's history.

Coach Jim Kelly of Minnesota has maintained that this off-season year, when it is summer in Australia but cold November in the U.S. would not seriously hamper the American team.

Sooners Rally To Drop Buffaloes, 27-19

Colorado Enjoys 19-6 Lead During First Half Action

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 3 (UP) —Oklahoma's football machine, a coughing and sputtering thing early, perked just often enough in the second half Saturday to overcome a two-touchdown Colorado lead and preserve its all - time winning streak with a 27-19 victory before 47,000 fans.

Colorado led, 19-6, at halftime and Oklahoma trailed until quarterback Jimmy Harris' conversion made it 20-19 with 48 seconds left in the third period. Oklahoma added seven points late in the final period to put itself out of reach of the battling Coloradoans and shoot its consecutive winning streak to 36 games.

The Sooners broke out after halftime in the 33-degree weather with a brisk 80-yard drive which netted a touchdown in four minutes. Halfback Tommy McDonald passed six yards to halfback Clendon Thomas for the score, and Harris kicked the extra point. But Oklahoma still trailed, 19-13.

Oklahoma's go - ahead point came after a 48-yard march with McDonald skirting end 11 yards for the touchdown.

The Sooners scored in the final period on an 18 - yard Harris-to-Thomas pass, ending a 70-yard drive.

Colorado's line simply outfought the touted Oklahoma forward wall in the surprising first half, stopping two strong drives late in the second period and ripping out big holes for the backs to race through.

Colorado applied the pressure right from the start when guard John Wooten blocked fullback Billy Priver's third down quick kick on the Oklahoma nine. Fullback John Bayuk recovered the ball in the Oklahoma end zone for a touchdown, with only 3:49 gone. Ellwin Indorf converted for Colorado and it proved to be the losers only extra point.

Oklahoma came back strong, relying mainly on Coach Bud Wilkinson's famed quick openers, for a 64 - yard touchdown advance. McDonald scored on a 35-yard pass from Harris, who missed the extra point.

Score by periods:

Colorado	7	12	0	0	—19
Oklahoma	6	0	14	7	—27

Passing Attack By Rice Spills Utah Crew, 27-0

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 3 (UP)—Rice, a three-touchdown favorite, went the odds-makers one better Saturday, storming University of Utah defenses by air and ground to win 27-0.

A crowd of 22,000, smallest Rice home attendance in six years, saw the Owls' throw-and-go combo of King Hill and end Buddy Dial account for two touchdowns, with halfback Ken Williams and end David Mantor adding two more in the third and fourth period.

Utah, the visitors from the Skyline Conference, although playing a tight ground game, was no match for the Owl aerials, but caught on in the fourth period when the ball changed hands four times, three of them on interceptions, the other a fumble.

Utah, threatening only once, in the first period with a sustained drive that netted only 44 yards, managed to stop a Rice drive from the Owl 34 to the Utah 6 when Utah guard Chester Franklin threw Rice quarterback Frank Ryan for a five yard toss and then blocked a field goal attempt by Owl fullback Jerry Hall.

The victory raised Rice's season record to 4-2.

Utah, literally run all over rain-soaked Rice Stadium, managed only nine first downs to the Owls' 20. The Owls netted 207 yards rushing to Utah's 93 and gained 176 passing to the Utes' 48.

Dial caught five passes for 113 yards and two touchdowns, including a 47-yard romp. Rice halfback G. F. Alsbrook led Owl rushing for 83 yards in eight carries. Right half Gary Knudson led the Utes' rushing with 35 yards in seven attempts.

The first of a succession of chartered airliners leaves from Los Angeles International Airport at 11:30 p.m. CST.

Aboard will be the president of the United States Olympic committee, Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, his wife and daughter; other Olympic officials, a group of newspapermen, and members of the canoe and wrestling teams.

The first plane, setting the route pattern for the others, will arrive in Honolulu early Monday morning and the travelers will spend 36 hours in the island capital, with a light limbering up exercise scheduled for the athletes.

A brief stop will be made in the Fiji islands and then on to Melbourne, completing a journey of 32 hours flying time.

Some 375 athletes will make the trip. The games begin Nov. 22.

The track and field squad leaves in split sections Monday night and early Tuesday. The last plane is booked to fly out Nov. 11, bearing basketball and field hockey teams and an assortment of passengers connected with the games.

Main interest centers on the track and field team, considered by most experts as the most powerful in this nation's history.

Coach Jim Kelly of Minnesota has maintained that this off-season year, when it is summer in Australia but cold November in the U.S. would not seriously hamper the American team.

Sooners Rally To Drop Buffaloes, 27-19

Colorado Enjoys 19-6 Lead During First Half Action

BOULDER, Colo., Nov. 3 (UP)—Oklahoma's football machine, a coughing and sputtering thing early, perked just often enough in the second half Saturday to overcome a two-touchdown Colorado lead and preserve its all - time winning streak with a 27-19 victory before 47,000 fans.

Colorado led, 19-6, at halftime and Oklahoma trailed until quarterback Jimmy Harris' conversion made it 20-19 with 48 seconds left in the third period. Oklahoma added seven points late in the final period to put itself out of reach of the battling Coloradoans and shoot its consecutive winning streak to 36 games.

The Sooners broke out after halftime in the 33-degree weather with a brisk 80-yard drive which netted a touchdown in four minutes. Halfback Tommy McDonald passed six yards to halfback Clendon Thomas for the score, and Harris kicked the extra point. But Oklahoma still trailed, 19-13.

Oklahoma's go - ahead point came after a 48-yard march with McDonald skirting end 11 yards for the touchdown.

The Sooners scored in the final period on an 18 - yard Harris-to-Thomas pass, ending a 70-yard drive.

Colorado's line simply outfought the touted Oklahoma forward wall in the surprising first half, stopping two strong drives late in the second period and ripping out big holes for the backs to race through.

Colorado applied the pressure right from the start when guard John Wooten blocked fullback Billy Priver's third down quick kick on the Oklahoma nine. Fullback John Bayuk recovered the ball in the Oklahoma end zone for a touchdown, with only 3:49 gone. Ellwin Indorf converted for Colorado and it proved to be the losers only extra point.

Oklahoma came back strong, relying mainly on Coach Bud Wilkinson's famed quick openers, for a 64 - yard touchdown advance. McDonald scored on a 35-yard pass from Harris, who missed the extra point.

Score by periods:

Colorado	7	12	0	0—19
Oklahoma	6	0	14	7—27

Colorado scoring: Touchdowns—Bayuk (recovered blocked punt in end zone), Dove (9, double reverse), Stransky (9, end run). Conversion—Indorf.

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns—McDonald 2 (35, pass from Harris, 11, end run), Thomas 2 (6, pass from McDonald, 18, pass from Harris), Conversions—Harris 3.

Passing Attack By Rice Spills Utah Crew, 27-0

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov 3 (UP)—Rice, a three-touchdown favorite, went the odds-makers one better Saturday, storming University of Utah defenses by air and ground to win 27-0.

A crowd of 22,000, smallest Rice home attendance in six years, saw the Owls' throw-and-go combo of King Hill and end Buddy Dial account for two touchdowns, with halfback Ken Williams and end David Mantor adding two more in the third and fourth period.

Utah, the visitors from the Skyline Conference, although playing a tight ground game, was no match for the Owl aerials, but caught on in the fourth period when the ball changed hands four times, three of them on interceptions, the other a fumble.

Utah, threatening only once, in the first period with a sustained drive that netted only 44 yards, managed to stop a Rice drive from the Owl 34 to the Utah 6 when Utah guard Chester Franklin threw Rice quarterback Frank Ryan for a five yard toss and then blocked a field goal attempt by Owl fullback Jerry Hall.

The victory raised Rice's season record to 4-2.

Utah, literally run all over rain-soaked Rice Stadium, managed only nine first downs to the Owls' 20. The Owls netted 207 yards rushing to Utah's 93 and gained 176 passing to the Utes' 48.

Dial caught five passes for 113 yards and two touchdowns, including a 47-yard romp. Rice halfback G. F. Alsbrook led Owl rushing for 83 yards in eight carries. Right half Gary Knudson led the Utes' rushing with 35 yards in seven attempts.

Score by periods:

Rice	7	0	14	6—27

Rice scoring: Touchdowns—Dial 2 (47 pass-run from Hill, and, 4-pass from Hill), K. Williams (8-run). Mantor (5-pass from Ryan). Conversions—Hall 2, Hill.

Glenn Johnson, who won the Michigan amateur golf crown the last three years, quarterbacked Michigan State football teams in 1941, 1942 and 1945.

Absentee Votes In Parish Set At 290 Saturday

With the closing of absentee balloting Saturday noon, R. Dean Farr, Ouachita parish clerk of court, late yesterday announced that a total of 290 persons voted for the Nov. 6 general election. Of this number 93 votes were cast during the half-day period Saturday.

The absentee ballots will be sent to the various precincts to be opened and tabulated following the closing of the polls Tuesday evening.

Meanwhile, Farr said, all preparations have been made for the transporting of the voting machines to the 50 precincts in Ouachita parish. The voting, which will include the largest ballot to date, is expected to run heavy in the parish. Operations will begin Monday morning for moving the machines to the various polling places.

Political activity in the parish subsided somewhat Saturday morning, following an intensive campaign by the three political groups, Democrats, Republican and States Righters, throughout the area. Republican leaders openly expressed hope of carrying the parish for the GOP. Meanwhile, some leaders in the States Rights movement expressed belief they would receive a large number of votes. The Democrats, too, expressed a opinion they would carry the area.

Voting on the 49 amendments for the state constitution is expected to be heavy.

However, opposition to the issue calling for a constitutional convention stepped up its activities during the last few days remaining. Several organizations have openly expressed opposition to the call.

UN Assembly

hours after the resolution was approved.

Pearson made his proposal after a dash back to the U.N. from a meeting of the Canadian Cabinet in Ottawa. He did not give details but such a force could be made up of contingents contributed by members of the U.N. along the lines of the U.N. truce observers now on duty in the Palestine area.

The U.S. proposals ran into immediate Arab criticism as appeasement.

Acting on instructions of President Eisenhower, Lodge put before the emergency General Assembly two resolutions. Each called for creation of separate negotiating committees, one to work out a settlement of the Palestine question and the other the Suez Canal controversy.

The resolutions contained no proposals for immediate action to end the war in Egypt. Lodge told the Assembly they should be considered while efforts went on to stop the fighting.

Hashim Jawad of Iraq assailed the resolutions on the grounds that they presented the form of "appeasement." He demanded that the assembly consider measures under Article 7 of the Charter, the strongest action that can be taken by the U.N. against an offending nation and said:

"Any other procedure is an endeavor to avert the attention of this Assembly from the real problem. Diversion toward other problems is nothing but utter defeatism. While we had hoped that the members of this organization would stand against the defiance of the aggressor we find all the elements of appeasement here."

Omar Loutfi of Egypt, opened the second emergency meeting of the assembly with a declaration that the "armed aggression" of Britain, France and Israel against Egypt is continuing. He said he could not take a stand on the U.S. resolutions because they have political implications that must be studied at home.

The American resolutions were agreed upon after consultations in Washington.

In presenting them, Lodge said the United States regretted the cease-fire resolution approved Friday had not brought an end to the fighting. He said it is clear that the members of the U.N. have not in the past done all that should have been done to settle the problems in accord with the principles of justice and international law.

es of being drunk and disorderly. He was released later, but was readmitted to the jail on his own request when he said a group of white men was following him in cars.

Investigators said the white men flogged him at a deserted lake side spot five miles from Wildwood.

MacArthur Woods, his 71 year-old father, exclaimed, "Oh, good Lord Almighty, I'm happy" when FBI agents told him his son had been found.

Woods' mother known here as "Aunt" Delia, said, "I leaned on the arm of the Lord."

The FBI said conferences would be held with Florida authorities and the U. S. attorney before any further action is taken in the case.

Investigators have arrested two white men on charges of kidnaping Woods. They are George (Georgia Boy) Altman, 25, and Jack L. Sands. Don McLeod, director of the Florida Sheriff's Bureau, said Altman has admitted he was along when Woods was flogged but has denied taking part in the raid on the jail.

Mullis said that since the case began he has received several letters he described as "obscene."

a 30-degree slope for almost a mile. The greatest hazards were gas and the risk of losing their air supply.

"I knew we had to get out or die," Burton said.

"There was no fire where we were—just smoke. But last night we lost our air.

"We punched little holes in the compressed air pipes, plugged our noses, and sucked air."

He said the survivors had nothing to eat after Thursday noon and no water either except dirty mine water sucked from soaked rags.

Robert Ashton, in the rescue crew that found the first survivors, said:

"We met all the men about the same time. They appeared exhausted and talked little on the way out.

"If they had tried to walk out last night, they would never have made it."

Friday, fire in part of the escape route drove even rescue crews from the pit because of danger of a second explosion. The danger existed until the fire area was walled off.

fight with the Russians for possession of the key position of the bridge.

"I stay open and continued with the news . . . We shall inform the world about everything," the teletype operator in Budapest said.

"The Russian tanks came to Budapest through Veeses and Rakoscsabe from across the Danube. They are now in Raloczi Street and Alkotas Street and they are firing at the center of the Home Guards and the Hungarian Defense Ministry.

"We are under a heavy machinegun fire.

"Nagy will speak immediately to the people.

"According to the report of the revolutionary headquarters, more than 1,000 tanks are around Budapest."

The Hungarian army chief of staff said only Saturday that the Soviets had agreed to evacuate the country in "two or three weeks." But cabinet members of a new "more democratic" Hungarian regime formed Saturday morning refused to confirm this.

For the second time Russian soldiers Saturday prevented Americans from leaving the revolt torn country.

Negotiations on troop withdrawal opened at parliament building between a Russian military delegation and Pal Maleter, a rebel hero in last week's fighting at Budapest's Kilian Barracks who was named defense minister in the new regime of 'Titoist" Premier Imre Nagy.

An official announcement said the Russians would not bring in any more troops, whose presence has threatened another blood bath.

Maj. Gen. Stefan Kovacs, chief of staff, said the Russians agreed in a morning meeting to pull out of the entire country, but would need "two or three weeks" to complete the withdrawal.

But cabinet ministers Zultan Tildy, an anti-Communist, and Gesa Losonczy, a Communist, refused to confirm this at a news conference.

However, Losonczy said the talks "led to some results" and there are "encouraging signs."

The situation remained tense Saturday. Tommygun-toting Soviet troops guarding the Austro-Hungarian border turned back for the second time a party of four wives and 10 children from the U.S. legation in Budapest. Their cars flew the American flag and they carried diplomatic passports. United Press Staff Correspondent Anthony J. Cavendish was seized and held by the Russians for an hour outside Budapest Saturday morning. He reported they seemed to be preparing to pull out.

Sources said the Russian troop movements may be a screen to shield the withdrawal.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 3 (UP)—Hungary told the United Nations Security Council Saturday that Russia has agreed to stop sending troops into Hungary pending the outcome of talks Saturday night between the two countries.

To permit the countries to conduct their talks undisturbed by outside pressure the council adjourned until 9:30 a.m., CST Monday, without taking action on an American resolution aimed at Russia.

The U.S. measure, presented at the start of Saturday's meeting by US Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., calls on Russia to "desist forthwith from any form of intervention, particularly armed intervention, in the affairs of Hungary."

It asks that Russia in arrangements to be worked out with Hungary, "withdraw all Soviet forces from Hungary without delay."

It "affirms the right of the Hungarian people to a government responsible to its national aspiration and dedicated to its independence and well-being."

The U.S. further wants UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to explore Hungary's need for food, medicine and other supplies. The resolution asks members and national and international humanitarian organizations to make such supplies available to the Hungarians.

Lodge said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had advised the General Assembly Thursday night that "we should not allow our preoccupation with the Middle East to keep us from observing with equal intensity what is going on in Europe."

Grayson Youth Hurt In Wreck

A 19-year-old Grayson youth, who suffered a broken left arm, was the only injured party in a two-car collision yesterday afternoon in which six persons were involved.

Treated at the Conway Memorial Hospital was Clark Franklin, driver of one of the autos in the accident that occured on highway 15 near Columbia.

Driver of the other auto was Mrs. John Fisher of Clarks. Mrs. Fisher's mother-in-law—Mrs. Fisher, also of Clarks—was shaken up considerably, but was not injured. The driver's two-year-old daughter also escaped uninjured.

Franklin, who was accompanied by his mother and a friend, was traveling south. the Caldwell parish Sheriff's Department said they believed he crossed the yellow line.

Traveling with him were Mrs. Freda Franklin and Cleve Luther, both of Grayson. He was treated in Columbia and later brought to the Conway here.

President Eisenhower last June 9 to relieve a blockage of the President's small intestine caused by ileitis.

Working with Heaton were Col. Robert Gants and Col. Max Smith, who also were on the Eisenhower operating team, and Dr. John H. Lyon, a civilian surgeon.

Dulles was assigned the same third-floor suite in which Eisenhower stayed while he was recuperating. White said Dulles would remain in the hospital for about three weeks and would stay away from his desk for another three weeks of recuperation.

Hoover, 53, son of the former President, has himself had to handle a number of ticklish diplomatic crisis while Dulles was off on one of his many flying visits to foreign countries.

It was Hoover who took over today a scheduled Dulles appointment with President Eisenhower to discuss the world situation. Hoover later went to the hospital.

Also at the secretary's bedside were Mrs. Dulles and his brother, Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Negro Sought For Attack On Youth

City Police were searching last night for an unidentified Negro man who allegedly attacked a white male juvenile yesterday at 1:25 p.m. and threatened to carry the youth to his home.

According to Chief James C. Kelly, the youth was walking beneath the Louisville traffic bridge when a Negro grabbed him by the throat from behind.

The youth, however, escaped when he promised the Negro that he would go to the attacker's home provided he turn him loose. The Negro agreed and the youth fled.

Kelly said the youth reported that the Negro told him he was going to take him to a house "somewhere on the river." The two had started from beneath the bridge when the juvenile broke and ran.

He stopped a white man and told his story and the incident was reported to the Police.

They said he is even talking about plans for his second inauguration.

There is active speculation in White House circles over possible cabinet changes in a new Eisenhower administration.

The President is said to plan no wholesale cleanout of the cabinet officers who have been under heavy fire from the Democrats this year—Dulles, Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, and Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson.

Symphony To Perform Here On November 18th

The New Orleans Symphony, which will be heard in concert at Northeast State on Sunday, November 18 at 3 p.m., scored a tremendous success last spring in its one-month concert tour of Latin America.

Alexander Hilsberg, conductor of the orchestra, was decorated by the governments of several Central American countries for excellent performances.

Persons throughout this area who are expected to hear the New Orleans Symphony may obtain tickets at Hewitt Music Company, Dew Music Company, or the Fine Arts Department of the college.

Maestro Hilsberg came to the Deep South from the east coast, where for more than twenty years he lived in Philadelphia and was concert master, and later associate conductor of the famed Philadelphia Orchestra.

A native of Warsaw, Poland, Hilsberg entered the Petrograd Conservatory at the age of ten to study violin with the eminent Leopold Auer.

Hilsberg moved on to St. Petersburg for completion of his studies and in 1925 left St. Petersburg for the Orient where he lived for some months. It was in Harbin, Manchuria that he heard recordings of an American orchestra—the Philadelphia Orchestra and he decided he wanted to play in that orchestra if he ever went to America.

In 1926 he married and shortly thereafter left for the United States. Although he landed in New York, he left almost immediately for Philadelphia where he hoped to become a member of the string section of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Hilsberg did stop off long enough in New York to audition for Serge Koussevitzky, late conductor of the Boston Orchestra, who offered him a job as the orchestra's concertmaster. Hilsberg's heart and mind was set on Philadelphia, however, so he went down to Philadelphia and after his audition was offered a seat in the violin section — the last seat.

This was what he wanted. He soon moved up, until in less than three years, he became the brilliant young first desk violinist of the Philadelphia Orchestra. He became concertmaster in 1931 and in 1945 was named associate conductor.

In 1949 when Conductor Eugene Ormandy became ill before a Carnegie Hall concert, Hilsberg substituted. After the concert he was cheered by the audience and hailed by New York critics.

Before coming to New Orleans he guest-conducted the Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Minneapolis and NBC Orchestras.

He still conducts at the popular Robin Hood Dell concerts in Philadelphia during the summer and four times a year he flies to Philadelphia to lead the Reading Orchestra—a group he has been associated with for twenty years.

W. Monroe Youths Injured In Wreck

Two West Monroe boys were injured last night in an automobile collision ten miles south of Monroe on the Winnsboro Road. They were identified as Roy Dale Eppinette, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Eppinette, 1120 Wood street, West Monroe and Steve Powell, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Powell, 1106 Wood street.

Both boys suffered head injuries and were being X-rayed late last night at St. Francis Hospital where they were taken by a Mulhearn Ambulance. More specifically, Eppinette was reported suffering injuries of the head, arms and legs.

Powell's head injury included a severe laceration of the scalp.

An ambulance returning the two boys to Monroe was held up for severel minutes at the South Second street crossing by a freight train.

Details of the wreck were not available late last night. The boys were reported southbound and were believed to have collided with another vehicle.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be held the fourth Saturday in January. However, a special meeting may be called at anytime by the new officers.

A "work meeting" will be held Thursday night when the members participating will wear work clothes to the museum room at the college where they will work on display cases.

The state meeting will be held next Saturday in Alexandria at the Rapides parish court house where the delegates will meet at 2 p.m. Several members from northeast Louisiana are expected to attend the affair.

flag has not of late years received the attention that it deserves.

This has caused the Legion post here to go all out for the flag and its display especially on Veteran's Day, November 11.

Many do not own flags. This has caused the Faulk post to send and get a supply which are on hand and are three by five feet when unfurled. They can be bought of members of the American Legion post. It is urged that all merchants display their flags on Veterans' day, thus indicating their love for country and what it means to all loyal American.s.

The first convention that has come to Monroe since the incoming in office of Mayor "Jack" Howard will be that of the Louisiana Recreation association which meets here this week. While not such a large group is expected, it is one of importance.

Meetings will be in Hotel Frances on Wednesday and Thursday. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Howar and James Harbuck, chairman of the Monroe association.

A very fine and highly appreciated honor has come to King Stubbs, Jr., who has been chosen as "Student of the Month" at Neville High School. Each month, from now on, there will be a student whose excellence in an all-round manner will seem to qualify for the honor.

We are sure that King deserves the recognition from both athletics and scholarship as well as for a gracious manner that makes many friends wherever he goes.

Saturday there was music in the air at Northeast State when High School Band day, planned by Joe B. Mullins, of the music faculty of the college, was observed.

Preceding the ball game at night the high school guests attended a special concert by North east State band. This program was given in the Brown auditorium at 5:30 p.m.

Bands that participated in the day's events were those from the following high schools: Ouachita parish, West Monroe, Rayville, Delhi, Lake Providence, Gibsland Winnsboro and Farmerville.

The Neville Glee club has for the first time in years added male members to the group. Now there are 15 boys and 45 girls, and the new plan will greatly aid to the interest and to the excellence of the group.

Officers elected are: Mary Elizabeth Webster, president; Terry Reeves, vice - president; Nickey Yerger, secretary - treasurer. Penny Prophit and Martha Riser are accompanists.

nation in a TV address that Britain and France had acted to prevent a greater conflict in the Middle East.

He said he would make certain Israeli troops quit Egypt when British and French forces take over positions in the Suez Canal.

Eden said he was confident the United States would come to agree that Britain and France had acted best to prevent the entire Middle East becoming inflamed.

The British Cabinet was called into urgent session after Eden spoke. The meeting ended early Sunday without any announcement of why it was called.

Eden was supported by Sir Winston Churchill, who earlier said:

"I am confident that our American friends will come to realize that, not for the first time, we have acted independently for the common good."

At U. N. headquarters in New York, the United States asked the 76-nation General Assembly to name two negotiating committees to:

1. Establish permanent peace between Israel and the Arab countries and

2. Work out permanent arrangements for operation of the Suez Canal.

The United States proposed no concrete steps to halt the fighting now.

British-French headquarters on Cyprus claimed virtual destruction of the Egyptian air force.

The French Defense Ministry in Paris said allied planes are conducting a tactical phase preceding troop landings in Egypt by smashing highways, railroads and other communications.

Arab retaliation so far appeared to be blocking of the Suez Canal and cutting the Iraq Petroleum Co. pipeline in Syria.

An Egyptian announcement—broadcast by Damascus radio—said a landing attempt at the southern end of the canal had been foiled by coast artillery that sank a British troop carrier and another vessel.

There was no confirmation from British-French headquarters and a British Admiralty spokesman said:

"There is no information in London to support the Egyptian claim of sinking British naval vessels and landing craft."

Iraq Petroleum Co. employes in Syria reported the flow of oil from Iraq to the Mediterranean coast had been stopped with the blasting in three places of a pipeline in northern Syria. The company is owned by British and American interests and the French government.

The French declared the Suez Canal, through which half the oil for Britain and France comes, had been blocked by Egyptian action in sinking ships. The Egyptians charged the French and British blocked the canal by bombing ships in it.

The Arabs bulwarked their strength on the eastern borders of Israel. The Israelis, victorous in the battle for Sinai and the Gaza Strip, kept a careful watch in the direction of Jordan.

Iraq announced its troops had entered Jordan. Syrian troops were reported also pouring into the desert country of King Hussein, posing the threat of two-front war for Israel. Each side appeared ready for an attack which would widen the scope of the Middle Eastern war.

Reports from Beirut said the zero hour appeared approaching on the Israeli - Jordan frontier. Convoys of white ambulances were seen forming in the Israeli section of Jerusalem. Jordanian leaders in the Arab sector of the city said an Israeli attack was imminent.

Blackouts were ordered in Jordan.

Prime Minister Eden announced to an emergency session of the House of Commons that Britain and France would not comply with the request from 64 members of the specially called U. N. General Assembly to end the attack on Egypt.

"There must be a continuation of the action," he declared.

Britain and France said the action could be stopped only if both Egypt and Israel agreed to establishment of a U. N force to keep the peace. They asked additionally that such a force be maintained until an Arab-Israeli peace settlement is reached and satisfactory arrangements made for the Suez Canal. Until this is done,

Northwestern Nebraska and the Black Hills of South Dakota were hardest hit of the blizzard-swept area of western Nebraska, western Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The South Dakota Highway Department reported 40 inches of snow in the Black Hills. At Harrison, a northwest Nebraska town of 492 persons, there was 20 inches of snow. Drifts were 12 feet high.

fields. The company, in turn, is owned by British, American and international oil interests and the French government.

The Iraq fields last year produced a fifth of all Middle Eastern oil. The pipeline running from the landlocked Iraq fields near Kirkuk to Banias in Syria on the Mediterranean coast carried most of it to market.

Bids To Be Let Soon On College Expansion Work

Appropriations totaling $130.000 will go toward financing an addition to the Northeast State Student Center Building, construction of a post office, and purchase of cafeteria equipment, President Lewis C. Slater announced.

An additional project will be the construction of an infirmary at a cost of between $50,000 and $60,000. The sum does not include furnishings.

The State Board of Education has granted $100,000 for additions and improvements to the Student Center Building, including a 97 by 36-foot recreation room with terrazo tile flooring, and complete remodeling of the building, President Slater said.

Bids on the project will be let shortly, and construction will begin immediately after the contract has been awarded. The job is expected to be completed in the late spring of 1957.

Included in the improvement program are air-conditioning throughout the building and the installation of an improved lighting system. The recreation room, to be used for dances, banquets, and other social affairs, will be added to the rear of the social room. A large old-fashioned fireplace will be one of the features of the newly-decorated room.

Equipment for the cafeteria, for which $20,000 has been appropriated, will include such items as stoves, dish washers, and refrigerators.

The infirmary will be erected north of the women's dormitory, now under construction. It will face the street which fronts the two women's dormitories, and to the rear is Bayou DeSiard, which skirts the campus. The infirmary is scheduled to be ready for use ot the opening of the summer session.

Completion of the second women's dormitory is set for the close of the first semester so that students may be housed in it by the beginning of the spring term.

The end of the first semester also will see the completion of the Agriculture and Home Economics Building which faces DeSiard street.

These additional buildings and improvements are part of the million dollar expansion program at Northeast State which began last year.

Oklahoma

Wrecks scored and made the single touchdown stand up for a 7-0 victory over Duke, a team that has been improving every week.

Tennessee, the third member of the big three, recorded a routine 20-0 triumph over North Carolina. Thus the stage is set for next week's game between Georgia Tech and Tennessee. On the result probably will hinge the championship of the powerful southeastern conference and various bowl bids.

Michigan, its own hopes of winning the big ten title practically nil, edged Iowa, the leader, 17-14. The result left Minnesota the favorite to win the championship and make the cross-country hop to the Rose Bowl.

Iowa and the Gophers have a date next Saturday. Minnesota warmed up to the task by edging Pitt, 9-6, in a non-league game.

Illinois, which knocked Michigan State off last week, could do no better than a tie with Purdue, 7-7. Abe Woodson, the hero of the big upset, saved the Illini from possible defeat by recovering a Purdue fumble in the end zone.

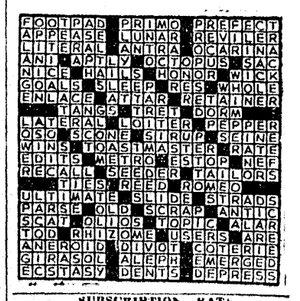

Michigan State, for its part, took it's full fury out on hapless Wisconsin, blasting the Badgers, 33-0.

Syracuse pasted Penn State, 13-9, in the big game in the East. That about wraps up a bowl bid for Syracuse and also gives the Orange a solid claim to Eastern honors, especially in the light of Pitt's defeat by Minnesota.

Also in the east, Princeton and Yale continued to pace the Ivy League. Princeton, the only undefeated team in the area, dropped Brown 21-7, while Yale shut out Dartmouth, 19-0. The league title probably will be decided when the pair meet in two weeks.

West Virginia, which is getting to be the Oklahoma of the Southern Conference, polished off George Washington 14-0, for its 19th straight league victory. With it, the mountaineers virtually clinched their fourth straight league championship.

Texas Christian kept alive its hopes of winning the Southwest Conference crown with a 7-6 decision over Baylor, while Wyoming practically clinched the skyline title by turning back Utah State, 21-0.

Absentee Votes In Parish Set At 290 Saturday

With the closing of absentee balloting Saturday noon, R. Dean Farr, Ouachita parish clerk of court, late yesterday announced that a total of 290 persons voted for the Nov. 6 general election. Of this number 93 votes were cast during the half-day period Saturday.

The absentee ballots will be sent to the various precincts to be opened and tabulated following the closing of the polls Tuesday evening.

Meanwhile, Farr said, all preparations have been made for the transporting of the voting machines to the 50 precincts in Ouachita parish. The voting, which will include the largest ballot to date, is expected to run heavy in the parish. Operations will begin Monday morning for moving the machines to the various polling places.

Political activity in the parish subsided somewhat Saturday morning, following an intensive campaign by the three political groups, Democrats, Republican and States Righters, throughout the area. Republican leaders openly expressed hope of carrying the parish for the GOP. Meanwhile, some leaders in the States Rights movement expressed belief they would receive a large number of votes. The Democrats, too, expressed a opinion they would carry the area.

Voting on the 49 amendments for the state constitution is expected to be heavy.

However, opposition to the issue calling for a constitutional convention stepped up its activities during the last few days remaining. Several organizations have openly expressed opposition to the call.

UN Assembly

hours after the resolution was approved.

Pearson made his proposal after a dash back to the U.N. from a meeting of the Canadian Cabinet in Ottawa. He did not give details but such a force could be made up of contingents contributed by members of the U.N. along the lines of the U.N. truce observers now on duty in the Palestine area.

The U.S. proposals ran into immediate Arab criticism as appeasement.

Acting on instructions of President Eisenhower, Lodge put before the emergency General Assembly two resolutions. Each called for creation of separate negotiating committees, one to work out a settlement of the Palestine question and the other the Suez Canal controversy.

The resolutions contained no proposals for immediate action to end the war in Egypt. Lodge told the Assembly they should be considered while efforts went on to stop the fighting.

Hashim Jawad of Iraq assailed the resolutions on the grounds that they presented the form of "appeasement." He demanded that the assembly consider measures under Article 7 of the Charter, the strongest action that can be taken by the U.N. against an offending nation and said:

"Any other procedure is an endeavor to avert the attention of this Assembly from the real problem. Diversion toward other problems is nothing but utter defeatism. While we had hoped that the members of this organization would stand against the defiance of the aggressor we find all the elements of appeasement here."

Omar Loutfi of Egypt, opened the second emergency meeting of the assembly with a declaration that the "armed aggression" of Britain, France and Israel against Egypt is continuing. He said he could not take a stand on the U.S. resolutions because they have political implications that must be studied at home.

The American resolutions were agreed upon after consultations in Washington.

In presenting them, Lodge said the United States regretted the cease-fire resolution approved Friday had not brought an end to the fighting. He said it is clear that the members of the U.N. have not in the past done all that should have been done to settle the problems in accord with the principles of justice and international law.

es of being drunk and disorderly. He was released later, but was readmitted to the jail on his own request when he said a group of white men was following him in cars.

Investigators said the white men flogged him at a deserted lake side spot five miles from Wildwood.

MacArthur Woods, his 71 year-old father, exclaimed, "Oh, good Lord Almighty, I'm happy" when FBI agents told him his son had been found.

Woods' mother known here as "Aunt" Delia, said, "I leaned on the arm of the Lord."

The FBI said conferences would be held with Florida authorities and the U. S. attorney before any further action is taken in the case.

Investigators have arrested two white men on charges of kidnaping Woods. They are George (Georgia Boy) Altman, 25, and Jack L. Sands. Don McLeod, director of the Florida Sheriff's Bureau, said Altman has admitted he was along when Woods was flogged but has denied taking part in the raid on the jail.

Mullis said that since the case began he has received several letters he described as "obscene."

"I knew we had to get out or die," Burton said.

"There was no fire where we were—just smoke. But last night we lost our air.

"We punched little holes in the compressed air pipes, plugged our noses, and sucked air."

He said the survivors had nothing to eat after Thursday noon and no water either except dirty mine water sucked from soaked rags.

Robert Ashton, in the rescue crew that found the first survivors, said:

"We met all the men about the same time. They appeared exhausted and talked little on the way out.

"If they had tried to walk out last night, they would never have made it."

fight with the Russians for possession of the key position of the bridge.

"I stay open and continued with the news . . . We shall inform the world about everything," the teletype operator in Budapest said.

"The Russian tanks came to Budapest through Vecses and Rakoscsabe from across the Danube. They are now in Raloczi Street and Alkotas Street and they are firing at the center of the Home Guards and the Hungarian Defense Ministry.

"We are under a heavy machinegun fire.

"Nagy will speak immediately to the people.

"According to the report of the revolutionary headquarters, more than 1,000 tanks are around Budapest."

The Hungarian army chief of staff said only Saturday that the Soviets had agreed to evacuate the country in "two or three weeks." But cabinet members of a new "more democratic" Hungarian regime formed Saturday morning refused to confirm this.

For the second time Russian soldiers Saturday prevented Americans from leaving the revolt torn country.

Negotiations on troop withdrawal opened at parliament building between a Russian military delegation and Pal Maleter, a rebel hero in last week's fighting at Budapest's Kilian Barracks who was named defense minister in the new regime of "Titoist" Premier Imre Nagy.

An official announcement said the Russians would not bring in any more troops, whose presence has threatened another blood bath.

Maj. Gen. Stefan Kovacs, chief of staff, said the Russians agreed in a morning meeting to pull out of the entire country, but would need "two or three weeks" to complete the withdrawal.

But cabinet ministers Zultan Tildy, an anti-Communist, and Gesa Losonczy, a Communist, refused to confirm this at a news conference.

However, Losonczy said the talks "led to some results" and there are "encouraging signs."

The situation remained tense Saturday. Tommygun-toting Soviet troops guarding the Austro-Hungarian border turned back for the second time a party of four wives and 10 children from the U.S. legation in Budapest. Their cars flew the American flag and they carried diplomatic passports. United Press Staff Correspondent Anthony J. Cavendish was seized and held by the Russians for an hour outside Budapest Saturday morning. He reported they seemed to be preparing to pull out.

Sources said the Russian troop movements may be a screen to shield the withdrawal.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 3 (UP)—Hungary told the United Nations Security Council Saturday that Russia has agreed to stop sending troops into Hungary pending the outcome of talks Saturday night between the two countries.

To permit the countries to conduct their talks undisturbed by outside pressure the council adjourned until 9:30 a.m., CST Monday, without taking action on an American resolution aimed at Russia.

The U.S. measure, presented at the start of Saturday's meeting by US Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., calls on Russia to "desist forthwith from any form of intervention, particularly armed intervention, in the affairs of Hungary."

It asks that Russia in arrangements to be worked out with Hungary, "withdraw all Soviet forces from Hungary without delay."

It "affirms the right of the Hungarian people to a government responsible to its national aspiration and dedicated to its independence and well-being."

The U.S. further wants UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to explore Hungary's need for food, medicine and other supplies. The resolution asks members and national and international humanitarian organizations to make such supplies available to the Hungarians.

Lodge said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had advised the General Assembly Thursday night that "we should not allow our preoccupation with the Middle East to keep us from observing with equal intensity what is going on in Europe."

Grayson Youth Hurt In Wreck

A 19-year-old Grayson youth, who suffered a broken left arm, was the only injured party in a two-car collision yesterday afternoon in which six persons were involved.

Treated at the Conway Memorial Hospital was Clark Franklin, driver of one of the autos in the accident that occured on highway 15 near Columbia.

Driver of the other auto was Mrs. John Fisher of Clarks. Mrs. Fisher's mother-in-law—Mrs. Fisher, also of Clarks—was shaken up considerably, but was not injured. The driver's two-year-old daughter also escaped uninjured.

Franklin, who was accompanied by his mother and a friend, was traveling south. the Caldwell parish Sheriff's Department said they believed he crossed the yellow line.

Traveling with him were Mrs. Freda Franklin and Cleve Luther, both of Grayson. He was treated in Columbia and later brought to the Conway here.

Working with Heaton were Col. Robert Gants and Col. Max Smith, who also were on the Eisenhower operating team, and Dr. John H. Lyon, a civilian surgeon.

Dulles was assigned the same third-floor suite in which Eisenhower stayed while he was recuperating. White said Dulles would remain in the hospital for about three weeks and would stay away from his desk for another three weeks of recuperation.

Hoover, 53, son of the former President, has himself had to handle a number of ticklish diplomatic crisis while Dulles was off on one of his many flying visits to foreign countries.

It was Hoover who took over today a scheduled Dulles appointment with President Eisenhower to discuss the world situation. Hoover later went to the hospital.

Also at the secretary's bedside were Mrs. Dulles and his brother, Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Negro Sought For Attack On Youth

City Police were searching last night for an unidentified Negro man who allegedly attacked a white male juvenile yesterday at 1:25 p.m. and threatened to carry the youth to his home.

According to Chief James C. Kelly, the youth was walking beneath the Louisville traffic bridge when a Negro grabbed him by the throat from behind.

The youth, however, escaped when he promised the Negro that he would go to the attacker's home provided he turn him loose. The Negro agreed and the youth fled.

Kelly said the youth reported that the Negro told him he was going to take him to a house "somewhere on the river." The two had started from beneath the bridge when the juvenile broke and ran.

He stopped a white man and told his story and the incident was reported to the Police.

They said he is even talking about plans for his second inauguration.

There is active speculation in White House circles over possible cabinet changes in a new Eisenhower administration.

Symphony To Perform Here On November 18th

The New Orleans Symphony, which will be heard in concert at Northeast State on Sunday, November 18 at 3 p.m., scored a tremendous success last spring in its one-month concert tour of Latin America.

Alexander Hilsberg, conductor of the orchestra, was decorated by the governments of several Central American countries for excellent performances.

Persons throughout this area who are expected to hear the New Orleans Symphony may obtain tickets at Hewitt Music Company, Dew Music Company, or the Fine Arts Department of the college.

Maestro Hilsberg came to the Deep South from the east coast, where for more than twenty years he lived in Philadelphia and was concert master, and later associate conductor of the famed Philadelphia Orchestra.

A native of Warsaw, Poland, Hilsberg entered the Petrograd Conservatory at the age of ten to study violin with the eminent Leopold Auer.

Hilsberg moved on to St. Petersburg for completion of his studies and in 1925 left St. Petersburg for the Orient where he lived for some months. It was in Harbin, Manchuria that he heard recordings of an American orchestra—the Philadelphia Orchestra and he decided he wanted to play in that orchestra if he ever went to America.

In 1926 he married and shortly thereafter left for the United States. Although he landed in New York, he left almost immediately for Philadelphia where he hoped to become a member of the string section of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Hilsberg did stop off long enough in New York to audition for Serge Koussevitzky, late conductor of the Boston Orchestra, who offered him a job as the orchestra's concertmaster. Hilsberg's heart and mind was set on Philadelphia, however, so he went down to Philadelphia and after his audition was offered a seat in the violin section — the last seat.

This was what he wanted. He soon moved up, until in less than three years, he became the brilliant young first desk violinist of the Philadelphia Orchestra. He became concertmaster in 1931 and in 1945 was named associate conductor.

In 1949 when Conductor Eugene Ormandy became ill before a Carnegie Hall concert, Hilsberg substituted. After the concert he was cheered by the audience and hailed by New York critics.

Before coming to New Orleans he guest-conducted the Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Minneapolis and NBC Orchestras.

He still conducts at the popular Robin Hood Dell concerts in Philadelphia during the summer and four times a year he flies to Philadelphia to lead the Reading Orchestra—a group he has been associated with for twenty years.

W. Monroe Youths Injured In Wreck

Two West Monroe boys were injured last night in an automobile collision ten miles south of Monroe on the Winnsboro Road. They were identified as Roy Dale Eppinette, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Eppinette, 1120 Wood street, West Monroe and Steve Powell, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Powell, 1106 Wood street.

Both boys suffered head injuries and were being X-rayed late last night at St. Francis Hospital where they were taken by a Mulhearn Ambulance. More specifically, Eppinette was reported suffering injuries of the head, arms and legs.

Powell's head injury included a severe laceration of the scalp.

An ambulance returning the two boys to Monroe was held up for severel minutes at the South Second street crossing by a freight train.

Details of the wreck were not available late last night. The boys were reported southbound and were believed to have collided with another vehicle.

Mrs. Leckie Heads Genealogical, Historical Society

Mrs. Addie Leckie was elected president of the Ouachita Genealogical and Historical Society at a meeting yesterday at Northeast State College. She replaces Mrs. Travis T. Tynes who served as the organization's first president after it was established here last May.

Other officers elected yesterday are: Mrs. Aline Banister, vice - president; Mrs. Lena Wallace, secretary; Fred Colver, treasurer, and Mrs. Judy Caraway and Mrs. R. N. Milling, trustees; Mrs. Mae Modes; was appointed by new president as a trustee.

In other business it was decided that the group will hold all future meetings at the college.

After an examination of the new quarters the membership viewed the organization's first museum display. Several articles are already on display and others are being secured from time to time.

The next regular meeting of the organization will be held the fourth Saturday in January. However, a special meeting may be called at anytime by the new officers.

A "work meeting" will be held Thursday night when the members participating will wear work clothes to the museum room at the college where they will work on display cases.

The state meeting will be held next Saturday in Alexandria at the Rapides parish court house where the delegates will meet at 2 p.m. Several members from northeast Louisiana are expected to attend the affair.

The membership drive of the organization is now underway. Persons interested in joining the Society may do so by sending $3 to Fred Colver, Box 573, Monroe.

flag has not of late years received the attention that it deserves.

This has caused the Legion post here to go all out for the flag and its display especially on Veteran's Day, November 11.

Many do not own flags. This has caused the Faulk post to send and get a supply which are on hand and are three by five feet when unfurled. They can be bought of members of the American Legion post. It is urged that all merchants display their flags on Veterans' day, thus indicating their love for country and what it means to all loyal Americans.

The first convention that has come to Monroe since the incoming in office of Mayor "Jack" Howard will be that of the Louisiana Recreation association which meets here this week. While not such a large group is expected, it is one of importance.

Meetings will be in Hotel Frances on Wednesday and Thursday. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Howar and James Harbuck, chairman of the Monroe association.

A very fine and highly appreciated honor has come to King Stubbs, Jr., who has been chosen as "Student of the Month" at Neville High School. Each month, from now on, there will be a student whose excellence in an all-round manner will seem to qualify for the honor.

We are sure that King deserves the recognition from both athletics and scholarship as well as for a gracious manner that makes many friends wherever he goes.

Saturday there was music in the air at Northeast State when High School Band day, planned by Joe B. Mullins, of the music faculty of the college, was observed.

Preceding the ball game at night the high school guests attended a special concert by North east State band. This program was given in the Brown auditorium at 5:30 p.m.

Bands that participated in the day's events were those from the following high schools: Ouachita parish, West Monroe, Rayville, Delhi, Lake Providence, Gibsland Winnsboro and Farmerville.

The Neville Glee club has for the first time in years added male members to the group. Now there are 15 boys and 45 girls, and the new plan will greatly aid to the interest and to the excellence of the group.

Officers elected are: Mary Elizabeth Webster, president; Terry Reeves, vice - president; Nickey Yerger, secretary - treasurer. Penny Prophit and Martha Riser are accompanists.

"I am confident that our American friends will come to realize that, not for the first time, we have acted independently for the common good."

At U. N. headquarters in New York, the United States asked the 76-nation General Assembly to name two negotiating committees to:

1. Establish permanent peace between Israel and the Arab countries and

2. Work out permanent arrangements for operation of the Suez Canal.

The United States proposed no concrete steps to halt the fighting now.

British-French headquarters on Cyprus claimed virtual destruction of the Egyptian air force.

The French Defense Ministry in Paris said allied planes are conducting a tactical phase preceding troop landings in Egypt by smashing highways, railroads and other communications.

Arab retaliation so far appeared to be blocking of the Suez Canal and cutting the Iraq Petroleum Co. pipeline in Syria.

An Egyptian announcement—broadcast by Damascus radio—said a landing attempt at the southern end of the canal had been foiled by coast artillery that sank a British troop carrier and another vessel.

There was no confirmation from British headquarters and a British Admiralty spokesman said:

"There is no information in London to support the Egyptian claim of sinking British naval vessels and landing craft."

Iraq Petroleum Co. employes in Syria reported the flow of oil from Iraq to the Mediterranean coast had been stopped with the blasting in three places of a pipeline in northern Syria. The company is owned by British and American interests and the French government.

The French declared the Suez Canal, through which half the oil for Britain and France comes, had been blocked by Egyptian action in sinking ships. The Egyptians charged the French and British blocked the canal by bombing ships in it.

The Arabs bulwarked their strength on the eastern borders of Israel. The Israelis, victorous in the battle for Sinai and the Gaza Strip, kept a careful watch in the direction of Jordan.

Iraq announced its troops had entered Jordan. Syrian troops were reported also pouring into the desert country of King Hussein, posing the threat of two-front war for Israel. Each side appeared ready for an attack which would widen the scope of the Middle Eastern war.

Reports from Beirut said the zero hour appeared approaching on the Israeli - Jordan frontier. Convoys of white ambulances were seen forming in the Israeli section of Jerusalem. Jordanian leaders in the Arab sector of the city said an Israeli attack was imminent.

Blackouts were ordered in Jordan.

Prime Minister Eden announced to an emergency session of the House of Commons that Britain and France would not comply with the request from 64 members of the specially called U. N. General Assembly to end the attack on Egypt.

"There must be a continuation of the action," he declared.

Britain and France said the action could be stopped only if both Egypt and Israel agreed to establishment of a U. N force to keep the peace. They asked additionally that such a force be maintained until an Arab-Israeli peace settlement is reached and satisfactory arrangements made for the Suez Canal. Until this is done.

state patrols reported all motorists accounted for at farm home or wayside stops.

Northwestern Nebraska and the Black Hills of South Dakota were hardest hit of the blizzard-swept area of western Nebraska, western Kansas, Wyoming, Colorado, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The South Dakota Highway Department reported 40 inches of snow in the Black Hills. At Harrison, a northwest Nebraska town of 492 persons, there was 20 inches of snow. Drifts were 12 feet high.

fields. The company, in turn, is owned by British, American and international oil interests and the French government.

The Iraq fields last year produced a fifth of all Middle Eastern oil. The pipeline running from the landlocked Iraq fields near Kirkuk to Banias in Syria on the Mediterranean coast carried most of it to market.

Bids To Be Let Soon On College Expansion Work

Appropriations totaling $130,000 will go toward financing an addition to the Northeast State Student Center Building, construction of a post office, and purchase of cafeteria equipment, President Lewis C. Slater announced.

An additional project will be the construction of an infirmary at a cost of between $50,000 and $60,000. The sum does not include furnishings.

The State Board of Education has granted $100,000 for additions and improvements to the Student Center Building, including a 97 by 36-foot recreation room with terrazo tile flooring, and complete remodeling of the building, President Slater said.

Bids on the project will be let shortly, and construction will begin immediately after the contract has been awarded. The job is expected to be completed in the late spring of 1957.

Included in the improvement program are air-conditioning throughout the building and the installation of an improved lighting system. The recreation room, to be used for dances, banquets, and other social affairs, will be added to the rear of the social room. A large old-fashioned fireplace will be one of the features of the newly-decorated room.

Equipment for the cafeteria, for which $20,000 has been appropriated, will include such items as stoves, dish washers, and refrigerators.

The infirmary will be erected north of the women's dormitory, now under construction. It will face the street which fronts the two women's dormitories, and to the rear is Bayou DeSiard, which skirts the campus. The infirmary is scheduled to be ready for use ot the opening of the summer session.

Completion of the second women's dormitory is set for the close of the first semester so that students may be housed in it by the beginning of the spring term.

The end of the first semester also will see the completion of the Agriculture and Home Economics Building which faces DeSiard street.

Wrecks scored and made the single touchdown stand up for a 7-0 victory over Duke, a team that has been improving every week.

Tennessee, the third member of the big three, recorded a routine 20-0 triumph over North Carolina. Thus the stage is set for next week's game between Georgia Tech and Tennessee. On the result probably will hinge the championship of the powerful southeastern conference and various bowl bids.

Michigan, its own hopes of winning the big ten title practically nil, edged Iowa, the leader, 17-14. The result left Minnesota the favorite to win the championship and make the cross-country hop to the Rose Bowl.

Iowa and the Gophers have a date next Saturday. Minnesota warmed up to the task by edging Pitt, 9-6, in a non-league game.

Illinois, which knocked Michigan State off last week, could do no better than a tie with Purdue, 7-7. Abe Woodson, the hero of the big upset, saved the Illini from possible defeat by recovering a Purdue fumble in the end zone.

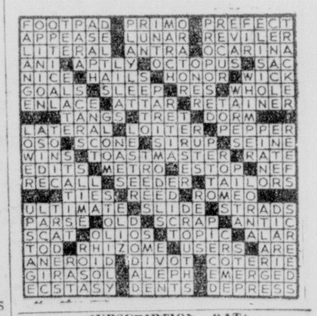

Michigan State, for its part, took it's full fury out on hapless Wisconsin, blasting the Badgers, 33-0.

Syracuse pasted Penn State, 13-9, in the big game in the East. That about wraps up a bowl bid for Syracuse and also gives the Orange a solid claim to Eastern honors, especially in the light of Pitt's defeat by Minnesota.

Also in the east, Princeton and Yale continued to pace the Ivy League. Princeton, the only undefeated team in the area, dropped Brown 21-7, while Yale shut out Dartmouth, 19-0. The league title probably will be decided when the pair meet in two weeks.

West Virginia, which is getting to be the Oklahoma of the Southern Conference, polished off George Washington 14-0, for its 19th straight league victory. With it, the mountaineers virtually clinched their fourth straight league championship.

Texas Christian kept alive its hopes of winning the Southwest Conference crown with a 7-6 decision over Baylor, while Wyoming practically clinched the skyline title by turning back Utah State, 21-0.

Foreign Policy Tops Arguments In Campaign Now

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3 (UP)—This presidential campaign began with its outcome seeming to depend very much on the farm issue. It is ending with American foreign policy on the hot spot.

This probably is a good break for President Eisenhower. Mr. Eisenhower is more at ease in discussing and in disposing of foreign policy matters than in the area of farm ecomomics.

Moreover, as the news has directed public attention away from domestic matters and toward foreign affairs, so it has concentrated public attention more on Mr. Eisenhower and away from the party which he leads. Democratic strategy as been a double - barrelled thing.

Adlai E. Stevenson and his supporters sought, first, to cut Mr. Eisenhower down to size, to tip him off a war hero's pedestal. The second Democratic objective was to link Mr. Eisenhower securely to and with the Republican Party. This latter was relatively easy in connection with most campaign issues.

Foreign policy, however, is a peculiarly personal field. It is not the State Department or the Senate which makes U.S. foreign policy. The President makes it. Republican and Democratic presidents alike seek and sometimes get bipartisan support for their foreign policies.

The blind staggers now afflicting the North Atlantic Alliance, which has been the basis of U.S. foreign policy, cannot be directly charged to the Republican Party. It was Mr. Eisenhower's responsibility to protect the alliance and himself in the field of foreign affairs to the best of his ability. The policies were his, although he actually inherited them from the Truman administration.

Mr. Eisenhower has been seeking reelection on a peace and prosperity record. World peace has been savagely shattered. The recent events in the Middle East suddenly have cast Mr. Eisenhower in the role of world peacemaker. That's not a bad election-eve role for any candidate.

New U.S. Policy

More bad news from the Middle East may be on the way. There is likely to be, however, brighter news from the United Nations and Washington reporting developments in the new Eisenhower foreign policy. The new policy is to put the brakes on two of the principal U.S. partners in the North Atlantic Alliance — Great Britain and France.

A new and effective foreign policy is right now the most urgent need of the Eisenhower administration and of candidate Eisenhower. A great power whose basic foreign policy fails suddenly is like a speeding ship which has dropped its rudder. The skipper probably knows where he wants to go but has no means of getting there.

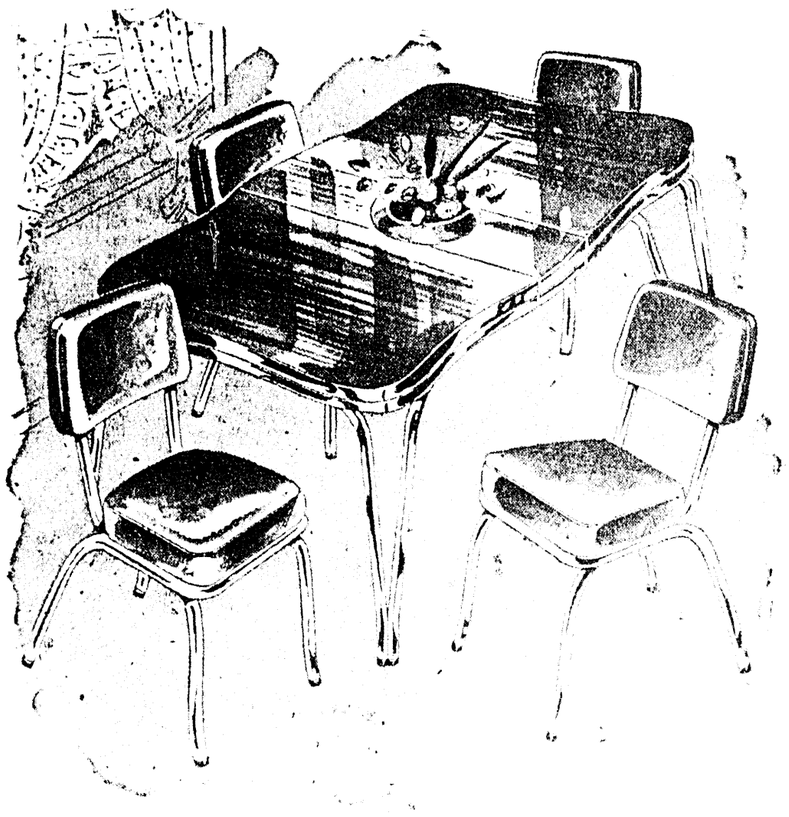

Such conditions cannot long continue without the risk of calamity and disaster. If the United Nations Assembly ranges world opinion effectively in support of Mr. Eisenhower's efforts toward peace, he will have substantially discharged the United States' responsibility as a world leader for peace. And the rudder will almost be in place again.

Mrs. Wesley C. Ekholm is shown with her daughters, Rilla and Gwen. They are pictured with Bismark at the entrance to their home on Marie Place. The Ekholms, who have resided in Monroe for the past seven years, will leave later this month for their new home in New York and Connecticut.

Morning Coffee Honors Mrs. Gulledge, Mrs. Jones

Mrs. Frederick Gulledge, who is leaving for Baton Rouge this month and Mrs. Bolling Jones, who recently moved to Monroe, were honor guests at an informal coffee given by Mrs. Walter Shattuck and Mrs. Milling Bernstein Friday morning.

A variety of autumn arrangements decorated the party rooms of the Shattuck home on K street.

Noted near the entrance was a basket of colorful autumn leaves.

Mrs. Gulledge and Mrs. Jones greeted guests at the door.

Centering the dining table was an artistic arrangement of pink roses and mums. Mrs. Henry Bernstein, Jr., presided at the coffee service.

In the den where Mrs. Sidney Gill served cokes was a picturesque fruit arrangement with several dried materials complementing the composition.

Assisting Mrs. Shattuck and Mrs. Bernstein with courtesies was Mrs. Duncan Cook.

BROKEN LINE

Most faces require the hat line broken across the forehead. The round hat worn quite straight on the head emphasizes roundness. A dip at the side or in front takes away that heavy look and is good balance for the not-so-slim.

BROKEN LINE

Most faces require the hat line broken across the forehead. The round hat worn quite straight on the head emphasizes roundness. A dip at the side or in front takes away that heavy look and is good balance for the not-so-slim.

The J. Howard Carrolls Entertain At 'Redwine'

A social event claiming interest to a large concourse of friends was the open house at "Redwine," home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Carroll of West Monroe, last Sunday afternoon between the hours of three and six. The occasion of the open house was the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. Carroll chose red delight roses for her living room, arranging them with silver - tree Hawaiian foliage and glittered plumosus in antique crystal bowls for her mantle and coffee table. The tea table was overlaid with a white satin damask, centered with a large silver epergne. The top of the epergne resembled a fountain flowing over a large arrangement of white carnations and glittered plumosus. The buffet decor included a complementary arrangement of white carnations artistically arranged in a Buckingham bowl. Tall cathedral tapers were used in silver candlelabras tied with bows of white lacette decorated with rhinestones.

Fall colors and dried foliage arrangements were predominant in the solarium, including a large arrangement of Bird of Paradise, and a donkey cart filled with bronze and yellow mums. These arrangements were placed against a background of native cypress paneling decorated in green ivy leaves cut from florist styrofoam. Bright yellow mums and green lycopodium were used in the den to compliment the furnishings of that room. Other floral decorations were placed at vantage points throughout the house to harmonize with the color scheme, giving an air of homelike simplicity

Mrs. Carroll wore a floor length white dress of nylon tulle with imported hand - clipped lace appliqued on the bodice and sleeves. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were Mrs. J. M. Breard, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Branch, Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Brakefield, Miss Estelle Perrault of Opelousas, Miss Harriet McSwean, Selma, Ala., Mrs. John Thompson of Tuscaloosa Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs Guy Owen, and Mrs. Dalton Green of Shreveport.

An anniversary candle placed in a silver compote decorated the table where the guest book was placed. Miss Perrault, wearing a silver - toned navy taffeta with tight bodice and wide skirted ballerina, presided at the guest book. Her corsage was a pink orchid.

Mrs. Haynes stood with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll. She wore a re-embroidered alencon black lace over taffeta in waltz length and a pink cymbidium orchid.

Alternating at the coffee and tea service in the dining room were Mrs. J. M. Breard, Mrs. L. A. Branch, Mrs. J. F. Carroll, Miss Harriet McSwean, and Mrs. John Thompson.

Mrs. Ross met the guests and invited them into the solarium. She wore a black taffeta with bouffant skirt attractively woven with pink taffeta and an orchid corsage.

Assisting in extending courtesies at the punch bowl were Mrs. Bennie Brakefield, Mrs. Dalton Green, and Mrs. Guy Owen.

Out - of - town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hammett of Shreveport; Mr. O. E. Cooley, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs J. R. Kennedy of Vicksburg; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. How Much Do You Know About Real Antiques

Sometime in her life a woman is likely to be bitten with the antique bug. She buys a little thing, perhaps a piece of old glass, pewter or a love seat, and bingo — she begins to dislike everything else in her home, particularly her furniture.

That is only the beginning. Even after she has attended a few auctions, visited some antique shops and read some books, she realizes that for all her interest, she is antique - ignorant. She doesn't really know one piece from another.

How do the "experts" gain such knowledge?

Some study their subject objectively as others study architecture or engineering. Others trust to luck with the help of books and articles. The best informed may be fooled occasionally.

There are short - cuts to the knowledge for amateurs.

Certain details of a piece of furniture may give a cue to its origin. Pre - revolutionary chests and secretaries made in New York, for instance, reflect the Dutch influence —wider proportions than pieces made during the same period in New England.

"New England furniture gained much of its beauty from integrated design and slender proportions," says one of the country's leading antique dealers, Albert Sack, who displayed some interesting museum - like pieces at the recent International Antiques Exhibition and Sale in New York.

Most furniture may even be pinned down to the city it was made in once you get the knack—city furniture is likely to be more pure of styling than that of provincial areas, Sack says. You may tell at a glance whether a chest comes from Boston or Newport just by examining the feet.

"Boston and Salem craftsmen used the swept back claw," declares Sack, "while Newport furniture has an elongated oval ball and sometimes, although seldom open claw feet. The New York claw and ball foot is square."

The knee of a piece is often an indication of its source, also, this expert advises. The legs of a New England chair or table are likely to have a higher curve than those of a corresponding piece made in Philadelphia.

Brass handles and drawer pulls reveal age or period, and carvings may be traced back to individual craftsmen. Other pieces show their own history. Inside some clocks you'll find the name of the maker and directions for setting them, drawn into the wood.

Sometimes there is more proof, such as letters found in old desk and tables. Sack has a dated one written by clock maker Simon Wallard, to a purchaser, explaining why the clock at $53. cost more than the sum agreed upon. It is displayed at the current exhibition valued at $3,500.

How Much Do You Know About Real Antiques

Sometime in her life a woman is likely to be bitten with the antique bug. She buys a little thing, perhaps a piece of old glass, pewter or a love seat, and bingo — she begins to dislike everything else in her home, particularly her furniture.

That is only the beginning. Even after she has attended a few auctions, visited some antique shops and read some books, she realizes that for all her interest, she is antique - ignorant. She doesn't really know one piece from another.

How do the "experts" gain such knowledge?

Some study their subject objectively as others study architecture or engineering. Others trust to luck with the help of books and articles. The best informed may be fooled occasionally.

There are short - cuts to the knowledge for amateurs.

Certain details of a piece of furniture may give a cue to its origin. Pre - revolutionary chests and secretaries made in New York, for instance, reflect the Dutch influence —wider proportions than pieces made during the same period in New England.

"New England furniture gained much of its beauty from integrated design and slender proportions," says one of the country's leading antique dealers, Albert Sack, who displayed some interesting museum - like pieces at the recent International Antiques Exhibition and Sale in New York.

Most furniture may even be pinned down to the city it was made in once you get the knack—city furniture is likely to be more pure of styling than that of provincial areas, Sack says. You may tell at a glance whether a chest comes from Boston or Newport just by examining the feet.

"Boston and Salem craftsmen used the swept back claw," declares Sack, "while Newport furniture has an elongated oval ball and sometimes, although seldom open claw feet. The New York claw and ball foot is square."

The knee of a piece is often an indication of its source, also, this expert advises. The legs of a New England chair or table are likely to have a higher curve than those of a corresponding piece made in Philadelphia.

Brass handles and drawer pulls reveal age or period, and carvings may be traced back to individual craftsmen. Other pieces show their own history. Inside some clocks you'll find the name of the maker and directions for setting them, drawn into the wood.

Sometimes there is more proof, such as letters found in old desk and tables. Sack has a dated one written by clock maker Simon Wallard, to a purchaser, explaining why the clock at $53. cost more than the sum agreed upon. It is displayed at the current exhibition valued at $3,500.

MISS LINDA HOWELL'S engagement and approaching marriage to Lt. Robert F. Cargile, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cargile of this city, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Howell of Oak Grove. The wedding will be an event of Wednesday, December 12, at the New Zion Baptist Church in Oak Grove.

The J. Howard Carrolls Entertain At 'Redwine'

A social event claiming interest to a large concourse of friends was the open house at "Redwine," home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Carroll of West Monroe, last Sunday afternoon between the hours of three and six. The occasion of the open house was the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. Carroll chose red delight roses for her living room, arranging them with silver - tree Hawaiian foliage and glittered plumosus in antique crystal bowls for her mantle and coffee table. The tea table was overlaid with a white satin damask, centered with a large silver epergne. The top of the epergne resembled a fountain flowing over a large arrangement of white carnations and glittered plumosus. The buffet decor included a complementary arrangement of white carnations artistically arranged in a Buckingham bowl. Tall cathedral tapers were used in silver candlelabras tied with bows of white lacette decorated with rhinestones.

Fall colors and dried foliage arrangements were predominant in the solarium, including a large arrangement of Bird of Paradise, and a donkey cart filled with bronze and yellow mums. These arrangements were placed against a background of native cypress paneling decorated in green ivy leaves cut from florist styrofoam. Bright yellow mums and green lycopodium were used in the den to compliment the furnishings of that room. Other floral decorations were placed at vantage points throughout the house to harmonize with the color scheme, giving an air of homelike s mplicity

Mrs. Carroll wore a floor length white dress of nylon tulle with imported hand - clipped lace appliqued on the bodice and sleeves. Her corsage was a white orchid.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll were Mrs. J. M. Breard, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Haynes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Branch, Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Brakefield, Miss Estelle Perrault of Opelousas, Miss Harriet McSwean, Selma, Ala., Mrs. John Thompson of Tuscaloosa Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs Guy Owen, and Mrs. Dalton Green of Shreveport.

An anniversary candle placed in a silver compote decorated the table where the guest book was placed. Miss Perrault, wearing a silver - toned navy taffeta with tight bodice and wide skirted ballerina, presided at the guest book. Her corsage was a pink orchid.

Mrs. Haynes stood with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll. She wore a re-embroidered alencon black lace over taffeta in waltz length and a pink cymbidium orchid.

Alternating at the coffee and tea service in the dining room were Mrs. J. M. Breard, Mrs. L. A. Branch, Mrs. J. F. Carroll, Miss Harriet McSwean, and Mrs. John Thompson.

Mrs. Ross met the guests and invited them into the solarium. She wore a black taffeta with bouffant skirt attractively woven with pink taffeta and an orchid corsage.

Baxter-Stutson Vows Are Pledged By Candlelight

On Saturday afternoon, October 20, at 5 p.m. the First Baptist Church of Sicily Island was the scene of an impressive candlelight wedding when Miss Elizabeth Sue Stutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Harris Stutson, became the bride of James Don Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Albert Baxter. Rev. Ralph E. Webber performed the double-ring ceremony.

Arches covered with greenery and yellow pom pom chrysanthemums formed an arcade down the center aisle of the church. Marking the place of the ceremony were seven smaller arches decorated in the same manner and in graduated heights. Branched candelabra holding yellow tapers were placed in the background and joined together by streamers of yellow satin ribbon. The family pews were marked with bows of yellow satin.

Miss Patricia Brooks played a concert of nuptial music as the guests were being seated. She accompanied Mr. B. K. Miller Jr. who sang "Because," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Just before the bridal party entered, the candles were lighted by the bride's cousin, Miss Joan Buswell of Harrisonburg, and Miss Ann Douciere of Mangham. They wore identical dresses of white net over white taffeta with yellow velvet sashes and wrist corsages of French mums in golden yellow.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace appliqued to an overskirt of misty tulle, beneath which was a skirt of dainty ruffles. Trimming the high neckline was a narrow ruffle of lace, and the long sleeves came to petal points over the hands. A lace crown encrusted with tiny seed pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a white Bible topped by a bouquet of white phalenopis, lily of the valley, and white orchids in a reverse crescent design.

Miss Patsy Wells, of Monroe, served as maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown of gold crystallette taffeta with velvet trim was fashioned with a scooped neckline and bouffant skirt. She wor a short net veil over her velvet headband. Her bouquet was a crescent of bronze pom poms with matching satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Oswell, of Delhi, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Joy Miller. Their gowns and headdresses were in green styled identical to the maid of honor's. They carried crescent bouquets of golden yellow pom poms. Miss Ilyne Cruse of Enterprise, a cousin to the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dress similar to that of the maid of honor and scattered flower petals from a basket of yellow taffeta and maline. Her bandeau was of the same materials with yellow baby mums.

Gordon Vaught was best man. Ushers were the bride's brother, Charles Stutson, and the groom's cousin, Pat Lane Jr., of Delhi. Serving as ringbearer was another of the groom's cousins, Michael Lane, of Delhi.

Mrs. Stutson chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of moss green crepe with black accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a brown crepe dress and accessories of brown and beige. Both wore a honey beige cymbidium orchid corsage. Mrs. J. M. Lane, the groom's grandmother wore a black suit with pink and white accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship room of the church. A tall basket of large yellow mums and fern was standing against the wall facing the entrance door. On the piano was a similar arrangement. The bride's table was covered with a handmade linen and lace cloth. Forming the centerpiece was a five branched silver candelabra holding yellow candles and entwined with streamers of small yellow mums. At one end of the table was the crystal punch bowl where Miss Una Mae Stutson of Harrisonburg, a cousin of the bride, presided. On the other end was the three - tiered wedding cake, which was topped by an altar which held small figurines representing the entire wedding party. Mrs. Larry Henslee, of Monroe, served the cake. Others assisting with the courtesies were Mrs. Rusell Hoots, Miss Dorris Chambers, Miss Lurline Norris, Miss Wanda White, Mrs. E. W. Gambrell, and Mrs. V. P. Dalrymple.

A beautiful memory candle and the bride's bouquet decorated a smaller table where Miss Linda Lane, of Delhi, a cousin of the groom, presided at the bride's register.

For a wedding trip to Miami, Mrs. Baxter chose a blue and lavender suit of tweed with black accessories and the orchids from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of the Sicily Island High school and has attended Northeast State college.

The groom is a graduate of Sicily Island High school and has attended Louisiana State university. He recently returned from Korea where he served for sixteen months with the United States army.

Upon their return they will make their home in Tallulah where the groom will be associated with his father in the contracting business.

FEMININE LINES

Lines that run straight from shoulder to hem are hard, unyielding lines. The angular figure then looks masculine. The simple, curved cocoon silhouette is the most flattering outline in relation to the sturdy, angular build and it's feminine.

DIAGONAL BODICE

The stark sheath shows every bulge but the diagonal buttoning bodice minimizes bosom contours and the hip-detail pares down tummy hips. The tall and the short figures can wear this silhouette.

An eggplant that weighs about a pound, and is often called medium-sized, is good for stuffing when four persons are to be served.

Y-Teens

On Monday afternoon the Freshman and Sophomore clubs of Y-Teens met at the YWCA. Kathy Wigley gave the devotional, a selection from the devotional book for young people: "Power". The clubs were divided into six small discussion groups with Annette Johnson, Betty Jean Sims, Sandra Boyd, and Phyllis Kulcke as leaders. The meeting was closed with the Y-Teens motto.

The 7th Grade club had a Halloween party for their club meeting time. The Lenwil Y-Teen club had a Halloween party with Mary Ann Naquin, Elaine Avery, and Linda Tolbert, the social committee directing the games and serving refreshments.

On Wednesday the Junior and Senior clubs of Y-Teens met at the YWCA. Mrs. Ted Landhy was the guest for the club to discuss party planning and favors. The group also discussed an overnight camping trip which is being planned for November 9.

Bridge Classes

On Wednesday evening at 7:00 p.m. all those interested in beginner's bridge will meet at the YWCA for the first meeting to make plans for the class. On Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. all those interested in instructions in advanced bridge will meet to make the plans for the class. Mrs. A. L. Harrington will be the instructor for the classes. Anyone interested please call the YWCA, 3-1505.

FEMININE LINES

Lines that run straight from shoulder to hem are hard, unyielding lines. The angular figure then looks masculine. The simple, curved cocoon silhouette is the most flattering outline in relation to the sturdy, angular build and it's feminine.

DIAGONAL BODICE

The stark sheath shows every bulge but the diagonal buttoning bodice minimizes bosom contours and the hip-detail pares down tummy hips. The tall and the short figures can wear this silhouette.

An eggplant that weighs about a pound, and is often called medium-sized, is good for stuffing when four persons are to be served.

Harrell-Spier Vows Pledged In Bastrop

Miss Barbara Joy Spier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Hugo Spier, of Bastrop, became the bride of John Fredrick Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Harrell, of Alexandria, in a ceremony performed in Bastrop at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Oct. 21. The Reverend R. H. Staples officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with white chrysanthemums and palm leaves in Grecian urns. Mrs. J. B. Spier, aunt of the bride, presented the nuptial music and accompanied Fred Tannehill, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor length gown of bridal satin fashioned with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves that ended in petal points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a shell cap of forgetmenots. She carried a bouquet of feathered chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Ed Dale Givens, of Alexandria, sister of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor and Miss Patsy Ann Granger, of Ville Platte, the maid of honor. Their dresses of cadet blue peau de soie were fashioned with tight bodices with draped off shoulder necklines. The waltz length skirts were very full. They carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Kay Spier, sister of the bride and her cousin, Miss Sally Spier, were the bridesmaids. Their dresses were identical to the honor attendants of slate blue peau de soie and they carried yellow chrysanthemums. Helen Jeanne Smith, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl. Her frock was of slate blue made like the bridal attendants.

John E. Harrell was his son's best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Buckner Howse, Aubrey Wilkerson, Lawrence Spier, and Paul Harrell. The candlelighters were John Dale Givens and Randy Givens, nephews of the bridegroom.

A reception followed the ceremony in the family home on Washington street. The hostesses were aunts of the bride, Mrs. Wilbur E. Sisson, of Monroe, Misses Sadie, Ollie, Ruth and Ida Spier, of Bastrop.

Mrs. Spier received her guests in a gown of teal blue silk made with empire waistline and trimmed in seed pearls. Her accessories were white. She was assisted by the mother of the bridegroom, who was wearing a beaded royal blue dress with which she wore accessories in shades of rose. Their corsages were of sweetheart roses.

The reception rooms wre decorated in bridal white using arrangements of chrysanthemums and periwinkle. The bride's table in the dining room was covered with a cut work cloth and held at one end a crystal epergne filled with white blossoms and wild willow. Mrs. Raleigh A. Suarez, of Plaquemine served the beautifully decorated wedding cake and alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. W. T. Smith, Mrs. J. B. Spier and Mrs. L. C. Ingram. Mrs. Aubrey Wilkerson, of Alexandria, registered the guests.

Others assisting were Miss Maggie Haws. Mr. and Mrs. Onar Perry, Mr. J.B. Spier, Miss Jane Spier, Miss Thelma Powell, Mrs. Hassel Cahn, Mrs. Warren Storment, Mrs. Rebecca Pierce, Miss Marilynn Jenkins, Mrs. Jack Rawls, Miss Betsy Rawls, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Spier, Mrs. Ozell Sisson, Mrs. O. L. Harper, Miss Suzanne Perry, Miss Larrie Spier, Miss Carolyn George, Mrs. Loe Fragala and Mrs. Aubrey Bowles.

Later in the afternoon the young couple left on their wedding trip to points in Arkansas and Texas. The bride traveled in a wool suit of soft blue with navy and white accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet. On their return they are residing in Ville Platte.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sisson, Monroe; Mrs. Rebecca Pierce, Mrs. Rene Whitlow, Mr. Paul Harrell, Mrs. Hassel Cahn, all of New Orlans; Miss Thelma Powel, Sheveport; Rev. and Mrs. Bob McCannon and children, Lake Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd E. B. Martin, Mrs. M. G. Moore, Mrs. Travis Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Smith Stevenson, all of Monroe; Mrs. W. C. Webster, Bill Webster, of Alexandria; and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Latimer, of Ruston.

MISS MARY MAGALINE PRINCE'S approaching marriage to James Laverl Willis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Willis of Bastrop, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Prince of St. Joseph. The wedding will take place at 6 o'clock in the evening on November 10 in St. Joseph.

Girl Scout News

Four people from the Silver Waters Council came back from the Region V Conference in Biloxi impressed by the part played by the girls, for whom Scouting exists. No one at Biloxi was allowed to forget the Girl in Girl Scouting, they said. In the first place, 65 Senior Scout, mostly from Jackson, Montgomery, Biloxi, Mobile, and New Orleans, but a fe weven from lone troops, attended the conference and participated in the sessions.

At the opening session a speaking choir of Brownie Scouts, Intermediates, and Seniors from the Middle Mississippi Council gave a choral reading telling what girls are like and what Scouting means to them. Needless to say, the audience was captivated by the carefully-groomed, neatly uniformed group. Incidentally, anyone who doubts the effectivcness of the uniform, should attend such a conference. Practically everyone wore the green uniform and felt comfortable and well-dressed and proud to be Girl Scout adults.

At one session a group of Montgomery, Alabama Girl, Scouts depicted an actual Court of Honor, troop meeting, neighborhood association, district committee and board meeting in order to show the delegates the continuity of work in the organiation. As part of this program Mary Carolyn McGehee, a 1956 exchange camper from New Orleans, who spent last summer in Brazil summaried her experiences as an inter-national camper.

Dressed in the striking white uniform of the Brazilian Bandierantes (Girl Scouts), Mary Carolyn, affectionately known as "Mac", said that the fourth Girl Scout Law takes on a new and deeper meaning to an international camper. She praised the hospitality of Brazilian Scouts and told of incidents that would forever make her feel a real sense of sisterhood for all within the scouting organization.

Our own Senior Scouts know Mary Carolyn from having attended Senior Girl Scout conferences in New Orleans. Our Nancy Breard succeeded Mary Carolyn as president of the Louisiana Senior Conference.

Girls from Mobile and Biloxi took part in a pagent called "Jubilee", given on the Back Bay at Keesler Field and depicting local history in song and dance. Adding to the effectiveness of the pageant was the singing of a choir of Negroes from Mobile. Afterward, girls and adults enjoyed on outdoor supper of boiled shrimp. Some of our Louisiana people had fun showing the distinguished guests from New York and other faraway places how to peel shrimp.

This had to be written before the work-play day at Pine Wood yesterday. Election day Tuesday, United Givers in full swing, Girl Scout troops going strong, everybody happy and busy, we hope. Let's all work for a successful United Givers!

Medical Auxiliary Plan Benefit Lecture And Tea

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society, will present Mrs. Lloyd M. White, of Kansas City, Missouri, in "Philosophy Through Your Hat" at 2 p.m. on Thursday, November 8, at Northeast College Auditorium.

Mrs. White's homespun philosophy is framed in lively humor—hats with pointed and delightful personalities of their own. Using the mystic bond between a woman and a hat, Mrs. White's monologue, on the character of each hat she models, throws amusing light and insight into universal foibles.

Her hat talks have been given more than 2000 times with unqualified success before women's clubs in the major cities, university groups, conventions and in radio and television.

A tea will follow at the home of the president, 221 Chauvin, Ave. on the college campus.

Mrs. Henry Guerriero, auxiliary president, has named Mrs. Dewitt Milam, general chairman, with Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst, co-chairman. Handling the ticket sales will be Mrs. N. Klam and Mrs. C. U. Johnson. Serving with them will be Mrs. Stanley Mintz, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. Guy Williams, Mrs. T. M. Sayre, Mrs. F. M. Ferrell, Mrs. Jack Tom Jackson, Mrs. J. H. Pankey and Mrs. J. M. Coates.

The tea committee is headed by Mrs. S. I. Courtman and Mrs. A. Scott Hamilton, also Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Clifton Flinn, Mrs. Bernard Soto, Mrs. Haydn Cutler and Mrs. Wren M. Causey.

Tickets may be bought from any doctor's wife or at the auditorium. Proceeds will go to the auxiliary's nursing scholarship fund; medical student scholarship loan fund, American Medical Education Foundation, and the communities services.

NEW SOFTNESS

The short, angular, bones rather than flesh, wants neither the cube nor the tube silhouette. Sophisticated grace, not cuteness, is her aim. Cocktail and evening dresses are first to reflect this new softness with lowered hemlines.

Vary that tossed green salad by adding membrane-free orange segments and paper-thin onion rings. Delectable combination!

Add chopped plumped raisins and rum flavoring to a vanilla butter frosting and use as a cake filling. You can plump the raisins by letting them stand in very hot water for short time and then draining thoroughly.

Medical Auxiliary Plan Benefit Lecture And Tea

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society, will present Mrs. Lloyd M. White, of Kansas City, Missouri, in "Philosophy Through Your Hat" at 2 p.m. on Thursday, November 8, at Northeast College Auditorium.

Mrs. White's homespun philosophy is framed in lively humor—hats with pointed and delightful personalities of their own. Using the mystic bond between a woman and a hat, Mrs. White's monologue, on the character of each hat she models, throws amusing light and insight into universal foibles.

Her hat talks have been given more than 2000 times with unqualified success before women's clubs in the major cities, university groups, conventions and in radio and television.

A tea will follow at the home of the president, 221 Chauvin, Ave. on the college campus.

Mrs. Henry Guerriero, auxiliary president, has named Mrs. Dewitt Milam, general chairman, with Mrs. R. W. Dickenhorst, co-chairman. Handling the ticket sales will be Mrs. N. Klam and Mrs. C. U. Johnson. Serving with them will be Mrs. Stanley Mintz, Mrs. Roy Kelly, Mrs. Cyril Yancey, Mrs. E. M. Clark, Mrs. Guy Williams, Mrs. T. M. Sayre, Mrs. F. M. Ferrell, Mrs. Jack Tom Jackson, Mrs. J. H. Pankey and Mrs. J. M. Coates.

The tea committee is headed by Mrs. S. I. Courtman and Mrs. A. Scott Hamilton, also Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Clifton Flinn, Mrs. Bernard Soto, Mrs. Haydn Cutler and Mrs. Wren M. Causey.

Tickets may be bought from any doctor's wife or at the auditorium. Proceeds will go to the auxiliary's nursing scholarship fund; medical student scholarship loan fund, American Medical Education Foundation, and the communities services.

NEW SOFTNESS

The short, angular, bones rather than flesh, wants neither the cube nor the tube silhouette. Sophisticated grace, not cuteness, is her aim. Cocktail and evening dresses are first to reflect this new softness with lowered hemlines.

Thrifty Gardeners Save Fall Leaves

Attention club presidents — A few of the records are not in my office. Please see that yours are in before Saturday.

Attention strawberry growers: We have some red spiders every year and some years in great and damaging numbers. Before you set your plants this fall dust your plant beds with flower of sulphur. Sulphur gives off a sulphur dioxide gas during warm clear days when the temperature is 70 degrees F. or above. It will require about 30 pounds per acre. This dusting gets rid of spiders now on the plants. Your plants may later become infested with spiders from straw, but if they do and it is below 70 degrees F. use Malathion dust instead of sulphur.

Holidays Near—Bake Fruit Cakes

Getting ready for Thanksgiving can be easier if we do our baking early and freeze our cakes. Fruit cakes are particularly successful for freezing. The flavor of any cake heavy with fruits becomes blended and mellow during storage and the cake stays moist because of the fruit and fat present. Also fruit cakes are rather compact and sturdy so are not likely to be mashed or dented during freezer storage. Fruit cake may be baked, frozen and stored in oven glassware, or they may be baked in metal pans, removed, cooled and then wrapped and frozen.

Safety

When you gave your child a bicycle, did you teach him the rules and regulations of traffic. It might be well to review these for his safety. Teach him to learn and obey all traffic regulations. Keep your bicycle under control — no weaving or stunting, ride on right side of the street — move with traffic and stay close to curb — give proper hand signals when turning or stopping —don't carry ridders; they block your vision and throw you off balance — come to a full stop at stop signs and red traffic lights — stop, look and listen before entering street from sidewalk, driveway or alley—never hitch onto moving vehicles—a "free" ride may end up at the hospital — avoid riding after dark. If you must, wear something white and turn on lights — slow down at intersections. Get off and walk bike across busy streets.

Care of Sweaters

Day after day you see the sweater is a major garment in the school wardrobe. The wide gamut in styling ranges from a casual, bulky knit cardigan to a fine sweater blouse.

When buying a sweater read and keep the label which gives the fiber of which it is knit and how to care for it. Most of these sweaters are washable. Here are some easy - to - follow washing tips. First outline sweater shape on a bath towel or brown paper. Submerge the sweater in lukewarm soapy water and allow to soak three to five minutes. Using your hands cupped to support sweater, gently squeeze it and rinse thoroughly (at least twice) in the same temperature water. Blot the excess moisture from the washed sweater by rolling it in a bath towel Gently shape the sweater to the marked outline and allow it to dry away from direct heat.

If necessary, steam press lightly with a lightweight cotton press cloth (a man's handkerchief will do). If you don't have a steam iron, slightly moisten the press cloth and use a dry iron.

Daily care is an easy assignment if you never place a sweater on a hanger, instead, with a minimum of folds, store it in a drawer.

Less Spending On Clothing

We find that consumers are spending a smaller percentage of their available income on clothing than they did in the past. In the mid-thirties they spent 8.2 per cent of their disposable income on clothing while by 1955 the percentage had declined to 6.2 per cent. This is partly explained by the diversion of our higher national income to luxury - type goods which fall outside the definition of basic living requirements. Studies show that, as family income expands beyond a certain level the additional income tends to be spent on luxuries, services and other consumer goods which do not come within the purview of a minimum necessity budget. Another reason for the decline in the percentage of income spent for clothing is attributed to inadequate promotion and advertising by the textile and clothing industries as compared to the widespread and continuous promotional campaigns of the auto, housing, electrical appliance and other durable goods industries.

Thrifty Gardeners Save Fall Leaves

Attention club presidents — A few of the records are not in my office. Please see that yours are in before Saturday.

Attention strawberry growers: We have some red spiders every year and some years in great and damaging numbers. Before you set your plants this fall dust your plant beds with flower of sulphur. Sulphur gives off a sulphur dioxide gas during warm clear days when the temperature is 70 degrees F. or above. It will require about 30 pounds per acre. This dusting gets rid of spiders now on the plants. Your plants may later become infested with spiders from straw, but if they do and it is below 70 degrees F. use Malathion dust instead of sulphur.

Holidays Near—Bake Fruit Cakes

Getting ready for Thanksgiving can be easier if we do our baking early and freeze our cakes. Fruit cakes are particularly successful for freezing. The flavor of any cake heavy with fruits becomes blended and mellow during storage and the cake stays moist because of the fruit and fat present. Also fruit cakes are rather compact and sturdy so are not likely to be mashed or dented during freezer storage. Fruit cake may be baked, frozen and stored in oven glassware, or they may be baked in metal pans, removed, cooled and then wrapped and frozen.

Safety

When you gave your child a bicycle, did you teach him the rules and regulations of traffic. It might be well to review these for his safety. Teach him to learn and obey all traffic regulations. Keep your bicycle under control — no weaving or stunting, ride on right side of the street — move with traffic and stay close to curb — give proper hand signals when turning or stopping —don't carry ridders; they block your vision and throw you off balance — come to a full stop at stop signs and red traffic lights — stop, look and listen before entering street from sidewalk, driveway or alley—never hitch onto moving vehicles—a "free" ride may end up at the hospital — avoid riding after dark. If you must, wear something white and turn on lights — slow down at intersections. Get off and walk bike across busy streets.

Care of Sweaters

Day after day you see the sweater is a major garment in the school wardrobe. The wide gamut in styling ranges from a casual, bulky knit cardigan to a fine sweater blouse.

When buying a sweater read and keep the label which gives the fiber of which it is knit and how to care for it. Most of these sweaters are washable. Here are some easy - to - follow washing tips. First outline sweater shape on a bath towel or brown paper. Submerge the sweater in lukewarm soapy water and allow to soak three to five minutes. Using your hands cupped to support sweater, gently squeeze it and rinse thoroughly (at least twice) in the same temperature water. Blot the excess moisture from the washed sweater by rolling it in a bath towel Gently shape the sweater to the marked outline and allow it to dry away from direct heat.

If necessary, steam press lightly with a lightweight cotton press cloth (a man's handkerchief will do). If you don't have a steam iron, slightly moisten the press cloth and use a dry iron.

Daily care is an easy assignment if you never place a sweater on a hanger, instead, with a minimum of folds, store it in a drawer.

Less Spending On Clothing

We find that consumers are spending a smaller percentage of their available income on clothing than they did in the past. In the mid-thirties they spent 8.2 per cent of their disposable income on clothing while by 1955 the percentage had declined to 6.2 per cent. This is partly explained by the diversion of our higher national income to luxury - type goods which fall outside the definition of basic living requirements. Studies show that, as family income expands beyond a certain level the additional income tends to be spent on luxuries, services and other consumer goods which do not come within the purview of a minimum necessity budget. Another reason for the decline in the percentage of income spent for clothing is attributed to inadequate promotion and advertising by the textile and clothing industries as compared to the widespread and continuous promotional campaigns of the auto, housing, electrical appliance and other durable goods industries.

The Monroe League of Women Voters has been urged by the New Orleans chapter to oppose amendment 30, which deals with the parish of Orleans only.

Mrs. R. M. Troy, president of the local group, received a telegram Saturday morning from Mrs. Thomas Crumpler, president of the New Orleans League of Women Voters, which read as follows: "New Orleans League requests your active opposition amendment 30 concerns Orleans only. Third juvenile judge not needed here would cost city unnecessary $20,000. City money if available should be spent for other courts needs probationary and clerical. Other provisions of amendment 30 undesirable. Would appreciate local press statement."

Mrs. Troy also said Saturday that vote demonstrations and nonpartisan discussion of amendments will be on television Sunday and Monday.

Judge Rules Woman Unable To Aid Counsel'

OAKDALE, La., Noc. 3 —UP— Judge Minos D. Miller reported today that East Louisiana State hospital authorities ruled that Mrs. Ruth Wilson, charged with drowning her three children in the bathtub, would be unable to "assist counsel in defense."

The judge said doctors at the Jackson, La., hospital for the criminally insane "are of the opinion that Mrs. Wilson cannot assist counsel in defense."

The 23-year-old mother, charged with drowning her three small children at their Elizabeth, La., home in late September, is confined to the hospital on a coroner's commitment.

John Navarre, Allen parish assistant district attorney, said the grand jury probably would consider the case this month.

Mrs. Wilson was found wandering in a wooded area by parish deputies shortly before the bodies of her children were discovered. At the time, the parish coroner ruled the children had been dead about 24 hours and an inquest ruled they died by drowning.

Authorities said Mrs. Wilson apparently had slashed her wrists which were cut and infected when she was found.

Three defense attorneys have been appointed for Mrs. Wilson by Judge Miller.

Hot Words Always Have Been Flung At Our Presidents

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Hot words have flown hither and yon since the beginning of the party system in American elections.

Take John Adams, who opposed Thomas Jefferson in the campaign of 1796. His enemies called John, behind his back, "his rotundity." The second President, was indeed a fat boy.

And he was a little sore at his inaugural because George Washington still was the hero.

J. A. wrote his wife:

"He (Washington) seemed to enjoy a triumph over me. Methought I heard him say: "Ay. I am fairly out and you're fairly in. See which one of us will be the happiest."

In 1800, when Thomas Jefferson was running against Aaron Burr, one of his bitterest critics was Alexander Hamilton. Hamilton said Tom "is a concealed voluptuary... in the plain garb of Quaker simplicity."

In 1808, James Madison was running against Charles Pinckney. All of which moved Washington Irving to write: "Mrs. Madison (the lovely Dolly) is a fine, portly, buxom dame, who has a smile and a pleasant word for everybody. x x x but for Jemmy — ah, poor Jemmy. He is but a withered little Apple John."

Madison, 5 feet-4, weight 100 pounds, was the smallest of our Presidents. He had a squeaky voice that was "hardly audible," but he was "gentle and kind."

50,000,000 Cars Cross Big Span At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (Special) — A total of 50,000,000 vehicles have crossed the Mississippi river bridge at Baton Rouge since the big structure was first opened to traffic in 1940 according to latest figures compiled by the Louisiana department of highways.

Located just north of the city as a link of the Airline Highway, the bridge affords the first overall sight of the city for travelers arriving on U. S. 190.

The giant industrial area of Baton Rouge is outlined by a multitude of lights that brighten up the skies at night and can be seen at full advantage from the big bridge.

On the average day over 16,000 vehicles from all sections of the nation cross the Mississippi River bridge in addition to numerous rows of trains.

Construction on the bridge began in June, 1937 and it was opened to traffic on August 10, 1940, following an elaborate ceremony.

The opening of the bridge marked a new day in highway travel through Baton Rouge. Prior to that time the only method of crossing the Mississippi was by the picturesque but slow moving ferry boats. Almost daily, long lines of automobiles, sometimes stretching for miles on either side of the river, were forced to wait for the small boats to load and discharge passengers and vehicles.

The new free bridge soon demonstarted the great saving of time and cost to the daily traveler and immediately proved that the planners had used much foresight in its construction.

The structure and approaches cost approximately $10 million and it was the largest single highway project that the federal government has ever participated in up to that time.

The bridge is considered an outstanding example of enngineering skill. Its overall length is 12,-211 feet.

During the height of construction as many as 1,000 men were employed, and much of the work was in and around the swirling currents of the river. The huge piers had to be constructed to intricate scale and completely balanced at all times.

A total of 8 men lost their lives during this construction. Since completion, three persons have committed suicide by jumping from the lofty rails into the water.

The bridge marks the head of deep water navigation on the Mississippi and the channel is kept open up to this point by the U. S. corp of engineers.

Maintenance work on this one bridge alone is a sizable job and requires a substantial annual expenditure. The department of highways has a crew of 15 men assigned to bridge maintenance including 8 painters, 2 grass cutters, 1 office man, 3 track walkers and a foreman.

The painters are at work full time the year around on the massive steel structure, spot painting as needed from one end of the bridge to the other. An example of the high cost of maintaining such a big bridge, it cost a total of $551,843 in 1951 when a complete re-painting of the entire facility was necessary.

The three track walkers work in eight hour daily shifts, and their job is to carefully check the condition of the rail tracks which are located between the two highway lanes on the bridge.

And while this daily maintenance work is going on, thousands of motorists travel safely to their destination over the wide ole' Mississippi river.

Women Prisoners Move To Modern Living Quarters

BATON ROUGE — UP — Some 106 women prisoners serving time in the state's penal institution at Angola have completed a move to the new living quarters, Warden Maurice Sigler said yesterday.

The women's building, part of an $8 million reconstruction program which was completed last year, features a sun parlor and tiled bathroom at each end of the two-story building.

Women occupants will be given as much privacy as possible, Sigler said, in the building which has 50 individual rooms, each 8 by 8 feet.

Before the move, women prisoners were sleeping in a 1920 board structure with sagging floors. The women slept on double-bunk beds and there was little privacy.

Male convicts previously moved into new quarters on Angola's 18,-000-acre site, Sigler said.

Post Auxiliary Will Baby Sit For Voters Tues.

Members of the auxiliary to Hudson Leehy Post No. 3993, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will baby sit for persons wishing to vote Tuesday, Mrs. Thelma Carley, president, said Saturday. The group of women will keep the children at the post home, 908 Natchitoches street, West Monroe.

The baby sitting services will be available from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m. Mrs. Carley said.

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 3 (Special) — A total of 50,000,000 vehicles have crossed the Mississippi river bridge at Baton Rouge since the big structure was first opened to traffic in 1940 according to latest figures compiled by the Louisiana department of highways.

Located just north of the city as a link of the Airline Highway, the bridge affords the first overall sight of the city for travelers arriving on U. S. 190.

The giant industrial area of Baton Rouge is outlined by a multitude of lights that brighten up the skies at night and can be seen at full advantage from the big bridge.

On the average day over 16,000 vehicles from all sections of the nation cross the Mississippi River bridge in addition to numerous rows of trains.

Construction on the bridge began in June, 1937 and it was opened to traffic on August 10, 1940, following an elaborate ceremony.

The opening of the bridge marked a new day in highway travel through Baton Rouge. Prior to that time the only method of crossing the Mississippi was by the picturesque but slow moving ferry boats. Almost daily, long lines of automobiles, sometimes stretching for miles on either side of the river, were forced to wait for the small boats to load and discharge passengers and vehicles.

The new free bridge soon demonstarted the great saving of time and cost to the daily traveler and immediately proved that the planners had used much foresight in its construction.

The structure and approaches cost approximately $10 million and it was the largest single highway project that the federal government has ever participated in up to that time.

The bridge is considered an outstanding example of enngineering skill. Its overall length is 12,-211 feet.

During the height of construction as many as 1,000 men were employed, and much of the work was in and around the swirling currents of the river. The huge piers had to be constructed to intricate scale and completely balanced at all times.

A total of 8 men lost their lives during this construction. Since completion, three persons have committed suicide by jumping from the lofty rails into the water.

The bridge marks the head of deep water navigation on the Mississippi and the channel is kept open up to this point by the U. S. corp of engineers.

Maintenance work on this one bridge alone is a sizable job and requires a substantial annual expenditure. The department of highways has a crew of 15 men assigned to bridge maintenance including 8 painters, 2 grass cutters, 1 office man, 3 track walkers and a foreman.

The painters are at work full time the year around on the massive steel structure, spot painting as needed from one end of the bridge to the other. An example of the high cost of maintaining such a big bridge, it cost a total of $551,843 in 1951 when a complete re-painting of the entire facility was necessary.

The three track walkers work in eight hour daily shifts, and their job is to carefully check the condition of the rail tracks which are located between the two highway lanes on the bridge.

And while this daily maintenance work is going on, thousands of motorists travel safely to their destination over the wide ole' Mississippi river.

Women Prisoners Move To Modern Living Quarters

BATON ROUGE — UP — Some 106 women prisoners serving time in the state's penal institution at Angola have completed a move to the new living quarters, Warden Maurice Sigler said yesterday.

The women's building, part of an $8 million reconstruction program which was completed last year, features a sun parlor and tiled bathroom at each end of the two-story building.

Women occupants will be given as much privacy as possible, Sigler said, in the building which has 50 individual rooms, each 8 by 8 feet.

Before the move, women prisoners were sleeping in a 1920 board structure with sagging floors. The women slept on double-bunk beds and there was little privacy.

Male convicts previously moved into new quarters on Angola's 18,-000-acre site, Sigler said.

Post Auxiliary Will Baby Sit For Voters Tues.

Members of the auxiliary to Hudson Leehy Post No. 3993, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will baby sit for persons wishing to vote Tuesday, Mrs. Thelma Carley, president, said Saturday. The group of women will keep the children at the post home, 908 Natchitoches street, West Monroe.

The baby sitting services will be available from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m. Mrs. Carley said.

Both the Ouachita parish and city school systems are cooperating with the orchestra in this project, the first of its kind attempted in Monroe.

Subsequent concerts for the year have been set for February 21, March 28 and April 25. All performances will occur on Thursday evenings in Brown auditorium on the Northeast State college campus.

The Twin City Symphony us entering its fourth year if existence as an established civic musical organization under public patronage. Prior to the formation of the Symphony Association, the orchestra existed as an amateur organization without any financial support and gave its first public concert on May 24, 1952.

The orchestra has since experienced a significant growth in both size and musical stature. It is now a recognized member of the American Symphony Orchestra League and is attracting increasing amounts of attention from all quarters of northeast Louisiana, southern Arkansas and western Mississippi. In its four years of organized existence it has become a major force in the cultural life of Monroe and West Monroe.

As a musical organization, the Twin City Symphony this season will number fifty musicians of which thirty - seven are local residents. These members are augmented by thirteen professional musicians from the Shreveport Symphony who are engaged as members of the local orchestra for the season. Local members, however, serve entirely without remuneration.

The orchestra has an established repertoire of sixty musical works by forty composers which have been publically performed on one or more occasions. Approximately fifteen new works will be added to the repertoire this year.

The Symphony Association invites all old members from last year to renew their memberships during the annual membership drive beginning on November 5 if they have not already done so.

New memberships are encouraged throughout the drive period which will terminate on November 18 to coincide with the appearance in Monroe of the New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony which is being brought to the city by Northeast Louisiana State college.

Oak Grove Man Sparks Idea For Military Event

VICKSBURG, Miss., Nov. 3 (Special) — This hill city is busy making plans for what promises to be the most impressive military event ever held here, and the idea for it all was sparked by a Louisiana "seasoned" solder, Sgt. S. L. Harrison, who wasborn and raised in Oak Grove.

The occasion will be ceremonies, preceded by a parade with over 1,000 troops participating, honoring the Confederate flag belonging to the 28th Mississippi Cavalry regiment which will be at that time formaly presented to the Old Court House museum by Miss Eva Murch of Vicksburg, whose father Pvt. R. J. Murch, was standard bearer fo the flag.

General A. G. Paxton, of Greenville, will be the speaker for the occasion and General W. M. Wilson of ackson, adjutant general officer of Mississippi, will be among the honor guests. Light equipment will be included in the parade as well as a fly-over by the Mississippi Air National Guard and Army National Guard.

The idea for the occasion all began when Sergeant Harrison, who is a student of Confederate Americana and Civil War history, read in a Memphis paper about Miss Murch presenting the Confederate flag to the Old Court House museum. His interest was stirred and he wrote Mrs. Eva Davis, director of the Old Court House museum, suggesting that the event be commemorated in some way.

For his part, Sergeant Harrison has promised to bring his volunteer unit, recently organized by him in Columbia, Miss., where he is attached to the U. S. Recruiting Service. The unit is clad in Confederate uniform and includes a replica of a Confederate cannon and caisson. The unit will form an honor guard for Miss Murch, which she will review before the presentation of the flag.

A native of Oak Grove, Sergeant Harrison grew up hearing stories of the Civil War from his grandfather whose father was a veteran of the 8th Louisiana infantry known as "The Grays." Then, when he married, his wife, "Dixie" Vining, also from Oak Grove, shared his interest. Her great-grandfather, T. G. Vining, served in the 16th Louisiana Volunteers and his son, Randall, is an authority on Confederate lore.

This "interest and pride in military tradition was my compelling reason for volunteering in the U. S. Army and for staying in the Army all these years," Sergeant Harrison, a small man with boundless enthusiasm, explained.

During World War II, Sgt. Harrison served as gunner with the 198th Anti-Aircraft; during the Korean war he was with the 13th Engineer Combat Battalion, and was combat wounded in both wars.

Now stationed at Columbia, Miss., once again back home in the south, Sergeant Harrison is finding time to devote to his study of the Confederacy and his collection.

"I want it emphasized, however," the sergeant said, "that my love for my country, America, has inspired my interest in all things historical and Confederate."

Government Waste Makes Americans Slaves—Andrews

NEW ORLEANS Nov. 3 (AP) — T. Coleman Andrews, States Rights candidate for president, says waste in government is turing America's free people into political and economic slaves.

"If money is going to be wasted, we are entitled to the privilege of wasting it ourselves," said Andrews, former commissioner of internal revenue.

He said the business of public education should not be a matter of public concern.

"In the first place if we let the federal government run the schools, where will they get the money? They've got to get it from us, the people of the states," said Andrews.

"And then what happens to it? They skim off about one-third of it to maintain that bloated buraucracy that has been established in the 'district of confusion' and inflitrated into every county, city and town in this country...

"We are slowly but surely being transformed from free people to political and economic slaves."

Vets May Be Fined For Violating Homestead Act

BATON ROUGE —UP— Penalties may be levied on veterans who claimed more than five years of the special homestead exemption, a Baton Rouge State-Times story revealed yesterday.

The newspaper story said violations are widespread in some areas of Louisiana. The violations are based on a partial survey of tax rolls on file with the Louisiana Tax Commission and the state auditor.

The story said that "the extra $3,000 exemption permitted vets is not the important factor in the family budget of those veterans as might appear on the surface.

Many veterans, the survey showed, have already exceeded the maximum benefits provided for in the constitution.

A policy of assessing property at only a fractional portion of its real value has kept the evaluation of veterans' homesteads well below the $5,000 exemption made in most cases.

The law provides that eligible veterans or dependents are limited to a period of five years for exemptions after which the "normal" homestead exemption of $2,000 will apply.

In East Baton Rouge parish, tax records showed that of the 50 veterans claiming the special exemption in 1950, 47 are still on the veterans' exemption list for 1956.

According to the story, the law provides that veterans who have falsely claimed exemption for a period greater than the five years permitted may be liable under the false swearing act.

And assessors who have permitted such exemptions may be liable for the amount of taxes lost by such exemption, plus penalties, the story said.

Rules Laid Down In Search For Texas U. Coach

AUSTIN Tex. (UP) — University of Texas regents laid down ground rules today in their search for a football coach and athletic director but said they are not interested in "the win-at-any-cost" type of coach.

The board of regents met with the athletic council to agree on procedure for finding a coach to succeed Ed Price, who resigned this week effective Dec. 31 and an athletic director to succeed Dana X. Bible(who retires to modified service next Sept. 1.

Regents chairman Tom Sealy announced that no one has been approached by University of Texas officials, and said names of candidates or prospects will not be revealed.

Sealy said that only when the qualifications of available persons are thoroughly studied will it be determined whether a combination athletic director-head football coach will be made or whether there will be separate appointments.

AUGSBURG Germany — PFC Lee R. Warren 20 son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Warren, Quitman, La. participated in a farewell review recently for Maj. Gen. Derrill M. Daniel 11th airborne division commander in Germany.

Warren a clerk in headquarters company of the 188th airborne regiment's 2d battalion entered the army in July 1955 and arrived overseas last March.

Old Wooden Ear To Go On Trial Nov. 15. . Forgery

BATON ROUGE — UP — Ex-prison journalist William E. Sadler (Old Wooden Ear) will go to trial Nov. 15 charged with forgery, an offense which has helped keep him behind bars off and on since 1922.

Sadler pleaded innocent yesterday.

He received a pardon in May and went to work for the Opelousas Daily-World where he won acclaim as the writer of witty stories.

At Angola state penitentiary he published the "Angolite", prison paper, where his behind the bars crusades won him national publicity.

He is charged in connection with a $73.10 check, but when arrested in Savannah, Ga., in September, Baton Rouge police said he had helped cash at least 40 checks, each for $73.10.

Shortly after he was arrested, Emil Bock, former editor of the Texas state prison paper, was picked up on similar charges. Baton Rouge police said they used offset newspaper equipment to write the worthless payroll checks later cashed.

Briefly a free man in 1943, Sadler wrote a series of articles for a New Orleans paper. His articles, called "hell on Angola," exposed brutality at the prison. His series was credited as a factor in a cleanup and reform movement at the prison.

FLOATING PANELS SET IMPORTANT TREND TOWARD SOFTER SILHOUETTE

PATTERN A796
by Isabel Dobson

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Fashion's new entrance line — and one that looks to hold the stage from now through the coming resort season. Setting this important trend, the skirt that shows its back fullness in a totally new way — a floating panel of soft folds, stitched to the waist-cinching cummerbund. It's a pretty contradiction that Prominent American Designer Isabel Dobson has created: soft fullness against the starkly simple lines of the sheath dress itself. Many ways flattering —Miss Dobson suggests sewing in faille, satin, taffeta, or wool crepe (cummerbund and panel in the same fabric or contrasting, as you wish). For cruise and southern skies, fine silk would be equally lovely.

Pattern A796 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, and 18. See pattern for yardage requirements.

Send FIFTY CENTS (in coins) for Pattern A796 to Morning World, Pattern Department, P. O. Box 59, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N. Y. Please print plainly YOUR NAME, ADDRESS with ZONE, STYLE, NUMBER and SIZE.

"To stay free, we must stay strong!"

Dwight D. Eisenhower

"Today, our country stands as a bulwark against the tide of aggression that threatens the free world. We must maintain our national strength — military, economic and moral — so that any would-be aggressor will think twice before he dares attack us.

Armed forces now stronger

"During the past four years, our military strength has been augmented — soberly and intelligently. We now have an armed force far stronger than in 1952, and we are continually replacing manpower with new and atomic weapons. Never before in peacetime has our country been so well prepared.

Lower-cost military

"While we have made our armed forces more effective, we have lowered the cost of defense. A continuous check on budget spending has effectively pared away the unessentials of our defense program. Today, the price we pay for armed security is billions less than the price of defense in 1952!

Internal security strengthened

"In the last four years, we have cleared America of more security risks than ever before. We shall continue to expose any person who seeks to destroy the American way of life; we shall protect the innocent individual from unlawful slander.

Stronger friends abroad

"Today's world, where oceans are crossed in hours, makes it imperative that we keep our allies strong—and not in military strength alone. We are helping other nations realize their own potentialities — political, economic and military. We are looking to the day when our friends can realize their own capacities in a world of freedom and mutual respect.

Relations with the communist world

"We are striving to bridge the great chasm that separates America from the people behind the Iron Curtain. Without relaxing our guard, we are exchanging ideas with Communist countries, in the hope that eventually we can share with them an international understanding based on truth, peace and justice."

Vets May Be Fined For Violating Homestead Act

BATON ROUGE —UP— Penalties may be levied on veterans who claimed more than five years of the special homestead exemption, a Baton Rouge State-Times story revealed yesterday.

The newspaper story said violations are widespread in some areas of Louisiana. The violations are based on a partial survey of tax rolls on file with the Louisiana Tax Commission and the state auditor.

The story said that "the extra $3,000 exemption permitted vets is not the important factor in the family budget of those veterans as might appear on the surface.

Many veterans, the survey showed, have already exceeded the maximum benefits provided for in the constitution.

A policy of assessing property at only a fractional portion of its real value has kept the evaluation of veterans' homesteads well below the $5,000 exemption made in most cases.

The law provides that eligible veterans or dependents are limited to a period of five years for exemptions after which the "normal" homestead exemption of $2,000 will apply.

In East Baton Rouge parish, tax records showed that of the 50 veterans claiming the special exemption in 1950, 47 are still on the veterans' exemption list for 1956.

According to the story, the law provides that veterans who have falsely claimed exemption for a period greater than the five years permitted may be liable under the false swearing act.

And assessors who have permitted such exemptions may be liable for the amount of taxes lost by such exemption, plus penalties, the story said.

Rules Laid Down In Search For Texas U. Coach

AUSTIN Tex. (UP) — University of Texas regents laid down ground rules today in their search for a football coach and athletic director but said they are not interested in "the win-at-any-cost" type of coach.

The board of regents met with the athletic council to agree on procedure for finding a coach to succeed Ed Price, who resigned this week effective Dec. 31 and an athletic director to succeed Dana X. Bible(who retires to modified service next Sept. 1.

Regents chairman Tom Sealy announced that no one has been approached by University of Texas officials, and said names of candidates or prospects will not be revealed.

Sealy said that only when the qualifications of available persons are thoroughly studied will it be determined whether a combina-determined whether a combination athletic director-head football coach will be made or whether there will be separate appointments.

Warren a clerk in headquarters company of the 188th airborne regiment's 2d battalion entered the army in July 1955 and arrived overseas last March.

Old Wooden Ear To Go On Trial Nov. 15.. Forgery

BATON ROUGE — UP — Ex-prison journalist William E. Sadler (Old Wooden Ear) will go to trial Nov. 15 charged with forgery, an offense which has helped keep him behind bars off and on since 1922.

Sadler pleaded innocent yesterday.

He received a pardon in May and went to work for the Opelousas Daily-World where he won acclaim as the writer of witty stories.

At Angola state penitentiary he published the "Angolite", prison paper, where his behind the bars crusades won him national publicity.

He is charged in connection with a $73.10 check, but when arrested in Savannah, Ga., in September, Baton Rouge police said he had helped cash at least 40 checks, each for $73.10.

Shortly after he was arrested, Emil Bock, former editor of the Texas state prison paper, was picked up on similar charges. Baton Rouge police said they used offset newspaper equipment to write the worthless payroll checks later cashed.

Briefly a free man in 1943, Sadler wrote a series of articles for a New Orleans paper. His articles, called "hell on Angola," exposed brutality at the prison. His series was credited as a factor in a cleanup and reform movement at the prison.

FLOATING PANELS SET IMPORTANT TREND TOWARD SOFTER SILHOUETTE

PATTERN A796
by Isabel Dobson

PROMINENT DESIGNER—Fashion's new entrance line — and one that looks to hold the stage from now through the coming resort season. Setting this important trend, the skirt that shows its back fullness in a totally new way — a floating panel of soft folds, stitched to the waist-cinching cummerbund. It's a pretty contradiction that Prominent American Designer Isabel Dobson has created: soft fullness against the starkly simple lines of the sheath dress itself. Many ways flattering —Miss Dobson suggests sewing in faille, satin, taffeta, or wool crepe (cummerbund and panel in the same fabric or contrasting, as you wish). For cruise and southern skies, fine silk would be equally lovely.

Pattern A796 is available in Misses' Sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, and 18. See pattern for yardage requirements.

Past And Present

By ED WHATLEY

Northeast Louisiana boasts the oldest organized city site in North America in Poverty Point on Bayou Macon near Epps. Aerial photographs of this area show six concentric octagonal ridges laid out like modern city streets. The site has been investigated by several prominent archeologists including Dr. James A. Ford of the American Museum of Natural History.

Time magazine, reporting Dr. Ford's findings December 5, 1955, said: "Correlating his information, Ford could reconstruct the history of Poverty Point as early as 10,000 years ago, he says, a very primitive people lived in the region. They left few relics except crude stone weapons. Then about 1,000 B. C. people of a superior culture must have come down from the north. They made beautiful flint spearheads, knew how to work copper."

"Those cultural traits closely resemble those of tribes that lived in northern Asia several thousand years ago, so Ford thinks that Asians crossed the Bering Strait before the time of Homer and eventually reached Louisiana. They may have conquered the primitives, imposed their religion upon them and forced them to build temples honoring a bird god."

Northeast Louisiana State college has a number of relics of the Poverty Point area in its museum. Among these are a number of boiling stones of clay, presumably used for cooking. These stones were heated and dropped into skin vessels with water and fed to gradually raise the temperature and so cook the feed.

Bolas weights, made of hematite ore and shaped like a modern engineer's plumbob with a hole in the narrow end, were used in clusters on the ends of thongs to entangle the feet of animals hunted for food.

Microflints, small flints with finely flaked edges, used in some unknown bone or weed industry are present in great numbers at the site.

Spearheads and beads show the fine quality of stonework among these early Louisianians.

Plans are now being developed for making this site a state park. Today a black topped road passes through Poverty Point, earliest occupied area in Louisiana. Why don't you visit this site and try to visualize the area as it was 3,000 years ago?

Fire Baptized Holiness Church Having Revival

The Fire Baptized Holiness Church (Wesley in Doctrine) located at Drew and North Fourth streets, West Monroe, announces a series of special revival services which start Sunday November 4 and run through November 18.

The evangelist who will bring the messages will be the pastor the Rev. Charles E. Douglas.

The pastor comes to Monroe from Parsons, Kans. and in the short time he has been pastor here he has made many friends and the new church is starting off with enthusiasm.

The public is cordially invited to all services

Memorial Church Of West Monroe Is Now 10 Years Old

The tenth anniversary of Memorial Presbyterian church, North Fourth and Mill streets, West Monroe, will be observed today. The original membership is given as 110.

The handsome edifice that serves this congregation is a monument to faithful endeavor of its loyal membership.

The first pastor was Rev. Charlie W. Robinson who assumed duties in 1947. A short time later he was elected superintendent of Home Missions in the Ouachita Presbytery in Arkansas. He was succeeded by the present church head, the Rev. Hugh E. Bradshaw who was assigned here in 1949. He has now completed seven and a half years of highly successful ministry.

Under his leadership the Sunday school at Highland chapel has been established, and attendance at this place and in the mother church is about 200. Women's groups have been formed and are highly successful and more than 470 have united with this church in the past seven years.

A cordial welcome awaits all at this church.

The state of Tennessee derives its name from the Cherokee Indian village of Tanasi.

VISITING EVANGELIST —The Rev. L. L. Morris, above, pastor of Greenacres Baptist church in Bastrop, will conduct a revival in the First Baptist church in Sterlington, starting November 5 and continuing through November 11. John Oldenburg, of Monroe, will lead the music. Morning services daily at 10 o'clock and evening worship at 7 p.m. The Rev. Arthur Nelson is pastor of this church.

Mission School Is Held Sundays Here

The School of Missions at the First Christian church continues to result in good attendance each Sunday evening, the time being from 6 to 8 p.m.

A supper period is held when light refreshments are served by the circles of Christian Women's Fellowship. This Sunday, members of women's group four will be hostesses.

Mrs. O. H. Robbins, librarian, will have on display current reading material on the theme of missions and selected issues of the missionary magazine, "World Call," which will portray appropriate material about mission projects in the United States.

A film concerning the Mexican Christian Institute in San Antonio will be shown.

A nursery for small children is provided. Miss Jean Bonham is director of the mission school.

Most people want to be good, although they may deny it. If you accuse them of being unloving, morbid, belligerent, impatient, unkind, evil, faithless, rough, uncontrolled, they would deeply resent the accusation. Goodness, in all its manifestations, is an ideal to which we naturally subscribe and aspire.

But how shall we be good? Shall it be by auto-suggestion or self-hypnosis? "Every day in every way I am getting better and better"? Shall it be by keeping a very careful guard on oneself, watching carefully lest one find himself breaking any of the rules of good behavior? Shall it be by retreating into a shell, away from the "world", so that no temptations may attack us? Shall it be by imitation of goodness in others?

Paul tells us that there is a better way than any of these: Let the Spirit bear fruit! Let the Spirit of Christ fill your life, and your life will bear the fruit of the Spirit. Instead of patching your life and prodding yourself, let the Spirit of God have freedom to lead you. The Spirit of Goodness will always bear good fruit. Then goodness will not be an artificial addition to your life, but the natural expression of your own best self.

Rev. Baird To Conduct Daily Revival Series

The Claiborne Baptist Church, West Monroe, which now has a new pastor the Rev. Loy E. Baird, is anticipating much progress for this church, situated on the Nelson De Freese road.

He is planning a revival that will be initiated Sunday, November 4 which is to be continued through November 11.

At this revival, which will be conducted by the pastor, who will bring stirring messages, Bruce Bairnsfather will be the Organist and the pastor's son, Loy E. Baird, will be soloist.

The Reverend Baird came to Claiborne from the pastorate of the Monroe street Baptist church in Bogalusa. He has held in years past pastorates at Dubach, Olla and Gibsland among other places. He states he regards Monroe and vicinity fondly for he has spent so many years of his life in the northeast section of the state.

He extends a cordial invitation to attend all services at the revival, each morning at 9:45 and each night at 7:30 p.m.

Chaplains Rank In Church Roday 'Forgotten Men'

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) —The work of chaplains in the armed services "constitutes a mission to America second to none but which the church at large does not understand," the Methodist commission on chaplains was told at a session here recently.

The Rev. John R. McLaughlin added in his report that the more than 600 Methodist chaplains minister to fully 600,000 persons of all faiths, comparable to 12 average districts of the church.

"This is a big undertaking," he said, "and too many Methodists are failing to catch the significance of the ministry that our chaplains alone can furnish to our young people today."

Dr. McLaughlin stressed the need for local churches to sponsor "an effective process of preinduction training for young people so they will be led to seek out the ministry of the chaplain when inducted into the military."

The commission adopted recommendations to strengthen the relation of chaplains to the church and are as follows:

1. That every Methodist chaplain in the United States be more closely identified with a local church
2. That the bishops be advised of the assignment of chaplains in their episcopal areas and that, in turn, the bishops be requested to include the chaplains in conference and activities of mutual interest.
3. That the bishops be requested to visit Methodist chaplains and servicemen on their bases as often as possible, particularly when overseas on church business.

The Council of Bishops also will be asked to authorize a ritual for the formal commissioning of ministers entering the chaplaincy, the ceremony to be performed by a bishop.

Receipts from local church offerings through the Fellowship of Suffering and Service, the commission's only means of support, totaled $166,966 during the last fiscal year.

WSCS Members Have Fall Meet, M'Guire Church

The Monroe District, Zone 1 fall meeting of W. S. C. S. was held the past week at the McGuire Methodist church. Reports were heard from the 12 member societies that make up this unit.

The district officers present made brief recommendations about the promotion of their work. These were: Mrs DeWitt Henry, Christian Social Relations; Mrs James T. Harris, missionary personnel; Mrs. E. R. Timmerman, student work; Miss Ola Mae Pennington, treasurer.

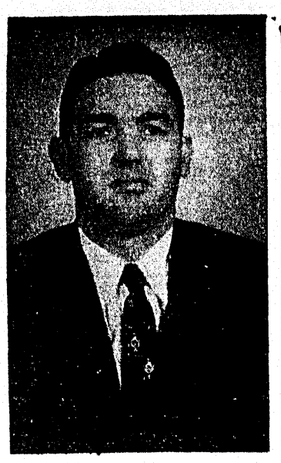

A playlet, "It Could Be You," was presented. The characters were: Mrs. Manley, a society matron, by Mrs. M. L. DeFreese; her conscience, an unexpected visitor, by Mrs. Jack Dew; Jane, a faithful servant, By Mrs. Doris Greene.

An interesting feature of the meeting was a talk by Mrs. A. J. Ensminger of Winnsboro who told of her trip to the World Federation of Methodist Women's meeting, held at Lake Junaluska, N. C., this summer.

This assembly meets every four years in one of the member countries and is a group of self-directing unit, and at present there are 31 national units throughout the world. The United States unit does its work through the department of Christian Social Relations Work in Home Fields, and Department of Work in Foreign Fields.

Other features of the program included a scripture reading by Mrs. D. V. Loflin Jr., a vocal solo, by Mrs. James T. Harris; and a short business session, presided over by Mrs. Loflin, the zone leader.

Fairbanks Baptist Church In Revival

Revival services begin today at the Fairbanks Baptist church. Rev. Udell Smith, Baptist student union director for the Louisiana Baptist convention, is the evangelist.

Reverend Smith is held in high regard for his ability and consecration and has performed an outstanding work among college students in this state.

Services will be at 6 a.m. each morning and at 7 p.m. nightly. The public is cordially invited. The series will be continued through November 11.

Sir Robert Grant, Writer Remembered

The hymn of the month for November is "O, Worship the King, All Glorious Above." Sir Robert Grant, at one time a member of Parliament, will be chiefly remembered as a hymn writer. The one chosen for our study is a metrical version of a portion of Psalm 104, and is universally and constantly used. Let us note the names of the Deity used in first and last stanzas of this hymn — "King," "Shield," "Defender", "Ancient of Days," "Maker" "Redeemer," and "Friend." The tune Lyons is arranged from the music of Johann Michael Haydn (1737-1806).

He was an Austrian, a less distinguished musician than his brother Joseph, first known as a boy soprano, then as a violinist and a pianist, and later organist and chorister. His best works are found among his religious compositions, many offertries, masses and free rhythms for congregational singing.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am a young woman who is deeply in love with a very fine young man. I don't believe he has ever noticed me. I have been taught that it is forward and rude for a young lady to attempt to interest a young man, and yet I admire him so much. To complicate my problem, I am a Christian and active in the work of our church. I wonder if an aggressiveness would reflect on my Christian character? P. E.

ANSWER: Unfortunately for many young women, the customs of our society make it difficult for them to make such contacts. I do not believe it would be worth the effort if you did not know the moral and spiritual character of the young man. Neither would you be happy if he did not share with you the Christian faith and joy of service for Christ in the church.

The book of Ruth presents one of the most deeply moving love stories in the Bible, yet Ruth was forward and aggressive, although she remained a lady. There is nothing essentially wrong in your making the effort to meet the young man, and the most natural way is through Christian friends who must know him. It is certain that if your life is in God's hand, you can commit this problem into His gracious care and guidance. He can arrange the circumstances of life so that you will have always the proper opportunities. This is more than a problem of tactics and strategy. It is a spiritual problem. Pray, asking God's will, He will show you!

Fire Baptized Holiness Church Having Revival

The Fire Baptized Holiness Church (Wesley in Doctrine) located at Drew and North Fourth streets, West Monroe, announces a series of special revival services which start Sunday November 4 and run through November 18.

The evangelist who will bring the messages will be the pastor the Rev. Charles E. Douglas.

The pastor comes to Monroe from Parsons, Kans. and in the short time he has been pastor here he has made many friends and the new church is starting off with enthusiasm.

The public is cordially invited to all services

Memorial Church Of West Monroe Is Now 10 Years Old

The tenth anniversary of Memorial Presbyterian church, North Fourth and Mill streets, West Monroe, will be observed today. The original membership is given as 110.

The handsome edifice that serves this congregation is a monument to faithful endeavor of its loyal membership.

The first pastor was Rev. Charlie W. Robinson who assumed duties in 1947. A short time later he was elected superintendent of Home Missions in the Ouachita Presbytery in Arkansas. He was succeeded by the present church head, the Rev. Hugh E. Bradshaw who was assigned here in 1949. He has now completed seven and a half years of highly successful ministry.

Under his leadership the Sunday school at Highland chapel has been established, and attendance at this place and in the mother church is about 200. Women's groups have been formed and are highly successful and more than 470 have united with this church in the past seven years.

A cordial welcome awaits all at this church.

The state of Tennessee derives its name from the Cherokee Indian village of Tanasi.

VISITING EVANGELIST —The Rev. L. L. Morris, above, pastor of Greenacres Baptist church in Bastrop, will conduct a revival in the First Baptist church in Sterlington, starting November 5 and continuing through November 11. John Oldenburg, of Monroe, will lead the music. Morning services daily at 10 o'clock and evening worship at 7 p.m. The Rev. Arthur Nelson is pastor of this church.

Mission School Is Held Sundays Here

The School of Missions at the First Christian church continues to result in good attendance each Sunday evening, the time being from 6 to 8 p.m.

A supper period is held when light refreshments are served by the circles of Christian Women's Fellowship. This Sunday, members of women's group four will be hostesses.

Mrs. O. H. Robbins, librarian, will have on display current reading material on the theme of missions and selected issues of the missionary magazine, "World Call." which will portray appropriate material about mission projects in the United States.

A film concerning the Mexican Christian Institute in San Antonio will be shown.

A nursery for small children is provided. Miss Jean Bonham is director of the mission school.

Rev. Baird To Conduct Daily Revival Series

The Claiborne Baptist Church, West Monroe, which now has a new pastor the Rev. Loy E. Baird, is anticipating much progress for this church, situated on the Nelson De Freese road.

He is planning a revival that will be initiated Sunday, November 4 which is to be continued through November 11.

At this revival, which will be conducted by the pastor, who will bring stirring messages, Bruce Bairnsfather will be the Organist and the pastor's son, Loy E. Baird, will be soloist.

The Reverend Baird came to Claiborne from the pastorate of the Monroe street Baptist church in Bogalusa. He has held in years past pastorates at Dubach, Olla and Gibsland among other places. He states he regards Monroe and vicinity fondly for he has spent so many years of his life in the northeast section of the state.

He extends a cordial invitation to attend all services at the revival, each morning at 9:45 and each night at 7:30 p.m.

Chaplains Rank In Church Roday 'Forgotten Men'

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special) —The work of chaplains in the armed services "constitutes a mission to America second to none but which the church at large does not understand," the Methodist commission on chaplains was told at a session here recently.

The Rev. John R. McLaughlin added in his report that the more than 600 Methodist chaplains minister to fully 600,000 persons of all faiths, comparable to 12 average districts of the church.

"This is a big undertaking," he said, "and too many Methodists are failing to catch the significance of the ministry that our chaplains alone can furnish to our young people today."

Dr. McLaughlin stressed the need for local churches to sponsor "an effective process of preinduction training for young people so they will be led to seek out the ministry of the chaplain when inducted into the military."

The commission adopted recommendations to strengthen the relation of chaplains to the church and are as follows:

1. That every Methodist chaplain in the United States be more closely identified with a local church

2. That the bishops be advised of the assignment of chanlains in their episcopal areas and that, in turn, the bishops be requested to include the chaplains in conference and activities of mutual interest.

3. That the bishops be requested to visit Methodist chaplains and servicemen on their bases as often as possible, particularly when overseas on church business.

The Council of Bishops also will be asked to authorize a ritual for the formal commissioning of ministers entering the chaplaincy, the ceremony to be performed by a bishop.

Receipts from local church offerings through the Fellowship of Suffering and Service, the commission's only means of support, totaled $166,966 during the last fiscal year.

WSCS Members Have Fall Meet, M'Guire Church

The Monroe District, Zone 1 fall meeting of W. S. C. S. was held the past week at the McGuire Methodist church. Reports were heard from the 12 member societies that make up this unit.

The district officers present made brief recommendations about the promotion of their work. These were: Mrs DeWitt Henry, Christian Social Relations; Mrs. James T. Harris, missionary personnel; Mrs. E. R. Timmerman, student work; Miss Ola Mae Pennington, treasurer.

A playlet, "It Could Be You," was presented. The characters were: Mrs. Manley, a society matron, by Mrs. M. L. DeFreese; her conscience, an unexpected visitor, by Mrs. Jack Dew; Jane, a faithful servant, By Mrs. Doris Greene.

An interesting feature of the meeting was a talk by Mrs. A. J. Ensminger of Winnsboro who told of her trip to the World Federation of Methodist Women's meeting, held at Lake Junaluska, N. C., this summer.

This assembly meets every four years in one of the member countries and is a group of self-directing unit, and at present there are 31 national units throughout the world. The United States unit does its work through the department of Christian Social Relations Work in Home Fields, and Department of Work in Foreign Fields.

Other features of the program included a scripture reading by Mrs. D. V. Loflin Jr., a vocal solo, by Mrs. James T. Harris; and a short business session, presided over by Mrs. Loflin, the zone leader.

REV. E. L. HAYES

Hayes To Pastor Baptist Church At Transylvania

TRANSYLVANIA, Nov. 3 (Special) — Rev. E. L. Hayes accepted the pastorate of the Transylvania Baptist Church and moved into the community last week with his wife and their three children, Sue, Eddie, Jr. and Patricia.

Reverend Hayes is a native of Union parish and attended Louisiana College, following his graduation from high school. He comes to Transylvania from the Liberty Church at Linville. Prior to serving as their pastor he preached at a Baptist mission near Vidalia, and also served the Baptist church at Morrow.

Fairbanks Baptist Church In Revival

Revival services begin today at the Fairbanks Baptist church. Rev. Udell Smith, Baptist student union director for the Louisiana Baptist convention, is the evangelist.

Reverend Smith is held in high regard for his ability and consecration and has performed an outstanding work among college students in this state.

Services will be at 6 a.m. each morning and at 7 p.m. nightly. The public is cordially invited. The series will be continued through November 11.

Sir Robert Grant, Writer Remembered

The hymn of the month for November is "O, Worship the King, All Glorious Above." Sir Robert Grant, at one time a member of Parliament, will be chiefly remembered as a hymn writer. The one chosen for our study is a metrical version of a portion of Psalm 104, and is universally and constantly used. Let us note the names of the Deity used in first and last stanzas of this hymn — "King," "Shield," "Defender", "Ancient of Days," "Maker" "Redeemer," and "Friend." The tune Lyons is arranged from the music of Johann Michael Haydn (1737-1806).

He was an Austrian, a less distinguished musician than his brother Joseph, first known as a boy soprano, then as a violinist and a pianist, and later organist and chorister. His best works are found among his religious compositions, many offertries, masses and free rhythms for congregational singing.

Bible Words for Today

GALATIANS 5:22 — "But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control . . ." (RSV)

Most people want to be good, although they may deny it. If you accuse them of being unloving, morbid, belligerent, impatient, unkind, evil, faithless, rough, uncontrolled, they would deeply resent the accusation. Goodness, in all its manifestations, is an ideal to which we naturally subscribe and aspire.

But how shall we be good? Shall it be by auto-suggestion or self-hypnosis? "Every day in every way I am getting better and better"? Shall it be by keeping a very careful guard on oneself, watching carefully lest one find himself breaking any of the rules of good behavior? Shall it be by retreating into a shell, away from the "world", so that no temptations may attack us? Shall it be by imitation of goodness in others?

Paul tells us that there is a better way than any of these: Let the Spirit bear fruit! Let the Spirit of Christ fill your life, and your life will bear the fruit of the Spirit. Instead of patching your life and prodding yourself, let the Spirit of God have freedom to lead you. The Spirit of Goodness will always bear good fruit. Then goodness will not be an artificial addition to your life, but the natural expression of your own best self.

CHRISTAIN SCIENCE
No. 2nd at Auburn
"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the lesson - sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 4, 1956. The golden text is: "O Israel, return unto the Lord thy God; for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity" (Hos. 14 :1).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson - sermon is the following from the Bible: "Lo, this only have I found, that God hath made man upright; but they have sought out many inventions" (Eccl. 7:29).
The lesson - sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "When man is spoken of as made in God's image, it is not sinful and sickly mortal man who is referred to, but the ideal man, reflecting God's likeness.".

AFTER HOUR DRINKS

PORTSMOUTH England —(UP) — Magistrates granted a license for drinks to be served after hours today at the annual dinner dance of the Hampshire County Temperance League.

Split English muffins, spread the cut surfaces with a Pizza topping and then bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven for five minutes or so.

The Palisades, which make up the lower part of the west bank of the Hudson River are said by geologists to contain rocks about 150,000,000 years old.

Concert Pianist Slated To Play At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, Nov. 3 (Special) — Natchitoches' Community Concert association will launch its 1956-57 season here on Nov. 14, with the presentation of brilliant concert pianist and recording artist Leonard Pennario, who will appear at 8:15 p.m. in the Northwestern State college fine arts auditorium.

Three other outstanding performances will be presented during the forthcoming months, according to association president E. L. McClung, III. On Jan. 29, vocalist Jan Rubes will be here, to be followed on March 4 by the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra and "Gala Performance," a group of celebrated singers and dancers from New York City, scheduled to appear on March 20.

Pennario, one of the most electrifying and popular pianists in America, has appeared as soloist with virtually all of the top symphonic organizations in this country and his performance in recitals and on records have firmly established his reputation as an artist of glittering technique and mature, masterful musicianship.

For several years now the artist's recordings for Capitol records have been at the top of the records' best seller list. He is also a favorite on radio and television and movie goers will soon hear this versatile performer's original composition "Midnight on the Newport Cliffs" as the theme of the forthcoming film "Julie" starring Doris Day and Louis Jourdan. Mr. Pennario will play on the sound track. He was also heard playing for Joan Fontaine in the motion picture "September Affair."

European audiences have also succumbed to his dazzling virtuosity. In 1952 he made his initial tour through Holland, France, England and Italy, which climaxed in a sold-out house at the Salle Gaveau in Paris. In the spring of 1954 he was an outstanding success in Honolulu.

Last season he presented his eighth and most successful New York Town Hall recital, and was guest artist with seven major symphony orchestras including those of Denver, Rhode Island, Tulsa, St. Louis and Southern California, and climaxed an exciting season of concertizing, playing the Bartok Concerto No. 3 with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra. The Cincinnati Enquirer critic noted: "His is a dazzling talent with the technical power of ten pianists, the precision of one very excellent pianist, the poise of a master."

Pennario's extensive engagements this season will include appearances with major symphony orchestras, re - engagement with the Honolulu symphony, and one of his largest recital tours to date. During the summer this distinguished young virtuoso won additional acclaim in appearances at the Brevard Festival in North Carolina, the famous Ravinia summer series in Chicago and at the Hollywood Bowl.

His debut with the New York Philharmonic - Symphony in 1943, which through the years has been followed by other guest appearances, was hailed as "brilliant" by the New York Herald Tribune's eminent critic Virgil Thomson. Shortly after that, his career was interrupted by the war. Three years and three bronze stars later, Pennario resumed his career with a coast - to - coast racital tour. Critics and public alike agreed that not one aspect of his great talent had been lost.

Ezio Pinza was a champ bicycle racer before becoming a Metropolitan Opera and Broadway musical comedy star.

U. S. Attorneys Told To Watch For Vote Fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — All U. S. attorneys are under orders to watch for violation of federal election laws in the general election balloting next Tuesday.

The orders came after the Justice Department charged some southern states are denying Negroes the right to vote.

In Jackson, Miss., U. S. Atty. Robert Hauberg said his office would open one hour earlier Tuesday and stay open two hours later than usual.

In New Orleans, U. S. Attorney Hepburn Many said his office and FBI agents would be on duty before the polls open at 6 p.m. until after the votes are counted or "the situation has returned to normal."

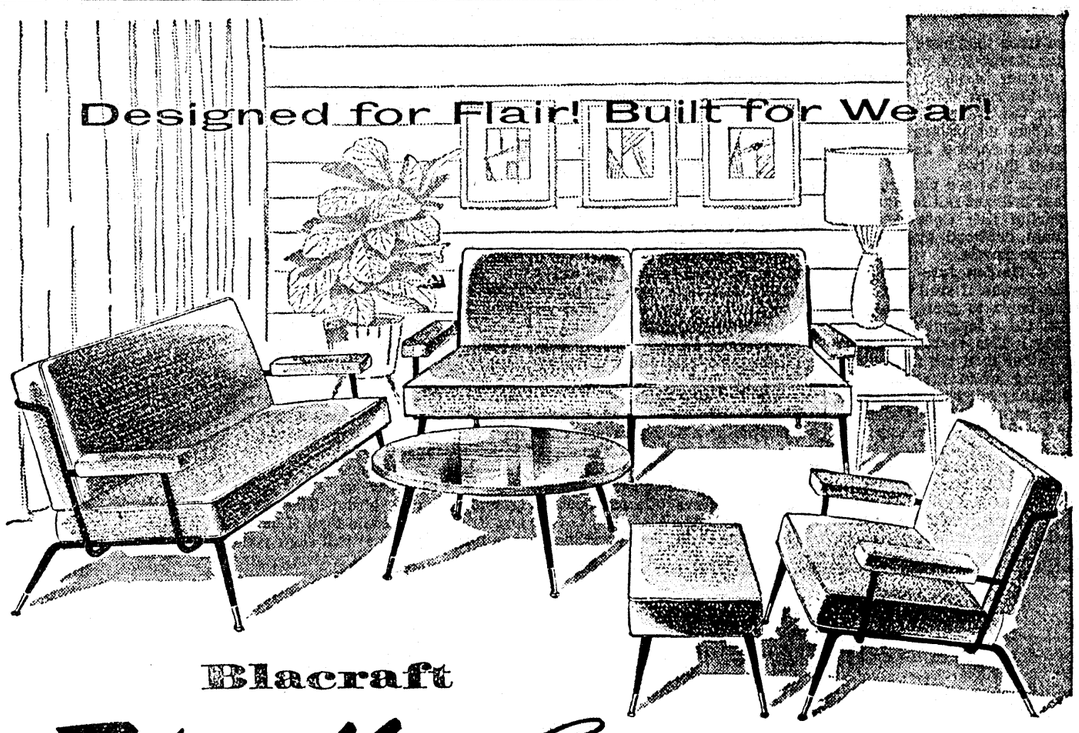

Any reports of violations will be screened by the U. S. attorney and turned over to the FBI.

Garden Jobs For The Weeks Ahead

Is there anybody who has an overflow of daylilies and iris? If so, please call me. There are so many new home owners needing just what you're about to discard. Won't you divide?

All America Camellias

"Cinderella" is the first camellia to win the All - America honor. These can be purchased from a few nurseries in the south. Cinderella buds are long and pointed and are wrinkled and crinkly, rose pink with veining of deep crimson. The edges are bordered with white and notched. Some say this flower reminds them of an old - fashioned valentine with its lacy ruffles.

The blooms are about four inches in width and three inches deep. Cinderella is a free bloom; the plants are vigorous. It grows rather stocky. We're glad to say this camellia is a hardy plant. The Cinderella has been grown successfully in Lafayette.

A Correction

Some gardeners told me last week that frost had nothing to do with leaves turning color in the fall, so away I went to the library to look up this mysterious process. It seems that as the days grow shorter and cooler, leaves just manufacture less green matter. When there's no green, naturally the yellow becomes more evident.

Those trees that have more sugar in the leaves turn red when the green matter is no longer there. Some of the reds and yellows mix and thus the different colors. Because frosts do usually come as the leaves turn, we have always associated the two.

For those who are planting trees and want brilliant fall foliage, here is a partial list: Chinese tallow, sweet gum, dogwood, maples, camphor, crape myrtle.

Garden Jobs

As the perennial seed you planted early begin to grow, pinch out the tops. (Like larkspur, cornflower, poppy.) This makes the plant husky, rather than tall and skinny. Next spring when the perennials grow tall they fall over in the beds, when the rain and winds start.

After your chrysanthemums finish blooming, cut off the old tops so plants will make a good root growth for next year's plants.

The little sweet alyssum is a carpet of color now, making you wish you had planted some seed early. You can plant now for later bloom.

You can still plant sweet pea seed and any other spring blooming annuals. Early planting is best, then you get early blooms. These plants do not take the sun well next May, so January and February planting is hardly worth while.

When planting bulbs, don't forget the Dutch iris. They come in colors of white, blue and yellow. They bloom early and are lovely in arrangements as well as in the garden.

When transplanting spring blooming perennials such as daisies, remember this is not the time to transplant the summer and fall blooming ones. They should be left undisturbed now and divided in the spring. This includes chrysanthemums, false dragonhead, stokesia, fall blooming salvia, and others.

If you have a fig tree, a good mulch of leaves is excellent for protecting the shallow roots. Pile the mulch about six inches high, beginning six inches from the trunk of the tree and extend slightly beyond the ends of the branches.

Fences For Privacy

As patios, outdoor living and eating grow more popular, privacy becomes more necessary. The Lon Heuers, 1624 Lexington, Monroe, solved their enclosure needs with a stockade fence. This is the fencing that comes with the small pickets wired together. It is purchased by the foot. You roll it up, bring it home, unroll and fasten to posts. Martha and Lon used cedar posts and set them in cement. The posts had been treated against rotting in the ground.

The fence shuts off the clothesline and garbage can from view and gives a lovely background to the patio, also built by the owners.

Martha says Lon, being a perfectionist, the patio job took quite a while, but it shows the fine workmanship. A smilax vine was planted on the fence and spills over on the patio side. Mr. Roddy brought the vine from the woods. Isn't this a comfortable, attractive, "homey" looking picture?

Food News

The price of beef dropped, so now we can enjoy a few of those cuts from the hind quarter. The best values, budget wise, continue to be in the baby beef or heavy calves with some stores offering special features in mature beef.

Mrs. Housewife, here are your beef terms and what they mean:

(1) Grass-fed beef refers to cattle or beef raised on grass with no special care or feed. The meat is dry and lean.

(2) Grain - fed beef refers to cattle or beef that has been fed grain.

(3) Aged beef refers to beef held under controlled temperature and moisture conditions for some time. The beef turns darker in color and becomes more tender. It usually costs more per pound.

(4) Baby - beef or beef from heavy calves is meat from animals usually weighing 450 to 600 pounds. It is lean, mild flavored and needs more seasoning.

You'll find pork loins, roast, picnics, baking hams, and sausage wearing attractive price tags as more hogs are coming to market. Chickens and turkeys continue to stay budget - wise. Just about all your favorite Thanksgiving foods are on the November plentiful fods list.

Your Open House programs for next week are as follows: Monday and Tuesday, Alice Tedlie and Catherine Hoyt from Franklin parish will build a book case; Wednesday, Mrs. Jardine will bring the flower arrangements from the Fifth district Garden Center and Peggy Garnett will show us about our Ouachita parish birds; Thursday and Friday the candle man (I have misplaced his name) will show you how to make Christmas candles. Stand by with pencil and paper and get all his instructions. You enjoyed his short program last year. His candle making instructions will be just in time for your bazaars.

Something you'll not want to miss is Mrs. Lloyd M. White who will give an illustrated lecture on "Philosophy Through Your Hat." We heard Mrs. White at Farm and Home Week last summer and believe me, she throws out homespun philosophy farmed in lively humor. This hat demonstration has been given two thousand times, one of those on "I've Got A Secret." The Women's Medical Auxiliary is sponsoring Mrs. White on November 8 at 2:00 p.m., Northeast State college. Immediately following the lecture the auxiliary will give a tea (for those attending) at the president's home, 221 Chauvin. Get a ticket from any doctor's wife or at the door.

See you next Sunday.

PRIVACY in the yard of the Lon Huers, 1624 Lexington, is provided by the stockade fence and smilax vine covering which spills over on the patio side. Landscaping Tips For Beginners

With the landscaping season here again, it is well to consider what kind of country and climate we live in. The woodland landscape is our natural inheritance here in the south. Even though your city lot may have been scraped bare of everything God intended to grow on it, your plot of land was once a part of the primeval forest. This is why the woodland type of landscaping is one of the easiest for us to have; it belongs here.

Even if you have to put everything back onto a bare plot, including the topsoil and the trees, after you have done, your new forest will still be the cheapest kind of landscape to maintain. It is amazing that in spite of the fact that we see the woods full of shrubs and wild flowers every day, people will persist in the belief that "you cannot grow anything under trees! If you are willing to feed the trees and the flowers with an adequate amount of food, many beautiful plants will grow under trees.

The ideal landscaping, from the point of view of living on a piece of property from day to day, is a landscape that provides you with shade around and out from the house and open spaces with grass near the house. The lower limbs of shade trees can be removed to allow the air to flow freely around the house and to accommodate even small trees and large shrubs like camellias and azaleas. Flowering shrubs that need more light like the edge of the woods and will bloom there even if they are shaded part of the day.

The four seasons here in the south are very well defined not only by the weather but by our favorite plants. In fact, it is the plants that really define the seasons since we are apt to have mild weather in winter and wintry mixed with warm in the spring and fall.

The majority of the broadleaf evergreens will grow in the shade of large trees high above them. When the leaves come down in late fall, our landscape takes on an entirely new aspect, a new picture of different shades of rich evergreen. The sasanquas and the japonica camellias provide flowers on the evergreens from October till April, and there are several fragrant flowered evergreens like elaeagnuses and the flowering olives.

The long, stretched - out spring lasts from some time after the middle of February till the height of the daylilies brings in the summer three or four months later. Summers are tough; they are mostly composed of droughts interspersed with heavy rainy spells. It is hard to say just when summer ends, but fall is on the way when nights begin to become cool some time in September. Then comes the glorious autumn. Perhaps nowhere in the world is there a better autumn than in the southern states. Even when winter returns, however, there are many more sunny than dark days. As soon as we become familiar with them, southern gardeners will be growing the winter iris, several kinds of winter crocuses, hoop-petticoat narcissi and a number of shrubs in addition to the hardier camellias that flower in winter.

Geraniums Can Grow 7 Inches Over Week End

By Annabel Atkinson Pankey

How would you like to be able to buy an acid which you could use to make your geraniums shoot up six or seven inches over the week-end? Would you like a convenient color-fan to help you choose blooms for those shaded arrangements you dote on? These things may be closer than you dream.

The startling potentialities of an acid which causes an almost frightening growth rate in horticultural plants and the possibilities of a recently completed multi-toned color fan were two exciting facets or research brought to the attention of horticultrists during the 11th Annual Congress of The American Horticultural Council held Oct. 21, 22, and 23 at Kellog Center, a modern laboratory hotel for student training on the Michigan State University campus at East Lansing.

About 150 persons, including members of the Garden Writers' Association of America, an affiliate, attended the congress which is held for the purpose of horticultural progress discussion and "to give members the opportunity to exchange ideas with national and world horticultural leaders".

How these objectives are achieved was demonstrated at the session where a carefully-planned schedule was closely followed.

During the course of the convention, the delegates, representing every section of the country, voted that a committee study possible union with the American Horticultural Society and at the closing dinner five citations were bestowed for outstanding horticultural contributions. Honors went to Ethel Bailey, N. Y.; Mark Parthemore, Pa.; George Pring, Mo.; William Morden, Manitoba, Canada and the Ferry-Morse Seed Company.

The congress' opening address was delivered by Dr. Harold Tukey who spoke on "A Horticultrist Abroad". Dr. Tukey, who, sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, recently toured 14 southeastern Asiatic countries, illustrated his talk with beautiful colored slides. He stressed the avid desire for learning which he said was wide spread and noted the fast advance of horticulture in the east. He announced that in West Pakistan, 27,000,000 acres are under irrigation.

Among the meeting's highpoints was a discourse on the present results of seven years of work with color — the Munsell Color Fan — by Dorothy Nickerson, agricultural marketing specialist of the U. S. Depart of Agriculture. Miss Nickerson, making it clear that her work is not finished, showed her audience color chart slides and a fan (another is also being developed) which, if and when it reaches the general public, will no doubt prove to be extremely valuable.

Of several research reports presented by advanced graduates, one on gibberelic acid given by John Bukovac of M. S. U. proved to be especialy interesting. "The Fantastic effects of Gibberelic Acid on Horticultural Plants" was the title of this report and the effects of the acid, a metabolic by-product of soil fungus discovered in the Orient, were vividly depicted by Bukovac through the use of plant slides taken before and after acid application. Amazing growth a day or so following application was noted.

Other congress features encompassed campus greenhouse and botanic garden tours and a demonstration luncheon, "Let's Eat Flowers" which was accompanied by a talk by Kay Savage, food editor of the Detroit Free Press. The luncheon menu offered, among other foods, rose bud fruit cup, toasted sunflower seeds, muffins with chrysanthemum petals, tomato slices served with a boiled chrysanthemum bud dressing and a salad studded with cooked taxus berries.

A number of magazine editors, including Edwin F. Steffeck, Popular Gardening; John R. Whitting, Flower Grower and Gretchen Harshbarger, Household Magazine were present at the congress which afforded excellent opportunities for informal discussion among editors, free lance garden writers and horticultural scientists.

Opening lead: king of clubs.

Declarer in today's hand required four entries to dummy when on the surface there appeared to be only three. However, proper management of dummy's side suits would have provided him with the necessary number of entries to suit his purpose.

Agaist the contract of four hearts West led the king of clubs which was taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer had four potential losers; two spades, one club, and a diamond. At least one of the spade losers could be avoided by establishment of a long diamond; so declarer immediately set about developing that suit. He played the ace and another diamond. East won, cashed the jack of clubs and shifted to a spade. Declarer won with the ace, entered dummy with the 10 of hearts and led another diamond, ruffing high in the closed hand. Had diamonds divided 3-3 declarer woul now be in position to claim the rest of the tricks, but when the suit broke 4-2 (the natural expectancy declarer found himself unable to obtain any discards and submitted to a one trick set.

North was sympathetic. Neither of them observed that declarer could have, in effect, created an additional entry to dummy by a slightly different method of timing the development of the diamond suit.

Declarer should have observed that if diamonds were 4-2 it would be necessary to lead that suit three times from dummy. Retaining the ace of diamonds would have provided the necessary entry. Upon winning the first trick in clubs declarer should lead a low diamond from dummy. East will win, presumably cash a club, and then shift to a spade. Declarer takes with the ace, cashes one high trump in his hand, leads a diamond to the ace and a diamond back, ruffing high. Declarer leads a heart to the 10 and then ruffs a diamond in his own hand, establishing dummy's fifth card of that suit. Dummy still retains the king of hearts as an entry to cash the diamond upon which a spade is discarded.

Nov. 14 Set As Challenge Date For Sou. Bell

JACKSON, Miss Nov. 3 (AP)—Southern Bell must wait until Nov. 14 before challenging the Public Service Commission's case against a telephone rate increase in Mississippi.

The commission finished presenting its case last night and recessed until Nov. 14. Southern Bell, which wants a 2½ million dollar boost, presented its side in August.

The telephone company's next step will be to cross examine commission witnesses and offer rebuttal testimony.

The rate increase already has been put into effect. Southern Bell has been bonded, however, and will have to refund its customers if the commission rules against the increase.

Commission attorneys yesterday questioned Southern Bell witnesses, trying to tear down their testimony in favor of an increase.

Witness Russ Johnson of Jackson, president of the Deposit Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., had testified that Southern Bell is entitled to the increase on the basis of a study of the cost of capital to the company.

But commission attorneys, in their questioning, tried to show that the rate of return should be based upon the needs of the company, not the capital.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Nov. 13 Is Date Set For Fifth District Meeting

One of the most important events on the Garden Club Calendar is the annual Fifth District Meeting of the Louisiana Federated Garden Clubs. The date is Tuesday, November 13, and the place is the Concordia Parish Court House, Vidalia, La. The Ferriday and Vidalia Garden Clubs serving as hostesses. There will be an important business meeting and election of officers, followed by a luncheon at the Stanton Hall Carriage House, Natchez, Miss. After luncheon there will be a tour of three antebellum houses in Natchez. Registration begins at 9 a.m. with the meeting in session at 9:45 a.m. Cost of Registration, luncheon in Natchez and the tour is $3.50. Please send in your reservations by November 10th to Mrs. Wilton Dale, President, Vidalia Garden Club. We hope there will be a large representation from all of the Garden Clubs in the Fifth District.

The flower Show at the Center this week was staged by members of the East Carroll Garden Club, Lake Providence. All exhibits were point scored by an accredited judge. The Rev. Newton Griffith four varieties of Chrysanthemums in the blue ribbon class. There were White Frieda, Pink Frieda, a large lavender pink, Prince Charming, yellow and Hilda Bergen, a bronze exhibition type. All were outstanding in their beauty and greatly admired.

In the arrangement section Mrs. K. E. Mangum captured top honors. The arrangements were all in the blue ribbon class also. Mrs. Mangum created a triangular line mass design in a color harmony of red-violet into maroon. The triangular pattern was achieved with placements of pussy willow and dark red canna leaves. Red-violet pom pom mums were massed within the triangular line. Coleus in a red-violet shade was placed low in the arrangement to cover the rim of the container. Very lovely. Mrs. C. A. Marlette received second place award. For a container Mrs. Marlete used a white antique compote set on a black pedestal. A white figurine of a seated child was placed to the left of the arrangement adding to its effectiveness. The arrangement was a Hogarth line-mass (the lazy S) beautifully executed as to design. The Hogarth line was created with pedilanthus and violet barberry clusters. The line was enhanced with small pink roses and lavender daisy type mums. Massed into the center of the design were pale yellow marigolds and deep rose zinnias. The pastel color theme was most appealing.

Mr. E. D. Schneider was awarded third place for her composition of dried plant materials. The container was a lovely Chinese brass bowl set on a teakwood stand. The color scheme was tan, yellow and brown. Sea-oats and wheat were arranged in a triangular pattern followed by the beige flowers of nandina and golden yarrow at the base. The low bowl was filled with cluster of eucalyptus pods. Most effective, staged against a chartreuse background.

Mrs. Mangum exhibited our "extra" of the week. Her container was a small cypress knee set on a slab of log. The triangular pattern was of brown pencil cat-tails, and roadside grass with elaeagnus foliage in a light brown shade. Straw flowers in colors ranging from lavender, yellow, bronze and red completed this colorful composition.

Another event that is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest is the presentation of Mrs. Lloyd M. White, Kansas City, Missouri, by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society. The title of the lecture is "Philosophy Through Your Hat", and the date is Thursday, November, 8, 1956 at 2 p. m. Northeast College Auditorium. Immediately following the lecture a tea with the doctors' wives as hostesses will be held at the home of the College President at 221 Chauvin on the college campus. Homespun philosophy framed in lovely humor is expressed when Mrs. White dons each hat, with its respective name and character from her remarkable collection, throughout her lecture. This is going to be a real treat, don't miss it. Incidentally this is the first benefit ever given by the Auxiliary. Proceeds will be given to the Nursing Scholarship Fund and other worthy projects. Price of ticket includes the tea. Don't miss it.

Garden Jobs For The Weeks Ahead

Is there anybody who has an overflow of daylilies and iris? If so, please call me. There are so many new home owners needing just what you're about to discard. Won't you divide?

All America Camellias

"Cinderella" is the first camellia to win the All - America honor. These can be purchased from a few nurseries in the south. Cinderella buds are long and pointed and are wrinkled and crinkly, rose pink with veining of deep crimson. The edges are bordered with white and notched. Some say this flower reminds them of an old - fashioned valentine with its lacy ruffles.

The blooms are about four inches in width and three inches deep. Cinderella is a free bloom; the plants are vigorous. It grows rather stocky. We're glad to say this camellia is a hardy plant. The Cinderella has been grown successfully in Lafayette.

A Correction

Some gardeners told me last week that frost had nothing to do with leaves turning color in the fall, so away I went to the library to look up this mysterious process. It seems that as the days grow shorter and cooler, leaves just manufacture less green matter. When there's no green, naturally the yellow becomes more evident.

Those trees that have more sugar in the leaves turn red when the green matter is no longer there. Some of the reds and yellows mix and thus the different colors. Because frosts do usually come as the leaves turn, we have always associated the two.

For those who are planting trees and want brilliant fall foliage, here is a partial list: Chinese tallow, sweet gum, dogwood, maples, camphor, crape myrtle.

Opening lead: king of clubs.

Declarer in today's hand required four entries to dummy when on the surface there appeared to be only three. However, proper management of dummy's side suits would have provided him with the necessary number of entries to suit his purpose.

Agaist the contract of four hearts West led the king of clubs which was taken in dummy with the ace. Declarer had four potential losers; two spades, one club, and a diamond. At least one of the spade losers could be avoided by establishment of a long diamond; so declarer immediately set about developing that suit. He played the ace and another diamond. East won, cashed the jack of clubs and shifted to a spade. Declarer won with the ace, entered dummy with the 10 of hearts and led another diamond, ruffing high in the closed hand. Had diamonds divided 3-3 declarer woul now be in position to claim the rest of the tricks, but when the suit broke 4-2 (the natural expectancy declarer found himself unable to obtain any discards and submitted to a one trick set.

North was sympathetic. Neither of them observed that declarer could have, in effect, created an additional entry to dummy by a slightly different method of timing the development of the diamond suit.

Declarer should have observed that if diamonds were 4-2 it would be necessary to lead that suit three times from dummy. Retaining the ace of diamonds would have provided the necessary entry. Upon winning the first trick in clubs declarer should lead a low diamond from dummy. East will win, presumably cash a club, and then shift to a spade. Declarer takes with the ace, cashes one high trump in his hand, leads a diamond to the ace and a diamond back, ruffing high. Declarer leads a heart to the 10 and then ruffs a diamond in his own hand, establishing dummy's fifth card of that suit. Dummy still retains the king of hearts as an entry to cash the diamond upon which a spade is discarded.

Nov. 14 Set As Challenge Date For Sou. Bell

JACKSON, Miss Nov. 3 (AP)—Southern Bell must wait until Nov. 14 before challenging the Public Service Commission's case against a telephone rate increase in Mississippi.

The commission finished presenting its case last night and recessed until Nov. 14. Southern Bell, which wants a 2½ million dollar boost, presented its side in August.

The telephone company's next step will be to cross examine commission witnesses and offer rebuttal testimony.

The rate increase already has been put into effect. Southern Bell has been bonded, however, and will have to refund its customers if the commission rules against the increase.

Commission attorneys yesterday questioned Southern Bell witnesses, trying to tear down their testimony in favor of an increase.

Witness Russ Johnson of Jackson, president of the Deposit Guaranty Bank and Trust Co., had testified that Southern Bell is entitled to the increase on the basis of a study of the cost of capital to the company.

But commission attorneys, in their questioning, tried to show that the rate of return should be based upon the needs of the company, not the capital.

Garden Center Notes

By Mary M. Jardine

Nov. 13 Is Date Set For Fifth District Meeting

One of the most important events on the Garden Club Calendar is the annual Fifth District Meeting of the Louisiana Federated Garden Clubs. The date is Tuesday, November 13, and the place is the Concordia Parish Court House, Vidalia, La. The Ferriday and Vidalia Garden Clubs serving as hostesses. There will be an important business meeting and election of officers, followed by a luncheon at the Stanton Hall Carriage House, Natchez, Miss. After luncheon there will be a tour of three antebellum houses in Natchez. Registration begins at 9 a.m. with the meeting in session at 9:45 a.m. Cost of Registration, luncheon in Natchez and the tour is $3.50. Please send in your reservations by November 10th to Mrs. Wilton Dale, President, Vidalia Garden Club. We hope there will be a large representation from all of the Garden Clubs in the Fifth District.

The flower Show at the Center this week was staged by members of the East Carroll Garden Club, Lake Providence. All exhibits were point scored by an accredited judge. The Rev. Newton Griffith four varieties of Chrysanthemums in the blue ribbon class. There were White Frieda, Pink Frieda, a large lavender pink, Prince Charming, yellow and Hilda Bergen, a bronze exhibition type. All were outstanding in their beauty and greatly admired.

In the arrangement section Mrs. K. E. Mangum captured top honors. The arrangements were all in the blue ribbon class also. Mrs. Mangum created a triangular line mass design in a color harmony of red-violet into maroon. The triangular pattern was achieved with placements of pussy willow and dark red canna leaves. Red-violet pom pom mums were massed within the triangular line. Coleus in a red-violet shade was placed low in the arrangement to cover the rim of the container. Very lovely. Mrs. C. A. Marlette received second place award. For a container Mrs. Marlete used a white antique compote set on a black pedestal. A white figurine of a seated child was placed to the left of the arrangement adding to its effectiveness. The arrangement was a Hogarth line-mass (the lazy S) beautifully executed as to design. The Hogarth line was created with pedilanthus and violet barberry clusters. The line was enhanced with small pink roses and lavender daisy type mums. Massed into the center of the design were pale yellow marigolds and deep rose zinnias. The pastel color theme was most appealing.

Mr. E. D. Schneider was awarded third place for her composition of dried plant materials. The container was a lovely Chinese brass bowl set on a teakwood stand. The color scheme was tan, yellow and brown. Sea-oats and wheat were arranged in a triangular pattern followed by the beige flowers of nandina and golden yarrow at the base. The low bowl was filled with cluster of eucalyptus pods. Most effective, staged against a chartreuse background.

Mrs. Mangum exhibited our "extra" of the week. Her container was a small cypress knee set on a slab of log. The triangular pattern was of brown pencil cat-tails, and roadside grass with elaeagnus foliage in a light brown shade. Straw flowers in colors ranging from lavender, yellow, bronze and red completed this colorful composition.

Another event that is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest is the presentation of Mrs. Lloyd M. White, Kansas City, Missouri, by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society. The title of the lecture is "Philosophy Through Your Hat", and the date is Thursday, November, 8, 1956 at 2 p. m. Northeast College Auditorium. Immediately following the lecture a tea with the doctors' wives as hostesses will be held at the home of the College President at 221 Chauvin on the college campus. Homespun philosophy framed in lovely humor is expressed when Mrs. White dons each hat, with its respective name and character from her remarkable collection, throughout her lecture. This is going to be a real treat, don't miss it. Incidentally this is the first benefit ever given by the Auxiliary. Proceeds will be given to the Nursing Scholarship Fund and other worthy projects. Price of ticket includes the tea. Don't miss it.

PETER'S WIFE

Peter Pumpkin Eater had a very pretty wife. She was a good housekeeper and she helped him to make pies. But she had one serious fault—she was always running away. If a stray dog wandered into the garden, she ran after it. She ran to the castle to visit her cousin, the cook. Whenever Peter came home he found his wife gone.

So when he had finished his pumpkin house he attached it to his bakery, where he could keep an eye on it. Then he caught his wife—just as she was running up the street—popped her in the house and shut the door.

Mrs. Pumpkin Eater did not mind at all. She liked the pumpkin house so much that she never wanted to run away again.

Color the lower half of the picture with your crayons, and then paste it down on cardboard and cut it out. The diagrams on the upper half show you how to set the pictures up.

Fold back the two end panels on the dotted lines, and put the figure directly behind yesterday's pumpkin house so that Mrs. Pumpkin Eater can look out of the upper half of the door and the two flower pots will appear in the window.

PINEVILLE, Nov. 3 (Special)—Louisiana College's 1956 homecoming, to be held next Saturday, is expected to draw between 400 and 500 old grads to the Pineville campus. Mrs. Edgar Godbold, executive secretary of the L. C. Alumni Association, today announced the complete program for this gala occasion.

It will feature, for the first time in a number of years, an afternoon football game at Alumni Stadium. The Northeast Louisiana College Indians, mentored by DeVonne Payne, former Wildcat player and coach, will be the opposition for the L. C. gridders.

This tilt will be played at 2 p. m. Heretofore, these classics have been at 8 p. m.

The homecoming program will get underway at 8:30 a. m. at the college student center where visiting alumni will register and be served coffee and doughnuts.

Then will follow a colorful parade through downtown Pineville and Alexandria, led by the Wildcat marching band. Several local high school bands have been invited to participate in this event.

The annual luncheon of the Booster Club, L. C. women's service organization, is scheduled for 11:45 a. m. in the Continental room of Hotel Bentley. At that time, Miss Jean Darby, director of women's physical education and this year's honorary Booster, will be presented a gift by Lynda Lewis, president of the organization.

A chicken box lunch will be served visitors in the student center lounge at 12 noon. During this luncheon, Mrs. Cecilia Ward, of Alexandria, will sing, and Dr. Clifton E. Harris, former Alumni Association president and foreign missionary, will speak.

According to Mrs. Godbold, the event will close with a supper meeting to which the association's executive committee and the Quarterback Club chairmen of the various Alumni Clubs have been invited. This will be held in the L. C. dining room following the Wildcat-Northeast football game.

Reigning over the student festivities as queen will be Addie Nell Price, junior home economics major from Brookhaven, Miss. She will be crowned at the football game by Dr. G. Earl Guinn, Louisiana College president.

Queen Addia Nell's court, all of whom will be honored during the morning parade and at the game, will be headed by Gayle Rockett, senior English major from Paquemine as maid of honor.

275,000 Voters In Miss. Likely To Go To Polls

JACKSON, Miss. Nov. 3 (AP) — Secretary of State Heber Ladner today predicted 275,000 Mississippians would vote in Tuesday's presidential election.

He said, "You have to knock off 100,000 votes because it's an off-year — we're not electing for state offices." The fact the absentee vote has been eliminated also was cited as a factor.

Ladner estimated 475,000-500,000 Mississippians are registered.

The record for a general election set in 1952, when the Republicans polled 39 per cent of the vote — 112,966 to the Democrats' 172,566

In 1948, despite the drawing power of the bitter States Rights effort, only 192,100 voted in November. About 90 per cent of them — 176,538 — went for the States Rights ticket on which Gov. Fielding Wright was the vice presidential nominee. The 1940 vote total was 175,823, the 1944 total 180,066. Those were Democratic years, of course, like all others in Mississippi's modern history, with the exception of 1948.

OF MICE AND WOMEN

ROTHERHAM, England (UP) —Police said students caused a near riot at the Empire Theater Friday night when they released 24 white mice among a bevy of near-nude teenaged girls doing "The Jungle Dance of Desire."

Seven girls were on stage when the mice tried to get into the act. Two wore only G-strings, while the other five were partly covered by flimsy veils. The girls and the mice fled—in opposite directions.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Before you give up the idea of wearing the new shapes, try them. You may be surprised to find that you can wear them attractively.

Can Have New Look; And Individuality, Too

Whenever there is a drastic change in fashions a woman has to decide whether she will adopt the new look or wear what is flattering to her. Fortunately, it is possible to go along with the current style and still avoid unbecoming extremes. Many of the world's best dressed women have set the vogue for individuality in dress. Year after year they wear much the same type clothes and use the same hair style because they know it is best for them.

This season's hats are a drastic change and they are trying for many women. The small off-the-face hat long has been a classic and we have become accustomed to it. If it fits in well with your hairdo usually it is flattering. The "picture" hat is another model we have learned to love.

However, before you gove up the idea of wearing the new shapes, try them. You may be surprised to find that you can wear them attractively. Care should be taken, however, if your face is broad through the temples. In this instance some of the current styles may make you look square-faced.

Stylist have made several efforts to get us back into long skirts. Women simply rebelled at this, partly because of the comfort of shorter skirts and partly because they wished to have their dress and suit lengths flatter their legs. It is a well-established fact that the most becoming length for any leg is mid-calf.

In the past, many very tall girls and women made the mistake of wearing very short skirts because they thought that this made them appear shorter. To the contrary, it was awkward and made them look all legs.

If we have a youthful outlook we will be eager to try new styles and new activities. We will find these to be fun. There are two good rules to follow when trying on the new fashions. Remember that today individuality is chic, but also keep in mind the fact that you can take this too far. Nothing makes one look older than outmoded clothes, hats and hair styles.

If you would like to have leaflet No. 51, "Planning Clothes to Suit Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Colmer Comes To Defense Of States Rights Supporters

JACKSON, Miss. Nov. 3 (AP)—Rep. William Colmer (D-Miss) has come to the defense of a fellow Democratic congressan who is supporting the States Rights Party this year.

Democratic National Committee man Paul Butler has said the party should strip Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) of his seniority standing in Congress. Williams has been endorsed by Mississippi States Rights leaders as their candidate for vice president.

But Colmer, in a statement yesterday, said he doubts any attempt to strip Williams will be made.

"It is contrary to all precedent and tradition and moreover such a proposal (as Butler's) smacks of totalitarian tactics and thought control as now practiced in Russia, and I am confident that Butler's suggestion will be deplored by all good Mississippians of all political faith," said Colmer.

Colmer's statement was solicited by State Sen. Earl Evans, the States Rights leader. Evans had asked all Mississippi congressmen to give their views on Butler's statement. No other congressman answered Evans.

Dr. Gordon will take a new job at Ft. Monroe, Va.

The Carville hospital, run by the U. S. Public Health Service, is the only institution treating leprosy patients in the United States.

Gordon's replacement was announced several weeks ago after patients complained about his policies.

3 Types May Be Aided If Voting For Write-Ins

BATON ROUGE, Nov.3 —UP— Only blind, disabled or illerate voters balloting for write-in candidates may be assisted by commissioners at the polls Tuesday, Attorney General Jack Gremillion said yesterday.

He said he had given this opinion verbally to numerous persons over the state. There were reports he was being quoted as saying aid to illiterates may be made freely.

"If such information is being given in my name," he said, "it is without authorization."

"I agree substantially with Secretary of State Wade Martin's opinion on the matter," he said.

Martin told commissioners and voters that illiterates may not be helped at the polls in a general election simply because they cannot read.

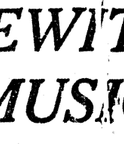

Martin said aid must be limited to those blind or otherwise physically disabled or when illiterates are voting for a write - in candidate.

As a rule, you need to add a quarter teaspoon of salt to a medium white sauce made with a cup of milk.

As a rule, it's good idea to melt marshmallows over simmering water. Stirring often hastens the melting process.

Add a little honey to the egg-and-milk mixture you make up for French toast; helps the bread to brown, gives good flavor.

TV notes

NEW YORK — (UP) — Hollywood's Academy Awards shindig will be telecast again next year by NBC. The date is March 27 at 10:30 p.m.

NEW YORK — (UP) — In case you've forgotten, Judy Garland won an Academy Award for her work in the movie, "Wizard of Oz," when she was a kid. The film will be shown complete on TV for the first time Nov. 3 by CBS — two hours in color beginning at 9 p.m.

CBS wants those who desire to volunteer as contestants for its "Giant Step" quiz show to address applications to: Giant Step, 575 Madison Ave., New York City. The age range is seven to 17 years. Enclose a picture and state special area of knowledge. A four-year college scholarship and foreign travel are top awards.

NEW YORK — (UP) — The production of 'Savrola," based on Sir Winston Churchill's novel written as a young man, was postponed until Nov. 15 by "NBC Matinee Theater" to allow leading lady Sarah Churchill and the producer, Albert MrCleery, time to fly to the south of France and hear some of the author's ideas at first hand.

This is the first anniversary week of NBC's ambitious five-one-hour-dramas-a-week, "Matinee Theater."

"The Jazz Age," a filmed record of the 1920's, will be a "Project 20" feature on NBC Dec. 6. The narration was done for this by the late Fred Allen, his last major undertaking.

Nancy Kelly will play the role in "The Pilot" when CBS tries for a second time to get the play aired on "Studio One" Nov. 12. This is the part Margaret Sullavan walked out on, making it necessary to cancel the presentation in October.

CBS has set Nov. 25 as the date for telecasting for the third time "Out of Darkness," the actuality drama about mental illness. It was shown last March 18 and April 29.

Hollywood may have its Rock Hudsons, Tab Hunters, etc., but TV has an actor named Rip Torn. Honest. Has had several leading roles on the big live dramatic shows.

275,000 Voters In Miss. Likely To Go To Polls

JACKSON, Miss. Nov. 3 (AP) — Secretary of State Heber Ladner today predicted 275,000 Mississippians would vote in Tuesday's presidential election.

He said, "You have to knock off 100,000 votes because it's an off-year — we're not electing for state offices." The fact the absentee vote has been eliminated also was cited as a factor.

Ladner estimated 475,000-500,000 Mississippians are registered.

The record for a general election set in 1952, when the Republicans polled 39 per cent of the vote — 112,966 to the Democrats' 172,566.

In 1948, despite the drawing power of the bitter States Rights effort, only 192,100 voted in November. About 90 per cent of them — 176,538 — went for the States Rights ticket on which Gov. Fielding Wright was the vice presidential nominee. The 1940 vote total was 175,823, the 1944 total 180,066. Those were Democratic years, of course, like all others in Mississippi's modern history, with the exception of 1948.

OF MICE AND WOMEN

ROTHERHAM, England (UP) —Police said students caused a near riot at the Empire Theater Friday night when they released 24 white mice among a bevy of near - nude teenaged girls doing "The Jungle Dance of Desire."

Seven girls were on stage when the mice tried to get into the act. Two wore only G-strings, while the other five were partly covered by flimsy veils. The girls and the mice fled—in opposite directions.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Before you give up the idea of wearing the new shapes, try them. You may be surprised to find that you can wear them attractively.

Can Have New Look; And Individuality, Too

Whenever there is a drastic change in fashions a woman has to decide whether she will adopt the new look or wear what is flattering to her. Fortunately, it is possible to go along with the current style and still avoid unbecoming extremes. Many of the world's best dressed women have set the vogue for individuality in dress. Year after year they wear much the same type clothes and use the same hair style because they know it is best for them.

This season's hats are a drastic change and they are trying for many women. The small off-the-face hat long has been a classic and we have become accustomed to it. If it fits in well with your hairdo usually it is flattering. The "picture" hat is another model we have learned to love.

However, before you gove up the idea of wearing the new shapes, try them. You may be surprised to find that you can wear them attractively. Care should be taken, however, if your face is broad through the temples. In this instance some of the current styles may make you look square-faced.

Stylist have made several efforts to get us back into long skirts. Women simply rebelled at this, partly because of the comfort of shorter skirts and partly because they wished to have their dress and suit lengths flatter their legs. It is a well-established fact that the most becoming length for any leg is mid-calf.

In the past, many very tall girls and women made the mistake of wearing very short skirts because they thought that this made them appear shorter. To the contrary, it was awkward and made them look all legs.

If we have a youthful outlook we will be eager to try new styles and new activities. We will find these to be fun. There are two good rules to follow when trying on the new fashions. Remember that today individuality is chic, but also keep in mind the fact that you can take this too far. Nothing makes one look older than outmoded clothes, hats and hair styles.

If you would like to have leaflet No. 54, "Planning Clothes to Suit Figure and Personality," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Grand Ol Opry Will Appear In Monroe Nov. 13

The Grand Ol' Opry, the nation's top folk music show, featured on both radio and television, will be sending some of it's top artists to Neville High School when Ray Price, the man who sings about the "Crazy Arms" comes to town Tuesday, Nov. 13. Price, a native of Texas, will also feature his new hit "I've Got A New Heartache."

Also receiving top billing on the Grand Ol' Opry show will be the Maddox Brothers and Rose, longtime top favorites on the west coast and in the southwest. They will be making their first appearance in this area. Rose Maddox, now starred at the Grand Ol' Opry, will join her brothers for the program here.

Van Howard, a fast rising Opry star, and Bobby Montgomery, the "Steel Drivin' Man" will also be featured.

Colmer Comes To Defense Of States Rights Supporters

JACKSON, Miss. Nov. 3 (AP)—Rep. William Colmer (D-Miss) has come to the defense of a fellow Democratic congressan who is supporting the States Rights Party this year.

Democratic National Committeeman Paul Butler has said the party should strip Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) of his seniority standing in Congress. Williams has been endorsed by Mississippi States Rights leaders as their candidate for vice president.

But Colmer, in a statement yesterday, said he doubts any attempt to strip Williams will be made.

"It is contrary to all precedent and tradition and moreover such a proposal (as Butler's) smacks of totalitarian tactics and thought control as now practiced in Russia, and I am confident that Butler's suggestion will be deplored by all good Mississippians of all political faith," said Colmer.

Colmer's statement was solicited by State Sen. Earl Evans, the States Rights leader. Evans had asked all Mississippi congressmen to give their views on Butler's statement. No other congressman answered Evans.

Dr. Johnwick Heads Carville Leprosorium, Replaces Dr. Gordon

CARVILLE, La., Nov. 3 —UP— Dr. E. M. Gordon Jr. will be succeeded as head of the Carville leprosorium Nov. 16 by Dr. Edgar B. Johnwick of Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Gordon will take a new job at Ft. Monroe, Va.

The Carville hospital, run by the U. S. Public Health Service, is the only institution treating leprosy patients in the United States.

Gordon's replacement was announced several weeks ago after patients complained about his policies.

The Hudson River is 306 miles long.

3 Types May Be Aided If Voting For Write-Ins

BATON ROUGE, Nov.3 —UP— Only blind, disabled or illerate voters balloting for write-in candidates may be assisted by commissioners at the polls Tuesday, Attorney General Jack Gremillion said yesterday.

He said he had given this opinion verbally to numerous persons over the state. There were reports he was being quoted as saying aid to illiterates may be made freely.

"If such information is being given in my name," he said, "it is without authorization."

"I agree substantially with Secretary of State Wade Martin's opinion on the matter," he said.

Martin told commissioners and voters that illiterates may not be helped at the polls in a general election simply because they cannot read.

Martin said aid must be limited to those blind or otherwise physically disabled or when illiterates are voting for a write - in candidate.

As a rule, you need to add a quarter teaspoon of salt to a medium white sauce made with a cup of milk.

Miss Kerr is seen as the wife of the housemaster at a New England prep school, with whom student John Kerr falls in love. Starts Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

Broadway Players Star In 'Tea And Sympathy'

One of the year's oustanding motion pictures is brought to the Jim screen this week with the showing of "Tea and Sympathy," M-G-M's film version in CinemaScope and color of the great Broadway stage success.

The picture retains the stellar team of the original cast, Deborah Kerr and John Kerr, with the screen version written by the play's author, Robert Anderson. He has done a masterful job in transferring this compassionate, dramatically cogent story of a seventeen - year - old pre school boy caught up in an infatuation with the wife of his housemaster to the wider canvas afforded by the CinemaScope cameras.

Without sacrificing any of the intimate touches, the screen offers the playwright a far wider range in preesnting background and local color. Whereas the play was confined to two sets, the film version of "Tea and Sympathy" ranges from the housemaster's home and garden to sequences on a beach, at a golf club, an ice-cream parlor hangout and a variety of scenes involving student activities, including a rousing Pajama Fight between the old and new boys.

But although its scope has been enlarged, the story remains essentially the same. It is that of the sensitive, introspective student, Tom Lee, whose refusal to conform to the mold of the regular guy makes him an "off-horse" and brings on the derision of his fellow students, his conventional-minded father and the contemptuous housemaster, Bill Reynolds. Only the latter's wife, Laura, understands the uncertainty and torment of this youth, no longer a boy and not yet an adult, and attempts to help him with more than "tea and sympathy." Goaded into proving his manhood, Tom seeks out the company of a cheap waitress and, when his subsequent revulsion leads to an attempt at suicide, Laura makes a decision which brings about a momentous change in both Tom's future and her own. Vincente Minnelli and Pandro S. Berman, respective director and producer of 'Tea and Sympathy," were fortunate in being able to get the drama's original stars for their motion picture adaptation. It is difficult to think of anyone other than Deborah Kerr for the role of Laura Reynolds. It is a beautifully shaded performance of glowing warmth, tenderness and vitality.

John Kerr, as Tom Lee, the characterization which made him an overnight star, wins instant sympathy in the role of the youth whose temperament makes him unable to become a member of the tribe, and Leif Erickson, in the completely opposite part of the aggressively masculine Bill Reynolds, is solidly convincing.

There are several fine supporting performances, among them that of Dick York (Also of the original stage cast) as Tom's disturbed roommate, Edward Andrew's as Tom's father, Norma Crane as Ellie, the brassy waitress, and Dean Jones and Dick Tyler as typical school bullies.

One of the most talked-about plays in Broadway's history, "Tea and Sympathy" emerges as an equally eloquent and thought-provoking motion picture. It represents movie-making at its best.

Record Review

"Patti Page in the Land of Hi-Fi," a new EmArcy release, brings together one of the country's best pop singers, an excellent orchestra and sound reproduction at its best.

Miss Page sounded good even on the old scratchy records but new advances in sound recording enable her now to show her talent as a jazz singer under the best circumstances.

Patti's voice is suited for jazz, and in this collection she gets backing from Pete Rugolo's combo and benefits from Pete's arrangements.

Among the dozen numbers handled neatly by Patti and Pete are "A Foggy Day," "Love for Sale" and "Out of Nowhere."

Another famed song stylist who was a music headliner when Patti was just a kid back in Oklahoma has put some of his best numbers on an Epic LP.

His name is the title of the album, "Cab Calloway," and he casts up some fond memories of the old days with his vocalizing on "Minnie the Moocher," "Miss Otis Regrets" and "St. James Infirmary."

And speaking of song stylists, there are many critics who think Judy Garland is the greatest of them all. Her newest collection, now available on a Capitol slowspinner issued as "Judy," contains her favorite songs, "Come Rain or Come Shine," "April Showers" and "Memories of You" but does not include "Over the Rainbow."

Tops in Pops: "On the Street Where You Live" by Erroll Garner (Columbia), "Jail bird" by Sonny Knight (Dot), "Rock and Roll Tumbleweed" by Art Mooney (M-G-M.)

Best from Cuba: "That Cuban Cha-Cha-Cha" by the Orquesta Aragon (12 Numbers) and "Havana, 3 a. m.," some of the hottest Latin work by Perez Prado (RCA-Victor.)

For collectors: "Burl Ives Sings for Fun" is a collector's item for those looking for out-of-the way folk numbers. These are the one which Ives especially likes and include his "Blue Taily Fly," "Old Dan Tucker" and "Big Rock Candy Mountain" (Decca.)

France is paying philatelic homage to great men of other lands for their contributions to the world as well as their close association with the French people.

The only American in this group is Benjamin Franklin whose 250th birthday is celebrated this year. He appears on an 18 franc adhesive. Franklin was instrumental in obtaining French aid for the colonies during the American Revolution and drew up a treaty of alliance between the two nations.

Frederic Chopin, noted pianist and composer, is on the 20 francs. Although born in Poland, Chopin came to France at the age of 21 and spent the rest of his life and musical career in France.

Soon to be issued by France will be a 30 franc stamp honoring the Olympic games and Pierre de Coubertin, who helped restore the modern Olympics. Depicted will be a portrait of de Coubertin, an athlete taking the Olympic oath and the five-ring symbol.

Pakistan has issued a new series of stamps to commemorate the first session at Dacca (East Pakistan) of the National Assembly of Pakistan. The 1½ anna green, 2 anna dark brown and 12 anna deep red show a map of the "Province of East Pakistan."

Japan has issued a Sakuma Dam commemorative stamp. The Sakuma Dam on the Tenryu River which was under construction since 1952 has recently been completed. It is reportedly the greatest power plant in Japan. The new 10 yen blue adhesive depicts the dam.

West Germany has issued four "Helpers of Mankind" stamps, reports the New York Stamp Co. The 7 pfennig plus 3 depicts a nurse and child, 10 pf plus 5 a portrait of Ignaz Semmelweiss, 20 pf plus 10 a mother and child, and 40 pf plus 10 a nurse taking care of a child. The additional values on these stamps go to the independent welfare agencies in that country.

Two stamps have been issued by Colombia to honor Christopher Columbus. The 3 centavos grey black for regular mail and 15 c blue airmail are of identical design. They show a portrait of Columbus and the Columbus Lighthouse Monument being built by the nations of North and South America.

From San Marino comes word of three new stamps commemorating the third International Congress of Philately. The 20 lire blue and brown, 80 lire purple and red, and 100 lire orange and green show a view of the building where the meeting took place.

EERIE—Hypnotist Louis Hayward sends Teresa Wright back into the past and one of the most controversial journeys into the unknown in scene from "The Search For Bridey Murphy," arriving today at the Paramount Theatre. In the background, Nancy Gates apprehensively watches the eerie proceedings in the Paramount dramatization of the best-selling book.

Ginger Rogers To Head Cast Of 'Teenage Rebel'

The modern - day story of a mother who has lost her daughter in a divorce settlement some years back, and of her efforts to win over the love of this innocent victim of her earlier indiscretion, will be told in "Teenage Rebel" which opens Thursday at the Paramount Theatre.

The Twentieth Century - Fox CinemaScope drama, based on the Broadway stage play "A Roomful of Roses" by Edith Sommer, headlines Ginger Rogers, Michael Rennie, and three stars of the future, Betty Lou Keim, Warren Berlinger and Diane Jergens. The central figures in the film plot are the latter three, all teenagers, who represent the initial phase of the film company's current campaign to develope new faces in motion pictures.

Betty Lou Keim already established on Broadway and TV and with the MGM film, "The Wilder Years," before she was signed by Twentieth Century - Fox, plays the role she created on the stage—that of the teen-age daughter who has developed an extreme dislike for her mother. Handsome young Warren Berlinger also comes to the picture from "A Roomful of Roses," and makes his film debut in the screen version. A product of the Broadway stage and TV, he has won considerable critical praise for his acting ability. The fine notices on his perforance in the TV version of "Kiss and Tell" are a recent example. Diane Jergens, who plays Berlinger's sister in "Teenage Rebel" already has appeared in several films and is also a talented TV performer. Her most recent film role was in "Friendly Persuasion."

Feelings about these youngsters have run so high that Twentieth Century - Fox has cast Berlinger and Diane Jergens in its forthcoming CinemaScope production, "Three Brave Men," starring Ray Milland, Ernest Borgnine and Frank Lovejoy.

On the more experienced side, "Teenage Rebel" boasts the services of Ginger Rogers and Michael Rennie. Miss Rogers last appeared in "Black Widow" for Twentieth Century - Fox. Following his appearance in this film, Mr. Rennie immediately travelled to Trinidad for an important part in Darryl F. Zanuck's next production "Island in the Sun."

"Teenage Rebel" was produced by Charles Brackett, whose "The King and I" is a current CinemaScope 55 success, and was directed by Edmund Goulding, one of Hollywood's veteran directors.

A rock 'n' roll dancing party and an auto "drag" race form an important part of the story and Miss Rogers' "American look" wardrobe will delight all women viewers. Two songs, "Cool It Baby" and "Dodie," now popular on records, are introduced in the picture.

The supporting cast for "Teenage Rebel," initialed as one of the most absorbing family pictures to come out of Hollywood in recent years, includes Mildred Natwick, Rusty Swope, Lill Gentle, Louise Beavers, Irene Harvey, John Stephenson and Susan Luckey.

MOTHER—Ginger Rogers fosters modern views in 20th Century-Fox's CinemaScope production "Teenage Rebel" opening Thursday at the Paramount Theatre.

"Teenage Rebel" a grown-up picture for grown-up emotions . . . starring Ginger Rogers, Michael Rennie, in CinemaScope.

Late show Saturday starting 11:30 p. m. . . . June Allyson-Jack Lemmon in "You Can't Run Away from It" in CinemaScope and Technicolor.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. No. Writer Peter Bertocci says, "Witness a woman of 30 or 40 who is whistled at, or someone tries to 'pick her up,' and you see a woman whose immediate annoyance is also accompanied by a sigh of relief that she is still attractive enough to rate interest from men." 'No woman or man ever passes the age when he or she does not feel pleased to be approved by the opposite sex. The moment anyone does cease to care whether he is desired by the other half of the human race, he has ceased to care about life itself.

Do you really want to be popular? Understanding why is the first step. Tests and rules are made easy in "Popularity" booklet. Nonprofit, send 15c, coin only, and stamped, fully addressed reply envelope to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, in care of this newspaper.

A dissatisfied customer never forgets.

Yes —— No ——

2. Yes, according to Management Information. Most buyers and customers take good quality for granted. They expect it, and demand it. In consequence, they have a long memory for any fault or failure. A man may have trouble with his car and tell everyone he's got a "lemon," not considering the many miles he has driven without any mechanical trouble. You use a certain food product which you swear by. Then once — just once — it flops, so you switch to another brand. Wherever employees come in contact with the public, they should be briefed and given special attention and training, because here, again, the customer has a long memory.

Are wildness, tameness, boldness, and timidity in animals inherited?

Yes —— No ——

3. Yes. Psychologist R. M. Yerkes crossed wild, vicious rats with tame white rats. The offspring were less wild, although more like the wild parent, indicating wildness is the stronger trait. When the offspring were crossed with each other, the grandchildren were still tamer. Psychologist Calvin Hall bred two rat strains for eight generations — one wild, one tame, selecting each time the wildest and the tamest. The wild became wilder; the tame, tamer. Numerous experiments show gentle environment greatly reduces wildness.

INFATUATION—Deborah Kerr and John Kerr repeat their original stage roles in "Tea and Sympathy," M-G-M filmization of the Robert Anderson drama, one of the most talked-about plays in Broadway history. Miss Kerr is seen as the wife of the housemaster at a New England prep school, with whom student John Kerr falls in love. Starts Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

Broadway Players Star In 'Tea And Sympathy'

One of the year's oustanding motion pictures is brought to the Jim screen this week with the showing of "Tea and Sympathy," M-G-M's film version in CinemaScope and color of the great Broadway stage success.

The picture retains the stellar team of the original cast, Deborah Kerr and John Kerr, with the screen version written by the play's author, Robert Anderson. He has done a masterful job in transferring this compassionate, dramatically cogent story of a seventeen - year - old pre school boy caught up in an infatuation with the wife of his housemaster to the wider canvas afforded by the CinemaScope cameras.

Without sacrificing any of the intimate touches, the screen offers the playwright a far wider range in preesnting background and local color. Whereas the play was confined to two sets, the film version of "Tea and Sympathy" ranges from the housemaster's home and garden to sequences on a beach, at a golf club, an ice-cream parlor hangout and a variety of scenes involving student activities, including a rousing Pajama Fight between the old and new boys.

But although its scope has been enlarged, the story remains essentially the same. It is that of the sensitive, introspective student, Tom Lee, whose refusal to conform to the mold of the regular guy makes him an "off-horse" and brings on the derision of his fellow students, his conventional-minded father and the contemptuous housemaster, Bill Reynolds. Only the latter's wife, Laura, understands the uncertainty and torment of this youth, no longer a boy and not yet an adult, and attempts to help him with more than "tea and sympathy." Goaded into proving his manhood, Tom seeks out the company of a cheap waitress and, when his subsequent revulsion leads to an attempt at suicide, Laura makes a decision which brings about a momentous change in both Tom's future and her own. Vincente Minnelli and Pandro S. Berman, respective director and producer of 'Tea and Sympathy," were fortunate in being able to get the drama's original stars for their motion picture adaptation. It is difficult to think of anyone other than Deborah Kerr for the role of Laura Reynolds. It is a beautifully shaded performance of glowing warmth, tenderness and vitality.

John Kerr, as Tom Lee, the characterization which made him an overnight star, wins instant sympathy in the role of the youth whose temperament makes him unable to become a member of the tribe, and Leif Erickson, in the completely opposite part of the aggressively masculine Bill Reynolds, is solidly convincing.

There are several fine supporting performances, among them that of Dick York (Also of the original stage cast) as Tom's disturbed roommate, Edward Andrew's as Tom's father, Norma Crane as Ellie, the brassy waitress, and Dean Jones and Dick Tyler as typical school bullies.

One of the most talked-about plays in Broadway's history, "Tea and Sympathy" emerges as an equally eloquent and thought-provoking motion picture. It represents movie-making at its best.

Adlai Should Take 6th Congressional District, Ike Shows Best In 2nd

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE Nov. 3 (AP)--Adlai Stevenson should run strongest in the Sixth Congressional District while President Eisenhower should show his best ballot form in the second, political leaders said today.

In southeast Louisiana, the Sixth is a mixture of industrially booming Baton Rouge plus surrounding farm, dairy and lumber parishes.

Directly south of the Sixth is the Second District, which wraps in part of heavy-voting New Orleans, as well as fast-growing Jefferson Parish and the rural neighbors of St. Charles, St. James and St. John the Baptist parishes.

The Sixth was singled out of the eight districts as top Stevenson territory by Camille Gravel, Democratic National committeeman, Alexandria.

The Second was selected as first choice for Eisenhower by John Minor Wisdom, GOP national committeeman, New Orleans.

Both selections contain suprises.

While the Sixth was soundly pro-Stevenson four years ago, a Baton Rouge newspaper poll this wek focused attention on the possibility of vote shifting toward Eisenhower in the capital city. The sixth balloted 53,437 to 39,665 for Stevenson in 1952.

Wisdom's choice of the Second District over the Fourth, carried by Ike four years ago with Shreveport recording a two-to-one vote for him, indicated:

1. Growing Republican optimism about better chances in south Louisiana.

2. Concern that the States' Rights party vote may trim strong Eisenhower support in the Fourth.

The Fourth District in northwest Louisiana voted 42,828 to 28,565 for Eisenhower in the 1952 race.

Stevenson captured 49 of Louisiana's 64 parishes, Eisenhower took 15 in the 1952 vote of 345,027 to 306,102. The Fourth was the only district marked for Eisenhower.

The Second District went to Stevenson last time, although the decision was close, 62,341-58,697.

Gravel also predicted the southwest Seventh District, oil and rice country, would be airtight for Stevenson. The city of Lake Charles is in Calcasieu Parish, which voted 15,814-11,102 for Stevenson. In the far opposite corner of the Seventh, St. Landry Parish, rich farm center, gave its edge to Eisenhower.

Gravel estimated Stevenson would make his best bid in the Sixth, followed by the Seventh, then in order the Eighth, First, Second, Fifth, Third and Fourth.

Wisdom, placing the Second District for the first time ahead of the Fourth as Eisenhower's best district, gave this order for Ike: the Second, Fourth, First, Third, Seventh, Fifth, Sixth and Eighth.

The Republican Committeeman, a New Orleanian, said he is better informed on the First and Second districts than the other areas.

With a package of brownie mix, a can of walnuts and a can of chocolate sauce on your pantry-shelf, and some ice cream in your freezer, you can have a super-rich dessert for unexpected company. The baked brownie squares are topped with the ice cream and chocolate sauce, of course.

Be a wise cook! Assemble all the ingredients listed in a recipe before you start preparing the dish. Get out the utensils needed, too.

THINK 38 Before You Vote the Amendments

VOTE EACH AMENDMENT SEPARATELY

We urge to you think deeply about Proposition 38, which authorizes expansion of the deep-water Port in Mid-Louisiana.

Proposition 38 is not a tax measure. It authorizes the sale of future revenue bonds that will be paid off from Port income. (It also includes Ascension Parish in the Port area.) The Port of Greater Baton Rouge is now self-supporting, will continue to be self-supporting.

Remember that 38 passed both House and Senate unanimously. It is entirely non-political.

WE HAVE TO HURRY, DAGWOOD. WE PROMISED TO MEET OUR WIVES AT SIX O'CLOCK

THEY'LL BE LATE

YOU'RE RIGHT-- IT'S TEN AFTER SIX AND THEY'RE NOT HERE YET

YOU MIGHT AS WELL FACE IT-- WIVES ARE ALWAYS LATE

HEY, WAIT-- WHERE ARE YOU GOING?

COME ON, WE'LL TAKE A WALK

DAGWOOD, WE'RE TAKING AN AWFUL CHANCE-- WE'D BETTER GO BACK

STOP WORRYING, BOSS

I LOVE CORA-- SHE'S BEEN A GOOD WIFE-- I'D HATE TO LOSE HER

WE'LL TEACH THEM A LESSON TO BE ON TIME

PLEASE, LET'S GO BACK, DAGWOOD-- THEY'LL BE TERRIBLY MAD IF WE'RE NOT THERE WHEN THEY ARRIVE

WE'RE JUST GIVING THEM SOME OF THEIR OWN MEDICINE

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN A WIFE GETS MAD AND LEAVES HER HUSBAND?

THEY GO HOME TO THEIR MOTHERS, BUT THEIR MOTHERS CHASE THEM RIGHT BACK

PLEASE, DAGWOOD, PLEASE-- WE DON'T WANT OUR HOMES TO BE BROKEN UP

STOP WORRYING

COME ON, SHOOT-- IT'LL RELAX YOU

I'M TOO NERVOUS TO SHOOT-- I'M SHAKING LIKE A LEAF

OKAY-- WE'LL GO BACK NOW-- I THINK THEY'VE LEARNED THEIR LESSON

OH, THANK GOODNESS YOU'VE COME TO YOUR SENSES

THIS IS THE END-- THEY'RE GOING TO BE RAGING MAD

WE'LL WALK RIGHT UP TO THEM AS THO TIME DIDN'T MEAN A THING TO US

THEY'RE NOT HERE YET

"DEVIL-FISH" APPEAR TO BE VICIOUS MONSTERS, BUT ARE GENERALLY CONSIDERED HAT 'LESS!

THE BEWILDERED "DEVIL-FISH" TURNS TAIL AND FLAPS AWAY!

LATER - JOLLY AND JETT RETURN TO JAGG'S ISLAND —

DADDY JAGG, WE'RE GONNA NEED SOME MODERN DIGGIN' GEAR!

WE FEEL SURE WE'VE LOCATED THE SUNKEN TREASURE, MR. JETSON!

WELL, SINCE YOU "BUCCANEERS" ARE SO DETERMINED, I'LL HAVE A DIGGIN' RIG FLOWN HERE!

MEANWHILE — LULLABYE, ABOARD AN ISLAND AIRWAYS PLANE, IS GOING TO FLORIDA —

IF MY "BUDDIES" WON'T STAKE ME FOR A MODERN DIGGIN' RIG, THEY WON'T LIVE LONG!
